SHEPPARD CALLS SHAKEDOWN FOR PURGE ILLEGAL

Sends Warning to Alliance Head.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate committee on campaign expenditures, today threatened to demand action by the justice department to prevent the shaking down of WPA relief workers for political purposes.

Senator Sheppard warned David Lasser, radical president of the Workers' Alliance, an organization of WPA employés, that his proposal to raise $50,000 from the reliefers would violate the criminal code of the United States. Lasser proposed to use this fund in support of President Roosevelt's attempted purge of Representative John J. O'Connor D., N. Y.], and other nonrubber stamp members of congress.

At Hyde Park today President Roosevelt said he sincerely hoped that "the people on relief will not contribute any money for the purpose of aiding any party."

Not Taken as Rebuke.

Lasser did not interpret this as a rebuke. He said the Workers' Alliance did not intend to use the money for the benefit of any party, but merely "to explain the issues in the campaign." Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, recently told the Workers' Alliance at a meeting presided over by his friend Lasser that the main issue is to "keep your friends in power."

Lasser also was encouraged rather than dissuaded by the remarks of Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, at Hyde Park last Monday. Hopkins said he did not like the idea of the WPA workers making contributions for political purposes, but that there was nothing illegal about it. There were indications that both the President and Mr. Hopkins were embarrassed by the plan to shake down relief workers and felt constrained to frown upon the idea for public consumption.

At least this was Lasser's interpretation. When Senator Sheppard called him on the telephone to warn him that the shakedown would be illegal, he replied: "Mr. Hopkins said it was legal."

Still Unconvinced.

Lasser later issued a statement saying the illegality of the fund raising scheme would have to be conclusively shown before he would drop it.

"What is happening in this affair is not primarily a legal question," he said. "It is a feverish attempt on the part of the conservative press to prevent the unemployed and WPA workers from expressing themselves politically. While the Georges, the Smiths, and the Tydingses are permitted to raise huge funds from their financial backers, concerted attempt is being made to prevent our organization from speaking the voice of the unemployed and WPA workers in this campaign."

Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], and Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] all are on President Roosevelt's purge list and the President has denounced George and Tydings by name.

Called Specific Violation.

Senator Sheppard, who first expressed the opinion that the Lasser shakedown scheme would be conniving at a violation of the law, declared after a study of the statutes today that it would constitute a specific violation of the law prohibiting the solicitation of funds from persons receiving government compensation.

Following his telephone conversation with Lasser, Senator Sheppard wrote him a letter quoting paragraph 550 of section 332 of the criminal code. This paragraph defines as a principal any person who aids or abets the commission of an offense against the United States.

Senator Sheppard also quoted sec-

Phone Ban Strikes Anew at Bookies

Cut Off Wire Service After Axmen's Raids

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

State's Attorney Courtney's chop-down gambling squads were joined by the telephone company's rip-out squads last night. Hereafter any gambling house wrecked by Courtney axes will lose its telephone service. The telephone company has assured the prosecutor this coöperation.

While this flank attack on the bookies' lines of communication was being executed, the ax squads continued their frontal attack. They smashed two more handbooks, raising to a total of seventeen the gambling joints wrecked since the ax campaign started Aug. 17.

Where Raids Took Place.

One of these books was at 1547 West 63d street, in the 16th ward. Ald. Terence F. Moran is the Democratic committeeman in that ward, but John E. Conroy, Circuit court clerk, is regarded as the ward boss. The other handbook was the Devon club, 2323 Devon avenue. This is in the 50th ward, where City Collector Louis Rixmann is the Democratic committeeman.

Indications early today were that Courtney is planning to strike at large gambling houses other than handbooks. His men made a quiet midnight raid on a Johnson-Skidmore place at 4721 North Kedzie avenue and chased 150 dice and card players out. No arrests were made and no furniture was smashed. The place was merely closed. Other squads scouted a large gaming place at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue, but found it closed. Two slot machine raids were made in the county.

Telephone Vital to Bookies.

The plan to deprive bookies of phone service, if pushed, will be a terrific blow to the gambling syndicate. The telephone is vital to race betting. The bookmakers use three types of phone service. They receive a large proportion of their bets by telephone from players too busy to visit the betting premises. They lay off bets too large for their bankroll to handle. Most important, the telephone brings them the racing service, on which depends the betting volume which is their bread and butter.

This service gives the betting odds when mutuel windows open at a race track. It flashes frequent changes in these odds. It warns the bookie when the race starts and as it is run gives a call similar to a radio broadcast, placing the leading horses several times in their circuit of the track.

Loud Speakers Heighten Thrills.

All this information is broadcast over a loud speaker inside the handbook. "Service" is the bookie's entertainment offer to his patrons, and at the same time his best business solicitor. The thrill of hearing races called draws patrons to his room, and the frequent quotations of betting

BERLIN ASKS AID OF BIG POWERS AGAINST PRAGUE

Hopes to 'Avoid Use of Armed Force.'

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today asked Great Britain and France to see that the conflict between the Sudeten Germans [Nazis] and the Czechoslovak government is settled promptly. London and Paris were asked to compel Prague to agree to all the demands of the Sudeten Germans. Among these demands is one for self-rule by the 3,250,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia.

Nazi officials who confirmed reports that notes had been sent to Britain and France refused to state whether a similar warning had been presented to the United States.

[The state department in Washington said last night it had received no German note concerning Czechoslovakia.]

Eager to Avoid War.

In its warnings to London and Paris the German government said it is eager "to avoid the use of armed force." This was taken as an indication that the idea of organizing a blockade against Czechoslovakia, with the coöperation of Poland and Hungary and possibly Rumania and Jugo-Slavia, has progressed. Germany now has more than 1,000,000 men under arms for "maneuvers."

Nazi officials who a few days ago declared there still was a possibility of coming to terms with Czechoslovakia today expressed the conviction that the situation is most serious.

Nazi agents in Prague have reported that President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia will outline the concession Prague is willing to make to the Sudeten Germans within the next four days and that they know the contents of these proposals.

England Cautions France.

"Unless they are improved they will be unacceptable to Germany," influential officials declared. "The fuehrer refuses to be satisfied with a half solution. He insists that all the demands of his Sudeten German leaders be fuifilled."

One official added that Germany has received word from London that England will advise France, which is an ally of Czechoslovakia, not to rush to the support of the Czechs should a conflict begin. This stiffened the back of the Nazis. What Russia would do in event of an attack was a topic of discussion. Moscow also is an ally of the Czechs.

The policy of the British government is expected to be outlined tomorrow by Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer. He will speak in Scotland.

Hungary Lines Up with Nazis.

The outlook for Czechoslovakia became darker when it was disclosed that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, had agreed to help Germany force Prague to its knees. The Germans declare Horthy, who left Berlin today for Nuremberg after a state visit here, promised that he will sign nonaggression treaties with Jugo-Slavia and Rumania, leaving the matter of the Hungarian minorities in those countries to be settled later. He is said to have agreed not to come to terms with Czechoslovakia "until the question of the Hungarian minority there is settled."

Hungary will follow the example of Germany and demand full autonomy for its national group in Czechoslovakia. If Rumania and Jugo-Slavia sign nonaggression pacts with Hungary they will not be able to go to the aid of Prague, as they are bound to do under the terms of the Little Entente agreement, and Czechoslovakia will be surrounded by enemies.

The Germans are certain that Jugo-Slavia and Hungary will sign a nonaggression pact soon. It is asserted that Belgrade has agreed to throw its lot with the Fascist states. Bulgaria is known to be pro-Nazi. Rumania alone is doubtful, the Germans say. The Rumanians always have been stanch allies of France.

Nazis Sound Call to Fight.

Consequently the dictator nations feel that they are on the eve of welding a tremendously strong bloc in central, southern, and southeastern Europe. This bloc will be so rich in resources of all kinds, it is declared, that once they are exploited with German thoroughness they will enable their owners to get along without the "weak-kneed western democracies."

An ominous note was sounded to-

Challenge Is Issued to Van Nuys.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Capehart Farms, Washington, Ind., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Raymond E. Willis, the country editor who is running for United States senator on the Republican ticket, opened his campaign out in the country here tonight. He issued a challenge to his Democratic opponent, Senator Frederick Van Nuys.

The stocky little Angola editor spoke before a crowd of thousands in an immense tent on the Homer E. Capehart farm, eight miles from Washington. The farm is the scene of a cornfield rally of Republicans. The rally will continue tomorrow.

Editor Willis dared Van Nuys to reveal what he knows about the political machinations of his erstwhile enemies, the Townsend statehouse machine. The machine decided to dump Van Nuys a year ago, then changed its mind and renominated him.

Speak Up! Van Nuys Told.

During the months he was without organization backing, Van Nuys took several roundhouse swings at the machine and promised a grand exposé in September. He promised he would tell the people how some of their public servants have profited through political manipulations.

"It's almost September now, senator," Willis addressed his opponent, "and this is just the time for you to keep your promise. You will be in a strange gathering at French Lick tomorrow night when you attend the Democratic editorial association meeting, but it will be an excellent opportunity to say what you had in mind.

"Gov. M. Clifford Townsend read Van Nuys out of the party at French Lick a year ago. Tomorrow, again at French Lick, the governor will read him back in.

"I hope the senator will embrace the opportunity to tell what machine leader reported an income of $140,000 in 1937, as he said he would, and make good on his other charges."

Willis Rakes Roosevelt.

Willis did not limit his speech to baiting his opponent. He lashed out at President Roosevelt as an imperialist who once used persuasion with the people but now issues orders.

Describing the current attempted purge of anti-Roosevelt senators, Willis said: "Only recently we have been treated to the spectacle of the President of the United States moving across the nation in an imperial manner advocating the defeat of cer-

JUNGLE STORIES

The Purge Cat thumped the plump sides of the Fat Jackass, and winked knowingly. "Mah frans," radioed Purge, "you and I know we planned it that way. How will you have your steaks?" Red Buzzard allowed he'd have his rare and juicy. "Well done!" ordered Jackal. "Smothered with onions!" sniffed Skunky, the other hundred-per-scenter. The plump Jackass realized too late why he had been brought into the Jungle, and fattened for the last six years. "O, whoa is me!" he brayed, and ran for his life, with his enemies nipping at his hocks.

It so happened that Callmejim, the mighty Polar Bear, was lumbering along the trail right at that moment. He had been hibernating up in Alaska to get away from it all. As Callmejim rounded the bend at Crum Elbow, the hungry pursuers went into reverse and skidded to a stop to avoid a collision. The Purge Cat eyed the Polar Bear calculatingly. Purge knew that with Callmejim he could go just so far and no farley. Would Callmejim join in the chase? The hungry animals wondered. "We were just out exercising the Jackass," the Purge Cat ventured. Purge was very good at playing Dr. Jekyll and Hyde Park.

QUESTIONS: Do you think Callmejim will join in the chase? The tydings from Maryland indicate he will be satisfied with one juicy bite. See the Jackass running for his life. Can he cross the bridge? Perhaps the third-termites have destroyed the structure. See the Husbandman in the distance waiting for the Jackass to return to the common sense pasture. While he is waiting the Husbandman is exercising Cornwallace, the Roothog who has been destroying the crops. Look out, grassHopkins, the Lyre-Bird will git you if y' don't watch out.

Slickers Sink School Cash in Fake Coal Pit

A dude ranch, said Al D. Young last night, can be a headache. But a coal mine, he added, after his surrender to the Du Page county state's attorney's office in Wheaton, can be worse.

Surrendering with him was his bride, the former Mrs. Mae Peterson, former secretary of the Lombard school board. The two are charged with the theft of $5,000 of Lombard school funds. Sought since Aug. 18, they had been in hiding most of the time in Chicago. They were held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each.

The news of Young's surrender was interesting to many persons in De Kalb, Du Page, and Kane counties, who wanted to know what had become of his $500,000 Coon Creek ranch and frontier village project.

Plans Sound Mighty Fine.

They first heard about it last March after he established himself in an Elgin hotel, and revealed his plans. These called for the purchase of the village of New Lebanon, north of route 72, and four miles east of Genoa, in De Kalb county. Young said he proposed to convert New Lebanon into a wild west town and the farmland near it into a dude ranch.

Young showed lots of beautiful plans to possible investors. Then, about three months ago, Young, already four times married and divorced, married Mrs. Peterson, a divorcée.

Lombard Discovers Loss.

They disappeared a few weeks ago. Subsequently, Lombard school officials discovered that $5,000 in tax anticipation warants had been stolen and converted into cash. They preferred charges against the Youngs, and began a search for them. The search ended with their surrender to State's Attorney Russel W. Keeney.

Mrs. Young admitted taking the warants. She did it, she said, to help Young.

Young said he had lost the $5,000 to New York sharpers in a coal mine swindle.

MRS. W. C. HOLBROOK, WIFE OF PROFESSOR AT N. U., KILLS HERSELF

Mrs. Ardys Taylor Holbrook, wife of Prof. William C. Holbrook of the Romance languages department of Northwestern university, was found dead last night in a water filled bathtub in her home at 2005 Lunt avenue. She was 36 years old.

Mrs. Ardys T. Holbrook.

An empty bottle that had contained sleep inducing medicine was found in the tub. Whether she was drowned or killed by the drug was not determined. She left a farewell note giving instructions as to her burial.

Prof. Holbrook was in the apartment at the time. He became suspicious at his wife's long absence in the bathroom and on investigating found the door locked. It was forced open. A fire inhalator squad tried to revive Mrs. Holbrook, after which she was taken to St. Francis' hospital in Evanston. She was pronounced dead there. Mrs. Holbrook divorced the professor last February. They were remarried in June. There are two children.

A Little Piece About Going on a Boating Trip

BY WARREN BAKER.

Martin Ridniker is an interior decorator. He was quietly painting his stomach along Canalport avenue yesterday evening when he happened to think of his brother's boat. And that's how he came to find out what a hardy lot lady sailors are likely to be, and what strong knots can be tied with silken underthings.

When he thought of his brother's boat, he thought also how good the lake breezes would be for the fevers that consumed him. So he went home to 1976 Canalport and got his automobile. In it he ambled happily over to his brother Tibby's home at 1923 South Union avenue. On the way his motor got a little hot and he applied more cooling liquids.

Wabbles to Waterfront.

He got a can of gasoline at his brother's and rambled back to Dock A in the lagoon south of Diversey parkway. He wabbled to the dock. He knew his brother's boat was brown, so he picked out a nice bright green one. It was getting dark.

With one foot in the boat and one on the dock, with himself and the can of gas teetering between them, he was hailed by a nearby boater who asked, rudely, who the helm he was and what the blasted binnacle did he want.

Swathed in Silk.

With that fifteen or twenty women appeared from all sides, screaming, swinging, clawing, and tackling. One sat on his legs, another on his back. Some produced strips of silk and wrapped him up for Santa Claus.

Martin told Sergt. Herman Dort, after the Hudson avenue station stopped spinning, that he never saw so many women gather so quickly.

day in the entire German press. It was announced that Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party in Czechoslovakia, had instructed his followers to defend themselves whenever they consider themselves "attacked." This was taken to forecast an era of greater violence than ever in the Sudeten German areas. The proclamation which was signed by Dr. Fritz Koellner and Karl Frank, assistants of Henlein, alleged that communists are "planning a civil war in the Sudeten German area."

Strong language was the order of the day throughout Germany. Evidently inspired by the government, the Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung, like most other German papers, warned that "Germans in Czechoslovakia cannot be satisfied without full territorial autonomy. In no matters will the German national group allow itself to be treated as a minority.

"A policy of procrastination such as England uses in Palestine, in which the population is fenced off by barbed wire and in which it must make all sacrifices, is not to be tolerated in central Europe. We do not want Czechoslovakia to become a Palestine or a Spain. The way England behaved in the case of these countries might make one skeptical."

CZECHS STRIKE BACK

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 26.—The Czechoslovak government struck back tonight at a proclamation by the Sudeten German party leaders calling upon their followers to defend themselves against "attacks by communists." The government considered the proclamation as an incitement to disorder.

In an official announcement broadcast in both the Czech and German languages the government accused the Sudeten German leaders of magnifying little incidents for the purpose of bringing pressure to bear upon the government during negotiations over the minorities problem.

No serious basis exists, the government announcement said, for the German charges. "Should this proclamation be misused by any one for endangering the public peace and security, those who act in the spirit of the proclamation will come up against the firm and energetic procedure of the state's forces of law and order," the government said.

This exchange of harsh words between the government and the Sudeten German party, which two months ago would have provoked great excitement, tonight passed almost without comment. The citizens of Prague become used to living in a state of alarm.

Within the last three days tension has been heightened by a plentiful crop of rumors, the most sensational of which was that a German attack on Czechoslovakia was scheduled for tomorrow. The tension eased somewhat tonight with assurances telephoned to Prague newspapers from Berlin that the great day has not yet come.

Speculation now centers on the government's new proposals to pacify the Sudeten Germans. It is learned that Premier Milan Hodza and his advisers have not yet decided upon which one of three possible schemes they will present. Most prominently mentioned is a plan to revive the law of 1920, which never was put into effect but never was repealed. This law provided for division of the country into twenty-one districts or cantons called "jupas," each with its own little legislative council and local administration. In 1920 it appeared that nine of the twenty-one "jupas" either would have a clear German majority or a large German minority.

Nazis Weave Web Around Czechoslovakia

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, with more than 1,000,000 men under arms for "maneuvers," yesterday asked Great Britain and France to compel the Czech government to submit to all demands of the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia. The Nazi warning implied that a blockade of Czechoslovakia might be organized with the co-operation of Poland and Hungary, and possibly Rumania and Jugo-Slavia. The map shows how the Czechs would be surrounded. Hungary has lined up with the Fascist powers, thus adding a new "axis" to the Rome-Berlin axis.

LOYALISTS GAIN IN FIGHT TO SAVE MERCURY MINES

Try to Circle Rebels in Southwest Spain.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 26.—(AP)—Advices from government Spain indicated tonight that government troops were trying to encircle Cabeza del Buey, spearhed of the stalled insurgent drive against the valuable Almaden mercury mines.

Insurgent dispatches said Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's forces, now forced from offensive to defensive warfare, still held positions around the town. It is about twenty miles west of Almaden in southwestern Spain.

Gen. José Ascencio, commanding the government forces, has taken enough territory around Cabeza del Buey to keep Queipo de Llano on the defensive indefinitly, government reports said.

Ebro Front Is Quiet.

The Ebro front in northeastern Spain, where insurgent and government forces have battled almost constantly for a month, was reported quiet.

Previous dispatches showed the insurgents were striking both north and south of Gandesa in an effort to wipe out the government's month old salient across the Ebro river. Government bulletins acknowledged a slight sag in its line north of Gandesa.

French to Patrol River.

French military authorities in Hendaye said armed patrol boats from Bordeaux would be sent to the mouth of the Bidassoa river, on the western end of the French-Spanish frontier. They will protect Frenchmen from insurgent machine gunners guarding the border.

Machine gun bullets from an insurgent patrol boat killed a Frenchman Wednesday. French mobile guards on the Bidassoa were ordered to shoot if insurgent patrols fired on Frenchmen again.

PASTOR PRAYS FOR JAILED COLLEAGUES; NAZIS IMPRISON HIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—The Rev. Helmuth Kramer, 29 years old, a former officer and boxer who became a Protestant pastor four years ago, was sentenced today to five months in prison by a Magdeburg court "for abuse of the pulpit." Kramer had read the names of pastors imprisoned by the Nazis and asked the congregation to pray for their safety. This was considered inimical to the state. The pastor appealed to a higher court and his case will be retried in Leipzig.

BRITAIN ORDERS HOME FLEET TO FIGHTING POST

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Whether by coincidence or otherwise, a great part of the British home fleet will reach its fighting station at Invergordon, in the far north of Scotland, during the week of the Nazi party congress at Nuremberg. The congress will open Sept. 5. More than forty warships will leave their bases in the narrow waters in South England on Sept. 6.

The week of the Nazi congress and the fortnight after it are awaited here with some uneasiness, especially since Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten German party leader, will be with Reichsfuehrer Hitler at Nuremberg.

The British have not forgotten the immense value of the action taken by Winston Churchill, then first lord of the admiralty, in the last week of July, 1914, in ordering the entire home fleet to steam northward through the night to its battle station at Scapa Flow.

GUN LINKS TWO GANG MURDERS 18 MOS. APART

Brings Death to Gambler and Alderman's Aid.

Ballistics experts of the coroner's office informed police yesterday that one of the guns used to kill two men on Aug. 6 was the same one used in a gang execution in April, 1937. The victim then was Oscar Klinger, who was slain in his poolroom at 2459 Armitage avenue. The two slain on Aug. 6 were the fourth and fifth in Cook county's recent wave of nine gang killings.

They were Leo [Cowboy] Mosinski and Bruno Switaj, political aids of Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski [32d]. They were shot down by a gunman as they lay asleep in an automobile in front of the alderman's home at 1349 Noble street. Witnesses said they saw only one gun, fired by one man as another sat in a waiting car.

Find Two Guns Used.

The coroner's men reported, however, that two guns were used in the Mosinski-Switaj assassination. Both were .38 caliber revolvers, Joseph Wilimovsky, the coroner's firearms expert, said.

Klinger was a pugilist and a gambler. Two brisk young men, wearing spectacles, walked into his place on April 23 last year, lined Klinger and three patrons against a wall, and riddled Klinger with eleven bullets. He was thought to have been in racket dealings with certain Milwaukee gamblers.

Mosinski, it was revealed after his death, had been suspected of hijacking slot machines on the side. Capt. Martin Mullen theorized yesterday that Mosinski and Klinger may have been partners at one time and were killed as the result of their dealings in hijacked goods.

Finds Cartridges, Records.

The inquest into Wednesday night's killing of Paul Battaglia, 831 Cabrini street, a former Genna gangster, was continued yesterday to Sept. 14. After the proceedings Capt. Stewart Moss of the Desplaines street police went to a tavern at 819 Madison street, which Battaglia had frequented. There he found a box of fifty .38 caliber revolver cartridges and a number of records used by Battaglia in his bonding business.

The tavern is partly owned by Joseph Murphy, who said Battaglia had never been employed there.

The state's attorney's office yesterday had evidence that the killing of Mosinski and Switaj was definitly the outgrowth of their slot machine activities. They had been pushing their own machines into gambling places, largely outside the city. Some of them, it was believed, had been traced by their former owners, from whom they had been hijacked.

Battaglia, prosecutors said, was a "finger man" for bandits who were holding up handbooks. This was the theory expressed at the outset by police investigating the killing. The former Genna mobster was found sprawled in an alley behind 5115 Monroe street.

Harry L. Minor, a gambler killed June 29 in front of 3110 North Ashland avenue, and John O'Brien, a minor gangster killed July 17 at Wellington avenue and Halsted street, were members of a north side gang of robbers who made gamblers their prey, according to the evidence given the prosecutor's office.

GANG STRIKES 3 TIMES ON WEST SIDE; TAKES $1,065

They first drove to the tavern of John Korendich, 1358 West Cermak road. After locking Korendich in the washroom, the gunmen drove off with $80 from the cash register.

A short time later they encountered William Knolles, 1508 Victoria avenue, a collector for the Illinois Bell Telephone company, as he was walking in Kostner avenue near Carmen avenue. They took from him a satchel containing $140 in collections.

At the Hawkins Electric company, 1447 Washington boulevard, the bandits took $845—the weekly pay roll. R. W. Hawkins, owner of the concern, three women and three men employés were forced to lie on the floor.

TELEPHONE BAN STRIKES ANEW AT CHICAGO BOOKIES

Kill Wire Service After Axmen's Raids.

odds combine with the tension built up by the calls on the races to keep them betting after they arrive.

Many smaller Chicago handbooks squeeze this excitement to the last drop of profits by taking bets after the running of out of town races has started. The patrons get the start of the race, perhaps the first quarter in a long race—in which the early position of the horses means little in the result. The loud speaker is shut off. There is a rush of patrons to the betting windows. Not until the last bet is in is the speaker turned on to give progress of the race and the result.

Fear Radio Trickery.

This practice is not followed on races at local tracks. Some of those races are broadcast on the radio. A confederate at a window in a nearby building, listening to the radio, might be able to flash the result to a partner inside the handbook in time to rush in a bet.

Without service a bookie would have to make book "by the clock"—closing his book at the time stated on the program for a race to start.

Find Phones Are Unlisted.

Members of the Courtney ax squads, in their raids, have been instructed to take down the numbers of all the telephones they find. Almost invariably these phones are unlisted.

One battery of phones is manned by a staf of clerks. These men are sheet writers taking bets from patrons outside the handbook. One line is always used to bring in the racing service, and is connected to a loud speaker.

The bookie is the subscriber for this phone. When he opens for business, about noon, he calls the racing service. There his call is plugged in on a switchboard and left plugged in all afternoon, along with the lines of all the other handbooks receiving service.

One Announcer Covers City.

On the switchboard is a master switch. The announcer on duty has only to flip this switch open and he is able to drone his race calls over the loud speaker of every bookie join connected to his switchboard.

Several books which the raiders have smashed have also had a third type of phone, distinguishable by the fact that it bears no number. These are pickup phones, private wires extending either to a larger handbook or to a betting commissioner in a loop office. These commissioners have money on deposit at the race tracks. If a bookie receives a bet which he feels is too large for him to handle safely, he "lays off" part of the money, re-laying part of the bet with another book or with the betting commissioner, who out of his deposit puts the money into the mutuel machines at the track. Then, if the horse player wins, the bookie is reimbursed.

Ask Transfers; Is Refused.

Armed with this information, Assistant State's Attorneys William Crawford and Richard Austin conferred yesterday with officials of the telephone company. They asked cooperation on at least three items. The first was that when subscribers to phone service in a wrecked handbook ask that it be transferred to another location, they be refused. The second was that before service is restored in a wrecked room, the state's attorney be given an opportunity to investigate the new applicant and make sure that the intention is not to open a gambling establishment.

The third request was that when the state's attorney notifies the company, as a result of his fact finding raids, that gambling is going on at a specific location, that all telephone service there be shut off. The fact finding raids have been made as a preliminary to descents by the ax squads. Employés are arrested and questioned, city police are put on notice that gambling exists at the address, but no property is destroyed.

Since these fact finding raids require less man power and much less labor than the wrecking raids by axmen, action by the company on such information furnished by Courtney would enable him to strangle the horse betting business in a comparatively short time, the state's attorney believes.

At the offices of the telephone company it was stated that "the company is merely continuing a policy of long standing of coöperation with the law enforcement agencies, be they the state's attorney's office, the police department, or the government."

Bookie Driven Underground.

His ax squads reported to State's Attorney Courney that their assaults have driven some handbooks underground to save their furniture. They made this discovery in the 63d street raid, where they arrested John Malone, 6428 Justine street, when he admitted he was the owner.

On two recent fact finding visits, detectives found Malone operating an elaborate establishment on the second floor at 1649 West 63d street. Yesterday he was found next door, in a basement.

A handbook raided Thursday at 1362 East 63d street was incorrectly stated to be in the 6th ward. It is in the 5th, of which County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer is Democratic committeeman.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

HINES ATTORNEY FAILS TO SHAKE STATE WITNESS

He Sticks to His Story of Racket Boodle.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Winding up four days of testimony against Tammany Leader James J. Hines, George Weinberg, payoff man for New York's policy game racketeers, late today denied that he had killed his gang chief, Dutch Schultz.

The gang assassination of Schultz figured in the finale of a severe cross-examination by Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel. Hines is being tried before Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora and a jury on charges of conspiracy involving violation of the state lottery laws.

Main Story Unshaken.

While Stryker picked flaws in times and dates of events occurring several years ago, the defense attorney did not shake the central theme of Weinberg's story. That was that Hines had received the gang's money for fixing cases in the courts and removing policemen who molested operations in the policy game.

With the adjournment of court until Monday, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey had called twenty witnesses during the first two weeks of the trial. Tonight the young prosecutor said he expected to call between thirty and thirty-five more witnesses to complete what he calls the mosaic of his case against Hines.

The parade of the policy game kings from Harlem, the colored section of the city—flashily dressed Negroes, West Indians, and Cubans, who were forced to pay tribute to the racketeers—is about at an end.

Dixie Davis to Testify.

Still to come are J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, attorney or "mouthpiece" for Schultz, and Harry [Big Harry] Schoenhaus, the gang's bookkeeper. Both have pleaded guilty to the same indictment on which Hines is a defendant and have agreed to testify as state's witnesses.

The defense plan, as in case of Weinberg, is to rip into these two witnesses of Dewey's as gangsters, who cannot be believed under oath and to accuse them of framing the story against Hines in order to save their own skins. The state has promised to ask consideration for them because of their testimony.

Questioned About Slaying.

Stryker went after Weinberg when the witness testified he had been at home on the night of Oct. 23, 1935, when Schultz and two aids, "Lulu" Rosenkranz and Abe [Misfit] Landau, were shot in a Newark, N. J., saloon. Suddenly pointing a finger at Weinberg, Stryker bellowed:

"Did you shoot Dutch Schultz?"

"No sir."

The answer came without hesitation in the low, nasal voice of the former Schultz lieutenant and with his peculiar, crooked smile. Weinberg, a stocky figure in a brown suit, lounged in the witness chair, his head cocked to one side to hear his questioner.

"Did you put Schultz on the spot?" thundered the defense attorney.

"No, sir." Again the immediate answer with the same twisted expression on the witness' face.

Admits Carrying Pistol.

Weinberg admitted he carried a loaded pistol during the days he served Schultz but denied all knowledge of the murder. Asked about the whereabouts that October night of his brother, "Bo," another Schultz aid whose body is rumored to be encased in a cement block and lying at the bottom of the East river, Weinberg said he did not know.

Stryker went into Weinberg's imprisonment during recent months at great length in an attempt to find out whether he had fabricated his story with the assistance of "Dixie" Davis and Schoenhaus. The gangster witness insisted that the story was his own and that he was telling nothing but the truth.

"What did Davis tell you to say when you occupied cell 619 together at the Tombs [city jail]?" asked Stryker.

"He didn't tell me anything," replied Weinberg.

Accused of Perjury.

"As a matter of fact aren't you perjuring yourself just as you always have before on the witness stand?" thundered the defense attorney.

"No."

"Well, what did you tell Davis about your trips to the district attorney's office?"

"I told him I mentioned Hines' name."

Stryker asked what Davis had been telling him about the case.

"Davis had been saying all the time if I went to the district attorney's office I'd have to mention Hines," answered Weinberg. He told me he didn't want to see Hines hurt. He said he could beat the case."

Questioned by Dewey.

Prosecutor Dewey brought out on redirect examination that he had questioned Weinberg on five different occasions before "Dixie" Davis pleaded guilty. Up to that time the former Schultz lawyer had not discussed details of his story with him, Weinberg said.

The final few minutes of the gangster's four days on the stand dealt with his last months in the racket. He continued operations in the policy or numbers game after Schultz was killed until October of 1936 and then "turned his business over to some Italians." Several months later he went into hiding and was captured with Davis and Hope Dare, "Dixie's" showgirl sweetheart, in a Philadelphia apartment.

At the morning session Stryker conducted a two hour cross-examination of Dudley Brothwell, owner of a riding academy at Fairfield, Conn. Last night just before adjournment Brothwell created a sensation by walking down from the stand and pointing out Hines as the companion of Schultz at his place during the summer of 1935 when the gang leader was hiding out from the police.

Schultz, Weinberg had previously testified, had been living in a hotel at Bridgeport, Conn., five miles from Fairfield, and Hines had seen him there. It was at this meeting, Weinberg said, that Hines agreed to take a cut in his $500 weekly payoff from the gang because Schultz pleaded he was in desperate need of funds.

LAUNDRY OWNER MISSING; POLICE SEARCH WOODS

Find Truck and Battered Hat; Fear Slugging.

Police squads last night searched a densely wooded section of the Des Plaines forest preserve for Julius Borgeson, missing Des Plaines laundry owner. He is believed to have been attacked by sluggers and left for dead in some isolated section.

Borgeson's light delivery truck was found late yesterday in a thicket near the east bank of the Des Plaines river. The spot is about half a mile south of Oakton street in a 350 acre section of the preserve.

Find Crushed Hat on Seat.

On the front seat of the truck lay Borgeson's sailor straw hat. The crown had been crushed as if by a heavy instrument. There were no blood stains nor other indications of violence.

Sergt. Walter Stark of the forest preserve police found the truck. He notified Police Marshal Ernest Drexler of Des Plaines, who led seven men in a search of the surrounding woods. This morning 100 Civilian Conservation Corps members will join the hunt.

The state's attorney's police will join the investigators today. Marshal Dexler notified him in the belief that Borgeson might have been the victim of labor terrorists. His laundry at 1846 Miner street has been picketed since Aug. 17.

Borgeson's wife, Esther, became hysterical when told that the truck and her husband's battered hat had been found. She lives in a modest home at 565 Elder lane, Winnetka, with their four children: Marvin, 13 years old, Jean, 12, Laurel, 10, and Alden, 5.

Borgeson, who is 42, left home at 7:30 a. m., planning to meet his wife later at the plant where she helps him. When he failed to appear she notified the police. He was last seen early in the morning after picking up a bundle in Winnetka.

Union Pickets Laundry.

For nineteen years the Borgesons have operated a small laundry, employing twelve workers on an open shop basis. Three weeks ago their driver, Ronald Sundblad, 19, of 822 Florence avenue, Evanston, joined the Laundry and Dye House Drivers' and Chauffeurs' union, local 712, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Borgeson refused to employ a union driver and Sundblad was ordered to quit work on Aug. 17. Since then he has joined pickets who daily parade in front of the plant or sit at the curb in automobiles. Sundblad and the others were on the job yesterday until the police arrived late in the day. Then they left.

Mrs. Borgeson said the union also has attempted to organize the inside workers. She said that on Thursday her husband found one of the tires of his truck pierced with an ice pick.

This union was involved in the laundry strike at the Del Prado hotel last Feb. 10 when Lloyd Rourke, an independent driver, was beaten to death with a baseball bat by pickets. His slayers have never been apprehended.

"I'll not be terrorized," declared Mrs. Borgeson last night. "I'll take the truck out today on our regular deliveries. My oldest son will accompany me. That is what my husband would wish, I know."

A HUNCH LANDS MANIAC, SOUGHT FOR YEAR, IN CELL

On a hunch, Sergt. William Brown, head of a detective bureau squad, stopped a sun tanned good looking young man, dressed in summer white, at Oak and Clark streets yesterday. The man said he was John L. Gibbs, 28 years old, of 039 North La Salle street.

Sergt. Brown took him to the detective bureau. Gibbs established himself as a WPA worker, employed for six months. Sergt. Brown took his finger prints. These disclosed he was wanted at Windsor, Ont. Brown telegraphed Chief Claude Renaud there. Two hours later Brown received Chief Renaud's reply.

"John Gibbs not wanted here," the reply stated. "Detroit police want him. Suggest you check him with any violent, unsolved crimes committed in your city. Is a dangerous maniac. Held mail train up here. Stole $20,000. Could not be prosecuted. Certified dangerously insane. He would not hesitate to kill any person on the least provocation."

Further inquiry disclosed that Gibbs was deported from Canada criminally insane and was later committed to the state hospital at Ionia, Mich. He escaped Aug. 20, 1937, and had been at large since. A toy pistol was found in his room.

POTTER PALMER MUST PAY WIFE $200 A MONTH

Sarasota, Fla., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Circuit Judge George W. Whitehurst today ordered Potter d'Orsay Palmer, member of a wealthy Chicago family, to pay his estranged wife, Mrs. Pauline Warren Palmer, $200 a month temporary alimony. Judge Whitehurst did not rule on Palmer's cross bill for divorce, filed after his wife's original suit was started.

Palmer told the court his only income was "what my father wants to give me." He testified he had been given $700 a month but that this allowance had been discontinued.

Mrs. Palmer testified she was not an heiress and that she had no means of support. She said she needed about $550 a month for living expenses.

3 BOYS SEIZED IN ATTEMPT TO ROB FOOD MART

Three boys were arrested last night while attempting to rob the Supreme Food mart at 6511 South Halsted street. They were John Taylor, 16 years old, 6345 South Sangamon street; Lawrence Kelly, also 16, of 6447 Emerald avenue, and Richard Grundman, 14, of 726 West 64th street.

Questioned later by Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms, Taylor cried: "You police think you're smart. If I had had a pistol you wouldn't have been so smart."

Police said that Taylor and Grundman were arrested on two burglary charges last March and that Grundman was placed on probation in the Juvenile court two weeks ago. Taylor's case was continued to Oct. 20.

FIGHT FOR LEGAL RIGHT TO PRINT NEWS OF COURTS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Fighting for what it contends is the fundamental right of a free press, the Los Angeles Times announced today it will carry its appeal from yesterday's contempt of court ruling to the highest court in the land if such action becomes necessary.

The newspaper was adjudged in contempt and fined as a result of five editorials commenting upon celebrated court cases. Fines totaling $400 were imposed by Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson on the Times company, $200 on Harry Chandler, president of the company, and $150 on L. D. Hotchkiss, managing editor of the paper.

"Freedom of the press is a right guaranteed by the federal constitution as well as by the state constitution of every state in the Union," said the Times statement. "If the decision of the Superior court of Los Angeles in this matter is sustained, freedom of the press as it is known and as it has been practiced by the journals of the nation is gone forever."

ORTON MARRIES MYSTERY WOMAN OF DIVORCE CASE

Wed Secretly in West to Annabel Adams.

Philo A. Orton, wealthy manufacturer, was married secretly last month to Miss Annabel Adams, it was learned last night. She was the mystery woman in a divorce suit last April in which Orton's wife, Marie, won a divorce after an interchange of sensational charges.

News of the elopement was received in a dispatch from Colorado Springs, Colo., where the ceremony was performed July 16 by a justice of the peace. Miss Adams, about 30 years younger than her husband, who is 64, formerly lived at 215 East Chestnut street.

Orton Denies Marriage.

Orton, who is president of the Orton Crane and Shovel company, could not be reached last night. Thursday he had denied the report of his marriage. His son, Philo Jr., sales manager of the company, said he knew nothing about it.

Miss Adams earned the name of mystery woman when depositions were being taken in the divorce case before a master in chancery. She refused to answer questions because a newspaper reporter was present.

Threatened with contempt of court, she later testified when Judge Philip J. Finnegan ruled that the hearing could be secret. The nature of her testimony was never made public.

Mrs. Orton, who is 62 and lives at 5204 Greenwood avenue, originally filed the suit, charging desertion. When her husband countered with a cross bill accusing her of adultery, she amended her bill to include the same charge.

Mysterious Mr. X and Y.

Orton accused his wife of infidelity with two men to whom he referred as Mr. X and Mr. Y. Mrs. Orton complained that her husband had been guilty of misconduct with Miss R and Miss S.

The identities of the women were never revealed. Mrs. Orton, however, insisted on disclosing the identity of the men accused in order to clear them. She said such accusations were ridiculous, particularly since she was a grandmother.

Before the depositions taken in the case were made public an agreement was effected by Orton's eldest son. Mrs. Orton was awarded an uncontested divorce on the ground of desertion. She was also given alimony of $150 a month from the income of 308 shares of Orton company stock which was placed in trust. The value of the stock as carried on the company's books is $30,800.

FOUND DEAD IN BASEMENT.

Hugh Doherty, 68 years old, retired city employé, was found dead early yesterday in the basement of his home at 6510 South Hermitage avenue. He apparently had fallen down the basement stairs.

G. O. P. DRAWS UP BATTLE LINES AT CORNFIELD RALLY

Senate Nominee Issues Challenge to Van Nuys.

tain men only because they are opposed to his will.

"In the beginning his efforts to defeat persons who opposed him were persuasive. By specious argument and golden promises he sought to persuade, but with the passing of the years his attitude has changed. No longer does he resort to such seductive reasoning.

Voting Orders Issued.

"Today he demands the defeat of those who oppose his will. He does not ask—he orders. Thus easily do men change from advocates of democracy to advocates of imperialism.

"The theory of the divine right of kings once was believed to be dead. Today we are witnessing a revival of that spirit all over the world—and the United States is a part of the world in that respect."

Congress, the editor declared, has become only a sounding board for the President.

"The American government," he said, "always has been based upon the theory that the will of the people should be expressed through congressional enactments carried out by the executive branch of government and that the rights of the people be protected by a free judiciary.

Congress Called Echo.

"Yet within the last six years, without precedent in the history of the nation, we have seen congress turned into an echo by the will of one man. And we have seen the judiciary attacked because it did not alter its precedents to suit the will of that same man.

"Strangest of all, for the first time in American history we have seen the United States treasury turned into a campaign fund, from which money is drained at certain seasons. It is drained not necessarily to meet the needs of the impoverished but to influence the electorate.

"Tonight we face a choice. First, we can continue as we are going—surrendering our freedom and our right to govern ourselves until we approach what has come to be called totalitarianism—old-fashioned autocracy.

"Second, we can retain our government as our forefathers gave it to us, the most advanced and enlightened government that the world ever has seen."

Frank Flays Waste.

Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican program committee, and other party leaders also addressed the rally.

"It is to the everlasting discredit of the Roosevelt administration that it has shamelessly played politics with the needs of the millions," said Frank. "Either through lack of insight or a determination to save its face, it has persisted in hastily conceived, wastefully financed, and ineffectively administered policies long after they failed to work.

"It has stirred, perhaps to the danger point, every sort of suspicion, hatred, and hostility which poisons the wells of mutual confidence without which a nation cannot be great."

The party leaders will remain at the Capehart farm for a larger crowd tomorrow at the Republican conference. Capehart invited the conferees from what he called "the bread basket states."

This is his designation for the corn producing commonwealths of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Missouri, Kansas, and Nebraska. It is Capehart's party and he is footing the bill—to the tune of approximately $30,000.

Hamilton Will Attend.

John Hamilton, Republican national chairman; Congressman James W. Wadsworth of New York, Senator John G. Townsend of Delaware, Congressman Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, and Miss Marion Martin of Maine, director of women's activities for the national committee, are some of the leaders who will be present tomorrow.

Capehart is not a politician. He never has been a candidate for public office. He does not intend to become one. He is an executive of the Wurlitzer company in Buffalo, N. Y. He was born on a farm near Washington and owns about 1,400 acres near his birthplace. He spends a lot of time on the farm.

Tired of Mere Talk.

"I don't like the way things are going down in Washington," he snapped. "And I'm sick and tired of hearing business men talk about it but do nothing about it.

"I've made a little money, so I thought I'd give a party. If the people don't want to do anything after the party, then let them quit talking. I don't have any plans myself. I feel I'll have done my share. What I want to do is arouse people, get them talking, and make them feel that the Republican party can win."

Capehart can't predict how many people will gather on his farm tomorrow, but he wouldn't be surprised if they total 50,000. He is prepared to handle them, in 40 blue and white striped tents, neatly spaced on a twenty acre tract.

SHAPE PLANKS FOR PLATFORM OF STATE G. O. P.

Final recommendations on the Republican state platform for the fall campaign were made yesterday at a meeting of the pre-convention policy committee in party headquarters at the Hotel La Salle. The recommendations will be forwarded to the platform committee at its meeting Tuesday in Peoria.

Attending the session were Edward F. Moore, county chairman, State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Representative Edward J. Schnackenberg, State Senator William King, Otis F. Glenn, Ferre C. Watkins, Edward Hayes of Decatur, James Ringley, Julius H. Miner, Richard J. Lyons, nominee for United States senator; Simon D. Lantz, nominee for congressman at large; William Mulvihill, Charles O'Connor of Aurora, president of the county chairmen's organization; A. K. Stiles of Sycamore, and E. L. Libonati.

Round table luncheons of the Republican nominees, held weekly in the Sherman hotel, will be opened to the public starting Sept. 7, it was announced. James Watson of Indiana, former United States senator, will address the first open luncheon.

LYONS ATTACKS COMMUNISTS IN TWO ADDRESSES

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for the United States senate, attacked communists in two speeches last night. The first was in Arlington Heights before a crowd of about 900. The second was at Milwaukee avenue and Irving Park road, Chicago, where 1,200 heard him.

Lyons said that on three separate occasions he had challenged his Democratic opponent to debate but had been refused. Then, he said, Thursday night the secretary of the communist party [Morris Childs] took up the challenge.

"It is truly strange," said Lyons, "that he should answer the challenge that I directed to the Democrats. I wouldn't lower Americanism by even recognizing a communist on the street, let alone debate America's present or future with one."

Other speakers were Simon E. Lantz and Stephen A. Day, candidates for congressmen at large; Wiley B. Garvin, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, and George E. Lambur, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court.

FARLEY DODGES QUIZ ON PARLEY WITH PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Says They're in Political Accord.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Evading newspaper men, Postmaster General James A. Farley slipped away from the President's summer home today after a day and night of what was apparently a futile effort to persuade Mr. Roosevelt to confine his attempted purge of the Democratic party to Maryland.

The official report on the upshot of the conference between the Democratic party boss and the President was delivered in smiling fashion by the latter. He told reporters: "Jim and I are in complete agreement as usual on political matters."

On previous similar occasions Farley has made a practice of talking to the correspondents after a visit with the President. When he came up here yesterday he promised to hold a press conference after his discussion of the political situation with Mr. Roosevelt. He revealed he would urge the President to abandon the purge except in the case of Senator Millard F. Tydings of Maryland.

Press Conference Canceled.

All this conversation which appeared in the press apparently irritated the President. Then the Farley press conference was canceled. Early this morning, before the President arose, Big Jim quietly left the Roosevelt mansion and took a train back to New York.

Mr. Roosevelt, when he received the reporters at noon in the small study of his home, stressed the "as usual" phrase of his statement that he and Farley were in accord.

He insisted he had not yet made up his mind on whether to invade Maryland to make another attack upon Senator Tydings. It is expected, however, that he will make a Labor day speech in Baltimore against Tydings, who was one of the first Democratic members of congress to grow dubious about the President's program.

The President's attention was called to a recent speech by Earl Browder, head of the communist party of the United States, in which Browder said the President could not repudiate communism without repudiating democracy.

Undisturbed, He Says.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was not disturbed if people called him a communist. He was being called worse names than that three decades ago, he said, when he and Senator Robert Wagner of New York were supporting a 54 hour working week.

Browder's statement was on a par with labeling Shirley Temple a communist, the President added. The child movie actress was listed before the Dies committee in Washington recently as one of the Hollywood stars duped into supporting the communist movement.

Mr. Roosevelt seemed well prepared to answer the next question which asked for comment on a proposal, now popular in California, to give $30 a week to all unemployed over 50 years of age.

Reports on California Plan.

Pulling out a report on the plan from Controler of the Currency Marshall Diggs, the President pointed out that there were approximately 1,300,000 persons in California over 50 years of age, of whom about 600,000 would immediately become eligible under the plan. They would receive state warants with a face value of $30 and every time a warant was used a 2 cent federal stamp would be placed upon it by the user.

Approximately 936 million dollars in warants would be required annually to pay the fifty year old unemployed, Diggs told the President. With the total yearly income of California placed at 4 billion dollars the plan provided in effect a 25 per cent income tax on every individual.

"As I warned in a speech Aug. 15, we must not be misled by short cuts to Utopia, by fantastical financial schemes," the President remarked.

Not only would the warants be ineffective as a medium of exchange outside of California, the President concluded, but there was a constitutional question whether their issuance would not violate the prohibition of the issuance of currency by the states.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Eugenia Pope, secretary to Elmer F. Andrews, newly appointed wage-hour administrator, is said to be the busiest secretary in the capital. So far the only employé of the bureau in addition to her boss, she has the task of opening 50,000 applications for the 1,000 jobs that will be available. In odd moments she answers telephone calls of jobhunters. She has been a federal employé since 1934 and in 1936 was sent abroad as secretary to the International Institute of Statistics.

This section makes it unlawful for any person receiving compensation from the government to contribute money directly or indirectly for the political benefit of any other person in the service of the government. A fine of not more than $5,000 and imprisonment of not more than three years are the penalties.

Letter to Lasser.

Commenting on the law and the fund raising scheme, Senator Sheppard wrote to Lasser:

"Under your plan, therefore, when you collect from a federal employé funds which you use for or against any senator or member or delegate to congress or resident commissioner, or for or against any political object whatever, you are in my judgment aiding and abetting such employé in a violation of section 211 of title eighteen and subject to prosecution under section 550 [criminal code, section 332] United States code annotated.

"Personally, I warn you therefore not to carry out this proposed plan. The committee itself has not yet passed upon this matter or upon my opinion regarding it. I shall submit both either at the special meeting tomorrow or at the next regular meeting, which is to be held soon after Labor day.

"If you proceed with this plan, and if the committee should agree with my interpretation of the law, it is my intention to request the committee to refer the matter to the department of justice."

PARTY SWITCHING INVALIDATION TO AID REPUBLICANS

May Now Return to G.O.P. Ranks in Spring.

Republicans who voted in the Democratic primary in April will still be able to vote in their own party primary in the mayoralty campaign next spring.

Attorney John F. Tyrrell, expert on election law, placed this interpretation yesterday on the decision Thursday by Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski in the Ryan-Mioduski election contest. Tyrrell represented Ryan in the contest. The judge held that Republicans who voted the Democratic ticket in April did so illegally. They had no legal right to switch parties in less than two calendar years, he ruled. The elapsed period between the 1936 and 1938 primaries was two days short of that time.

Terms Ruling Significant.

"The opinion of Judge Klarkowski is significant for many reasons," said Tyrrell. "Primarily, it clarifies the legal atmosphere surrounding the application of the two year law. This was created by the arbitrary ruling of the Chicago board of election commissioners.

"Two years, as used in the primary law, are defined by the statutes and Supreme court of this state as meaning two calendar years. The result of the board's ruling that two election years were meant was that a minority of nonmembers of the Democratic party were in a position to control, and did control, many of the nominations for contested offices.

Inasmuch as Republican votes in the last Democratic primary are held by Judge Klarkowski's ruling to be null and void, the effect is as if the voters in question had not participated in the primary, so far as their eligibility to choose parties in future primaries is concerned, Attorney Tyrrell explained.

Permitted by Interested Judge.

The switch votes were permitted under a ruling by County Judge Jarecki, himself a candidate for renomination, and the board of election commissioners, which he appoints. The judge was conceded to have benefited more than his opponent, Circuit Judge John Prystalski, by the switch votes. Judge Jarecki and the members of the election commission again refused to comment yesterday.

"I have always held that Judge Jarecki's ruling in the last primary was self-serving and directly adverse to his own previous decision in 1936," commented Edward F. Moore, county Republican chairman. "It is unfortunate that a judge be permitted to juggle legal opinions to serve his own personal advantage."

Judge Prystalski said:

"The decision is the same holding which we made before the primary, and what is held to be the law now was the law then."

Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney, who was defeated by Scott W. Lucas for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the primary, said:

Agrees with President.

"Judge Klarkowski is to be congratulated by fair minded citizens on his able opinion construing the Illinois primary act. The judge agrees with President Roosevelt on the immorality of Republicans participating in Democratic primaries. I agree with both."

Judge Klarkowski ruled, in an election contest brought by John G. Ryan against Adam S. Mioduski in the 13th senatorial district, over the nomination for state representative, that the switch votes made the Democratic primary invalid in the district, and that no Democratic candidates were nominated.

Wife of Radio Script Writer Seeks Divorce

Arthur Willard Stowe, a radio script writer, was sued for divorce in Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Velma Stowe, 6101 Sheridan road. The bill charges cruelty. Stowe formerly worked for several Chicago radio stations and now is employed in Los Angeles, Cal. Their daughter, Velma, 8 years old, lives with the mother. Mrs. Stowe asks for alimony, claiming her husband's income is $500 a month. The bill was filed by Attorney F. E. McAllister.

C. I. O. Challenged to Refute Charges of Communism

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The C. I. O. received a challenge today to refute charges made by an A. F. of L. official that many of its organizers were communists.

The challenge was made by Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the house committee on "un-American" activities, in a letter to E. L. Oliver of Labor's Nonpartisan league, political arm of the C. I. O. The letter replied to accusations made by the league against Edward F. Sullivan, committee investigator.

The league had charged, in affidavits and other information delivered to the committee, that Sullivan took part in an undercover campaign against President Roosevelt in 1936, and that American citizens should not be exposed to "baseless attacks" from him.

Charges Smoke Screen.

Declaring that Sullivan had denied the league's charges, Dies asserted that they were beside the point. He accused the league of "raising a smoke screen to cloud the real issue."

John P. Frey, an official of the American Federation of Labor, had testified before the committee previously that communists held many important positions in the C. I. O.

"I note that you have gone to considerable trouble in investigating one of the investigators of this committee," Dies wrote Oliver, "but I am at a loss to understand why you have not devoted your time to the important question raised by testimony before our committee that the C. I. O. had had upon its pay roll many organizers who were communists.

Seeking Only Truth.

"The committee is only interested in finding out the truth. I, therefore, suggest that you spend some of your time investigating these charges and, if they are untrue, in submitting facts to the committee to prove that they are untrue."

Dies said that he had invited Chairman John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. to appear before the committee and give any information he may have possessed with regard to subversive activities. He said Lewis declined and that he subsequently renewed invitations to all individuals and organizations to appear before the committee and refute any charges which had been made against them at the hearings.

"Although grave and explicit charges were made against the C. I. O. in the form of sworn testimony from a responsible source, this organization did not see fit to appear and deny under oath this testimony and these charges," Dies wrote. "Instead, you have seen fit to attack an investigator who had absolutely nothing to do with the charges made against your organization."

LINCOLN DEBATE SCENES WILL BE REVIVED AT KNOX

Galesburg, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Scott W. Lucas, Democrat, and Richard J. Lyons, Republican, have accepted Knox college's invitation to participate in the eightieth anniversary celebration of the Lincoln-Douglas debate at Knox this fall, President Carter Davidson announced today. Unlike the meeting between the two senatorial candidates here on Oct. 7, 1858, this year's event will be nonpolitical. The 1938 candidates for election to the senate will speak from a platform which will be a duplicate of the one occupied by Lincoln and Douglas. It will be erected at the east side of Old Main.

NEW MOVE TO REOPEN C. I. O.-A. F. OF L. PEACE PARLEY TOLD BY GREEN

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 16.—(AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor disclosed tonight that new efforts were being made to reopen peace negotiations between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

After a meeting of the federation's executive council today he said a committee from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union in New York sought him out privately a few days ago and asked for his suggestions on how the peace negotiations could be renewed. They were broken off last December. "I told them," Green said, "and suggested they go to Washington and meet the C. I. O. and see what statements they might make." He indicated that any new proposals must come from the C. I. O.

David Dubinsky, president of the I. L. G. W. U., later conferred with C. I. O. Chairman John L. Lewis in the capital, but there was no sign he had received encouragement for a fresh start on negotiation to reunite Lewis with the A. F. of L.

NORTH SHORE LINE LABOR HEARINGS TO CLOSE TODAY

Decision on Bargaining Agent Due Monday.

A hearing to determine who shall act as bargaining agent for striking employés of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad will be ended today. A decision by the national labor relations board may be handed down Monday in Washington.

Witnesses for two unions who seek to represent the employés testified yesterday and last night before Thomas H. Kennedy, examiner for the NLRB. One of the witnesses called by the unions was Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer of the electric line.

Fallon Testifies for Union.

Fallon was put on the stand by C. H. Smith, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Fallon said the brotherhood asked him last June to be allowed to bargain for conductors, collectors, and switch tenders. He said he refused because of the contract between the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés and the company which has existed for nineteen years.

Other witnesses were J. P. Farrell, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; R. V. Dulin, organizer for the firemen and enginemen, and B. J. Selig, a North Shore motorman.

Selig asserted the pay scale of the North Shore was unfair. He said it not only was lower than the rate for engineers on steam lines but also was below the scale for motormen on surface and elevated lines in Chicago.

The Amalgamated's side of the hearing was presented last night by Samuel Berrong, member of the general executive board. He also is a North Shore motorman.

No Agreement Reached.

Conciliators reported no success in their evening's efforts to obtain a basis for a settlement of the strike, which has tied up the road since Aug. 15.

Federal Judge Philip J. Sullivan yesterday allowed a committee of independent bondholders to intervene in the receivership. Attorneys H. William Ihrig and Robert F. Carney for the committee asked to be allowed to inspect the company's books and properties.

Counsel for A. A. Sprague, receiver for the line, asked time to put the books in shape for detailed scrutiny. Judge Sullivan granted ten days in which to file an answer to the demand.

PRESIDENT SNUBS GREEN ON CHOICE FOR LABOR BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt showed his favoritism for John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, again today. He announced the reappointment of Donald Wakefield Smith as a member of the National Labor Relations Board.

Smith's term expired tomorrow. His new term runs for five years. He is a Pennsylvanian who has been accused by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, of being under the dominance of Lewis and the C. I. O.

Green visited the President several days ago to protest Smith's reappointment. He asked for the appointment of more judicial-minded members to the board. The administration of the labor act by the present board, headed by J. Warren Madden, is flavored by C. I. O. partisanship, Green told the President. Mr. Roosevelt at that time admitted that some changes in the act were necessary to clarify the authority of the board.

By reappointing Smith, the President pleased Lewis and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins but incurred the ire of Green.

$10 LOOKS SMALL TO LAWYER, BUT VIEW CHANGES

Attorney S. Edward Bloom's threat to quit the legal profession for the shoemaking trade nearly brought him a contempt of court sentence yesterday.

Judge Peter Schwaba dismissed a divorce suit in which Bloom represented the wife. When he asked for attorney fees the court told him $10 would be enough. Bloom demanded $25.

"If I've got to come to court to get $10 this way," Bloom yelled, "I'll leave the legal profession. I'll get myself a job as a shoemaker."

Judge Schwaba then told him he was in contempt of court and a bailif led the lawyer away. In fifteen minutes Bloom returned and apologized to the court. He was released and headed for his office at 160 North La Salle street.

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B₁.

HELEN GENTRY.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Helen Gentry, 17 years old, cashier of a downtown store, confessed to police that she faked a holdup in which she handed over $300 of the store's receipts to an accomplice of Haden Driver, whom she was to have married on the proceeds of the robbery. Two other youths were arrested in connection with the theft.

3D BOY ACCUSES ARCADE CREW OF TORTURING HIM

A third boy torture victim of two attendants at a penny arcade in Riverview park was revealed yesterday. He is Robert Purtell, 12 years old, 5231 North Ashland avenue. The concession employés, Ulysses Beck and Roy Larsen, are being sought on assault and battery warants.

Robert Purtell.

The Purtell boy added his tale of torture to that told Thursday by two other boys, one of whom was strung up by his thumbs. Young Purtell said the sadists twisted his wrist and forced him to do a painful and exhausting squatting exercise on Aug. 15. Like the others, he also named Patrick Murphy, a private policeman, as an accessory to the torture. Murphy was discharged yesterday.

George Schmidt, president of the park, promised full coöperation in punishing the offenders. He said such actions naturally are not countenanced by park officials.

Another park official doubted the extent of the torture. He denied any boy was strung up by the thumbs. He said the park is willing to pay for lie detector examinations of the boys.

PREPARE TO ASK DEATH FOR GIRLS IN FARM SLAYING

2 Hitch-Hikers Describe Robbery Killing.

Fairfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Murder indictments will be sought for two hitch-hiking Tennessee mountain girls charged with slaying and robbing a middle aged farmer who befriended them, State's Attorney C. W. Creighton announced tonight.

Beulah Honeycutt.
A. P. Wirephoto.

The prosecutor moved to call a special grand jury into session to get speedy action against the young wives who left their husbands to become vagabonds. Creighton said he would ask the death penalty for the young women, who have confessed the killing to Sherif Earnest Burkett.

Victim Father of Five.

The women are Mrs. Jean Brooks, 23 years old, of Elizabethton, Tenn., and Mrs. Beulah Honeycutt, 25, of Johnson City, Tenn. They were arrested Tuesday at Hopkinsville, Ky. Each blamed the other for firing the flatal shots.

Their victim was Felix Shannon, 56 years old, who lived alone near Mount Erie. His divorced wife lives with their five children at Somerville, Ind. His body was found on a bed in his home Monday. He had been shot twice in the head and a third bullet hole was in the pillow.

Shannon had picked up the two hitch-hikers Sunday at Princeton, Ind., and had taken them home with him.

Identified by Witnesses.

Burkett obtained the confessions last night after taking the women on a tour of the countryside where they fled after the killing. Several witnesses identified them as having been seen near Shannon's home. The women then told their stories of the crime, each accusing the other.

Frank Wallace of Oakland City, Ind., who is said to have told the hitch-hikers Shannon had a lot of money and was "good pickings," was arrested and is being held in jail at Princeton, Ind.

Sought for six months on charges of passing 100 worthless checks in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan, Walter Garb, 37 years old, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Edward Ganschow and Joseph Mueller. Garb laid his downfall to a passion for betting on race horses.

Garb admitted passing the checks on business acquaintences and clients he had known for seventeen years as a star salesmen for millinery concerns. He said he wrote checks for sums ranging up to $50, in all about $1,000. The police said the total default was $5,000.

For four months Garb said he had been afraid to communicate with his wife and their two children. Yesterday he learned they had been evicted from his $10,000 bungalow at 5654 Eddy street by foreclosure.

PEACE IN MIND

By CALEB

A FAMOUS columnist, now dead, loved to observe that, "What man can imagine, he can do." He pointed to the fantastic imaginings of Jules Verne—largely the commonplace achievements of today.

Through the ages men have imagined the ability to fly, to travel without using their own energy, to transmit sound at will through space, to span continents and oceans in hours instead of weeks. They have dreamed of stemming pestilence, of counting the stars and harnessing the vast energy of electricity.

All this—and more—man has imagined and done. But before men did these things—before they were doers—they were dreamers, sometimes for centuries. They had neither inspiration nor goal until their agile minds had gone well beyond charted, familiar paths. Archimedes, Galileo, Columbus, Watt, Fulton, Washington, Lincoln, the Wright brothers, Henry Ford—all were looked upon as impractical dreamers before the rightness of their vision bore home vindication upon a skeptical world.

There are today among us certain other dreamers, and those of us with more sluggish imaginations sometimes look askance at them. These people dream of Peace—lasting, universal and secure. Man has imagined it—he can achieve it—indeed he must achieve it.

Ten years ago the Kellogg Pact was framed to abate the threat of war. Today it is virtually forgotten, and on every side war obtains in fact or threat. The League of Nations is waning in effectiveness. Has man's imagination for once played him false?

The experiments of a Pasteur, a Curie, or the Wright brothers dealt with single situations, predictable sets of immutable laws—and their setbacks and disappointments were many and heartbreaking. The quest for Peace is vastly longer for we deal with variant elements raised in number almost to infinity. The patient, unflagging, endless devotion of all dreamers to their goal must needs be possessed by those who sue for Peace.

Other miracles imagined by man have become sober reality—far more quickly than even the dreamers dared hope. It is not too much to believe that Peace may fare likewise. To that end all adherents may aspire, and from history itself—arch jester at the hope of peace—take courage to maintain that time, which brings all things, will not too long delay the boon of Universal Peace.

MORGAN ALLEGES INTERFERENCE IN MARBLE INQUIRY

Charges Lilienthal with Protecting Berry.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed TVA chairman, gave his side of the Berry marble claims today before the congressional committee investigating TVA. His hour on the stand was too brief to cover more than a few phases of the subject.

Dr. Morgan charged Director David E. Lilienthal with a protective attitude in 1936 and 1937 toward Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.], who was defeated for renomination last month. In 1936 and 1937 Berry was a high man in Washington and a close adviser to President Roosevelt, and Dr. Morgan charged that TVA lawyers were discouraged from inquiring into bad faith by the marble claimants.

Berry and his associates claimed damages for mineral lands flooded when Norris dam reservoir was filled. Leases on the lands had been acquired in 1932. Nine geologists and marble experts reported the claims had no commercial value. Over the protests of Dr. Morgan, his colleagues, Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, voted July 10, 1936, for an agreement to conciliate the claims. Subsequently this was dropped because of the fight put up by Dr. Morgan. The board then voted on March 31, 1937, to start condemnation proceedings.

Claims Held Valueless.

A federal court commission last winter held the claims of no commercial value. The case is now pending in federal court on appeal. Although the claimants asked no definite sum for damages, counsel for the claimants set the value at not less than five million dollars.

Dr. Morgan said today he opposed the conciliation agreement from the start on the ground that it tended to create a presumption of legitimacy in the minerals leases. He contended that the question of the propriety of the marble claims, as well as their legality, was a prime matter.

The ousted chairman said he appeared as a voluntary witness at the condemnation hearing last Dec. 20, against the wishes of the TVA lawyers, because he believed his testimony would help win for TVA.

Cause of TVA Explosion.

It was the Berry marble case that caused the explosion in the TVA last March, Dr. Morgan's demand for a congressional inquiry, and his subsequent dismissal from the TVA board by President Roosevelt on March 22. Dr. Morgan has a suit pending in federal court challenging the right of the President to remove him.

Earlier in the day Harcourt Morgan, acting TVA chairman, gave his side of the Berry marble claims. His testimony, however, adduced little not already presented by Director Lilienthal and TVA staf officers.

Dr. Morgan declared Evans Dunn, TVA lawyer, who handled the condemnation suit, was discouraged from making inquiries into the issue of bad faith on the part of Berry and associates. He denied saying Dunn got orders to this effect from Lilienthal or from James L. Fly, TVA general counsel. He asserted influences may come in other ways than instructions.

Quotes Lilienthal.

"For example," he said, "at a meeting, I believe it was Feb. 25, 1937, Lilienthal said: 'I have been reading reports from staf members that impute bad faith to labor leaders. I have read enough of that sort of stuff and wish to hear no more of this.' Later he said he wished to withdraw that remark."

[Berry, in the 1936 campaign, had been chief of Labor's Nonpartisan league, formed by him and John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. to gather the labor vote for the Roosevelt ticket. Berry is head of the pressmen's union.]

Answering other questions from Francis Biddle, committee counsel, Dr. Morgan dwelt on meetings at which he declared Lilienthal and sometimes Harcourt A. Morgan indicated an attitude toward Berry.

"In a meeting Sept. 15, 1936," said Dr. Morgan, "Lilienthal took an attitude, and in substance said this matter should be treated as an honorable thing by an honorable person."

"Is that the partisanship you speak of?" asked Biddle.

"I recall," said Dr. Morgan, "that when I was urging that Berry answer my letter [asking questions about the marble leases] Lilienthal said that would be too hard on Maj. Berry. His attitude was one of intolerance towards me, of partisanship toward Berry.

"At the meeting Feb. 24 or 25, 1937 [when the conciliation agreement was reaffirmed], Lilienthal said Maj. Berry should not be persecuted for being a government official. His manner in saying this was aggressive."

Phosphate Causes Stir.

A report of the United States controler general's office on phosphate land purchases by TVA stirred a brief controversy in the committee earlier in the day. Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] declared that although he had asked for the report three weeks ago, he had not seen it.

The phosphate tract in question is at Franklin, Tenn. The International Agricultural corporation made a profit of $527,185 on its sale to TVA.

Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman of the committee, said the report of the controler general's office already is on file and suggested that the committee take it up in closed session. TVA Counsel Fly also recommended this procedure, declaring that under the law the TVA should have an opportunity to examine the report before it is made public.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.] objected strenuously.

"I'll tell this committee and I'll tell the world," he asserted, "that if this audit is given to the TVA before we get it, we might as well close up and go home."

The committee will decide tomorrow on how to handle the matter.

YOUNG GERMAN SAILS ACROSS ATLANTIC IN YAWL 30 FEET LONG

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Heinrich Garbens, 29 years old, of Hamburg, Germany, sailed across the Atlantic in a thirty foot yawl he built himself, but he is going home on a liner. He dropped anchor here yesterday after a passage of three months and three days.

[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Storms tossed Garbens' craft about and most of his provisions went overboard, but he says he doesn't believe he shipped more than twenty-five gallons of water. He left Hamburg May 22 and put in at Horta, the Azores, July 6. After five days he set sail again and skirted Bermuda on his way to New York. A shark followed him for almost a week.

As for sailing across the Atlantic in a small boat—Garbers believes that driving a car in a great city is more hazardous.

HEIR OF DOLLAR FAMILY IN COMA FROM SEDATIVE

H. Stuart Dollar, grandson of Capt. Robert Dollar, founder of the Dollar Steamship lines, was recovering in Grant hospital yesterday from an apparent overdose of a sedative. He was taken there Thursday night when his wife was unable to awaken him.

Dr. David A. Herstein said he was puzzled as to the cause of the coma. Mrs. Dollar told him, he said, that she had been unable to awaken her husband Thursday morning and had gone back to sleep. She awoke about 6 p. m. and called for aid when she still couldn't rouse Dollar. Mrs. Dollar, the former Miss Wilma Peterson, who eloped with Dollar last June, denied that she and her husband had quarreled.

Dollar, who is 26 year sold, has been working in the Chicago office of the line for the last year. He is a nephew of R. Stanley Dollar, president of the lines. The Dollars live at 910 Lawrence avenue.

Here's a Novel to Rival 'Gone with the Wind'

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

". . . and Tell of Time," by Laura Krey. [Houghton-Mifflin, $2.75.] Published a week ago today.

A novel out of the same dye-pot as "Gone with the Wind," inevitably comparable to it, and destined for popularity for the same reasons, is this long, detailed tale of the reconstruction in Texas.

The colors are those of the same vivid Confederate stars and bars, both psychologically and factually, for the Brazos country of Texas was settled by Virginians, and almost until the last pages of this tale the heroine feels that Georgia is "home." The same paternalistic care of the blacks by their former masters is in these pages; their same devotion to their former white owners; the same bitter denunciation of the Yankees; the same ingrown and ingrowing hatred of them by the "conquered."

One book is about what history calls a war and the other about what history calls a reconstruction. But Laura Krey's reconstruction had a good many of the horrors of Margaret Mitchell's war and post-war days, and both concern completely unreconstructed psychologies. "Gone with the Wind" is more a series of melodramatic incidents, like shrapnel bursting as it hits, filling the air with splintering fragments. ". . . and Tell of Time" is more like one sharp-nosed shell on its way to the target.

Laura Krey has written an impressive novel about a spectacular period in American history, and she has done it from the point of view of her characters, consistently seeing only the wrongs of their conquerors and never their own. Only southerners knew what was best for Negroes, only northerners ever mistreated them. The Ku Klux Klansmen [Hunters, in this book] were members of a noble organization which saved the country. The rest of the apologia of the old south is here embalmed, as is also a good story of pioneer days.

". . . and Tell of Time" is the kind of novel that always has been and always will be popular. But after reading so many of that kind of late, even such a competent one as this and with a locale as yet unsung in popular fiction, one is reminded of Marmion's dictum, "'Tis an old tale, often told."

Anne Parrish Offers Deft Character Study.

"Mr. Despondency's Daughter," by Anne Parrish. [Harpers, $2.50.] Published Wednesday.

As different from the high panoplied historical novel as it is possible to go in fiction is Anne Parrish's satirical record of the almost complete devastation which a "devoted" mother and an "unselfish" woman can wreak in the lives about her.

In "Mr. Despondency's Daughter," Anne Parrish writes—in the first person—of a middle aged woman who is brought up suddenly against a suspicion of her inner promptings by a psychologist whom she has called in to prescribe for her 40 year old son. She thinks her son's devotion to her one of the most beautiful relationships in the world, as she feels that her own violently possessive devotion to her children has always been.

With a brilliant and accurate hand as sure as a surgeon's, Anne Parrish finds the very nerve ganglions of this woman's selfishness, and she pictures her with subtle skill at the same time exactly as she sees herself and as she really is. The causes as well as the effects of her heroine's possessiveness emerge from Anne Parrish's pages, heightened by satire, made memorable by subtle wit.

This Benet Short Story Has Tang of a Legend.

"Johnny Pye and the Fool Killer," by Stephen Vincent Benet. [Farrar and Rinehart, $1].

This is a short story with the tang of legend about it. Johnny Pye, an orphan working for a miller in a small town, was wont to be chastised by his employer with "Well, Johnny Pye, the Fool Killer ought to be 'long for you most any day now. For I never did see a boy that was such a fool." That naturally gave Johnny a dread of the gentleman, and he set out to associate only with people who were not fools and therefore not attractive to the menace.

Johnny Pye worked for a medicine man, for a merchant, for an inventor, for a minister, for a fiddler, and for others between times. He joined the army, he went to Washington and talked to the President, but in every case he heard the heavy thud of the Fool Killer's feet coming after him and he went on.

Then he was made postmaster of Martinsville and married the woman who as a little girl had always said at school that he was no fool. And they had children. And one died. And his wife died. And finally, at 92, he met the Fool Killer face to face. The Fool Killer offered to spare Johnny Pye until the last judgment because of the way he answered a question. The question was: "How can a man be a human being and yet not be a fool?" Then Johnny Pye did the wisest thing he had ever done. He refused the Fool Killer's offer.

Girlhood Adventures Provoking of Mirth.

"My Sister Eileen," by Ruth McKenney. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.]

The youthful adventures of the two McKenney girls, which have sent the readers of the New Yorker into stitches, are here assembled for the delectation of those who see their own childhood pranks glazed with glory. Ruth, the author, recalls her girlhood with a flip gayety that is very amusing if you don't read too much of it at a time. A trip straight through the book is like a comparable one through a joke book—the guffaws get less and less spontaneous, whereas either volume, read at random, offers chuckles.

Saint Patrick Followed in an Unusual Journey.

"I Follow Saint Patrick," by Oliver St. John Gogarty. [Reynal and Hitchcock, $3.]

In the highly personal manner of his "As I Was Going Down Sackville Street," Oliver St. John Gogarty has written of a journey which he took over Ireland to find out all that he could about Saint Patrick, who is chronicled in more legends than any man who ever set foot on Irish soil. The result is an unusual book. It is filled with some sincere research, with many sincere convictions, and with some witty and happily high-handed dogmatism [he settles the much mooted matter of Saint Patrick's birthplace, and that's that]. The book also shows a sort of pious love for the land where the little English lad served as slave-shepherd many centuries ago and to which he returned as missionary bishop.

Able Portrayal of People Who Live in Maine

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

"Assignment Down East," by Henry Buxton. [Daye, $3.]

"In a large measure," writes Henry Buxton, "Maine has remained immune to influences which have flattened living to a prosaic level in many states."

He proceeds to prove this in a book chockful of anecdotes and character sketches of the people of Maine. He has high reportorial ability and a grasp of the homely, steady philosophy of these people. That his writing adventures were labors of love is apparent in every page.

Mr. Buxton has talked to retired deep water captains, and thrilled with them as they recounted their exploits in the heyday of sailing. He has gone into farm houses and talked to the women who remained behind while their men fought for livelihoods in strange lands.

There is a reminiscence of the music of Swinburne in these pages: "In the teeth of the glad salt weather, In the blown wet face of the sea."

The men Buxton met had known such moments. And he has written faithfully of them.

An Interesting Record of a Born Wanderer.

"Goose Feathers," by George Digby. [Dutton, $3.]

George Digby's career has extended over a broader canvas than Mr. Buxton's, but the same observing technique is there. Born on a goose feathered bed, Mr. Digby was fated to wander, according to the old saying. At 17 he went to work on a tea estate in Ceylon. Later he went to New Guinea on a newspaper assignment. Then there were experiences in New Zealand, North Africa, and Canada. Once he nearly got a job as publicity man for the Japanese government, although he liked the Chinese. His impressions are sharply and well recorded.

Kaleidoscopic Views of Post-War Europe.

"Further," by Amelie Posse-Brazdova. [Dutton, $3.50.]

Mme. Amelie Posse-Brazdova, wife of a Czech artist, has journeyed in the great cities and little corners of Europe. She has known Masaryk, Toscanini, Dr. Axel Munthe, Mussolini, and many other famous figures. And she has known the wandering beggar, the little country vicar. She writes of them all, continuing the theme of her previous book, "Sardinian Sideshow," and embellishing the narrative with a subjective attitude. This book is a kaleidoscope of Europe in the years after the great war and of our day now when conflict threatens again.

Looking Over Latest Books

A Nice Blend of Travel, Biography, and Humor.

"Living Abroad," by Norval Richardson. [Lippincott, $2.50.]

For seven years Norval Richardson was secretary of the American embassy in Rome. Since his retirement he and his family have roamed western Europe, from the left bank of Paris and the sunny slopes of Florence to Switzerland, where they built a tiny chalet, and Brittany. With them perforce went Lucy, a charming cat found crouching at the foot of Michelangelo's David in Florence, a leech-like Italian family, and Tony, a hen chasing Swiss hund who whined his frozen self into their hearts in Gstaad.

Of the joys and discomfitures alike of their various households, climates, and neighbors, Mr. Richardson writes in a gay, amusing vein. With a gift for anecdote as well as for apt description, he weaves in gentle hours with Gertrude Stein and others. Once opened, his book is irresistible.

One View on Europe; U. S. in World Affairs.

"Conscript Europe," by Randolph Leigh. [Putnam's, $3.]

"The United States in World Affairs in 1937," by Whitney H. Shepardson in collaboration with William O. Scroggs. [Harpers, $3.]

The theme of "Conscript Europe" is that the whole European concept of today is utterly alien to the American ideal. Pointing out that France and England are making an intensive drive for American sympathy and support, Mr. Leigh seeks to show by his analysis that they are as decrepit, bankrupt, caste conscious, and undemocratic as Italy, Germany, or soviet Russia. Many persons will disagree with the author. However, looking at the apparent facts Mr. Leigh has brought together to support his case, they will engage in some healthful mental gymnastics.

Armed with "Conscript Europe" it is a bit fearsome to approach "The United States in World Affairs." This impartial survey of American diplomatic activity leaves you wondering just what is "the American ideal." The volume does an admirable job of summarizing a hectic year in foreign affairs and covering the significant phases of American participation in them. It is sufficiently interpretative to interest the average reader, and has the facts and documentation that the student of current history would want.

Stirring Novel Gives Goya Breath of Life.

"Goya, Rebellious Genius," by Marion Chapman. [Egmont Press, $2.50.]

Marion Chapman has done for Spain's great eighteenth century painter what "Lust for Life" did for the Dutchman, Van Gogh. Using an impetuous, dynamic prose to match the virility and realism of his own medium, Miss Chapman breathes hot life into the last of the old masters and the first of the moderns—Goya.

Backed by sound research and an intimate knowledge of the times, the author has created a passionately stirring semi-historical novel, rather than a biography. It is the portrait of a full blooded man, an artist who never compromised with truth, who splashed life with reds and yellows into a decadent Spain, and whose vital curiosity for every meandering of that life remained undimmed.

The son of a peasant, Goya became the most noted man of his country. Bounding from peasant's bed to a duchess' boudoir, from bull ring to studio, his audacious daring carried him to royal favor, where his bold brush satirized even the king. His was a genius that rebelled at meanness, injustice, venality, and hypocrisy.

The purpose of this remarkable photographic manual is the teaching of resourcefulness to the mind behind the lens. Throughout, the authors refer to "making" pictures, not "taking" them, and that is just what they mean. They don't believe in taking what you find; they believe you should make something remarkable out of something ordinary. And they come nearer showing you how to do it than any other photographic writers of recent years.

The processes and tricks of the trade are made plain in simple, descriptive language. There are 375 halftones to illustrate the explanations. The book begins with statues, because they can't run away, then goes into action shots, portraiture, interiors, candid shots and, finally, it teaches you how to haunt a house. After reading the book once and testing a few of the methods it teaches, this amateur photographer believes "The Fun of Photography" is the most remarkable manual in its field.

A Lot of Hocus-Pokus in This Mystery Tale.

"Death from a Top Hat," by Clayton Rawson. [Putnam, $2.]

Two magicians are found dead within twenty-four hours. Each is in a sealed room. The suspects are either escape artists, mediums, students of the occult, or mind readers. Consequently the ogle eyed police, after an hour of watching suspects disappear in thin air, are glad to call on the great Merlini, retired conjurer, to solve the problems. Clayton Rawson, author of this better than average mystery, his first, is an advertising artist whose hobby is magic. He knows all the tricks, and plays fair with the reader by explaining every phenomenon as it occurs. But even at that, the reader may agree with Police Inspector Gavigan that with all the hocus-pocus going on, what he needs most is an occult glossary.

Highlights in Career of N. Y. Policewoman

"My Double Life," by Mary Sullivan. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

Mary Sullivan is the head of the policewoman's bureau of the New York City police department. She has spent twelve of her twenty-eight years on the force in that job. In a simple, pleasant way she tells the highlights of her career. Little of her story is sordid and all of it is interesting. The incidents she relates are well selected to tell the story of a policewoman's job.

RETAIL PRICE $5.00
In this book, the world's leading man of letters retells an old, old story, and few works of literature have received more general praise. It is the latest book-dividend selected for free distribution among Book-of-the-Month Club members. Mail coupon to the right, if you are interested.

THOMAS MANN

THE BOOKS above are presented as an illustration of the kind of book given, free, to Book-of-the-Month Club members—as book-dividends. Their average retail price was $4.00.

The book-of-the-month is always among the most popular current books. Whenever it is a book you are anxious not to miss, obviously you benefit enormously by buying it from the Club—because of this unique book-dividend system. Last year over $2,500,000 worth of books were distributed free—not sold, mind you!—among the Club's members.

But please understand, you are never obliged to take the book-of-the-month our judges choose. Nor are you expected to buy one book every month. All important new books are very carefully reported upon. As a member, you can do one of three things in any month: order the book-of-the-month; order some other new book you are particularly anxious not to miss (you would be charged only the regular retail price, plus postage); or, instruct the Club not to send you any book at all.

The simple offer we make here is this: mail the inquiry coupon below, and we will put aside a copy of this great novel of Thomas Mann. We will then at once send you a booklet outlining what the Book-of-the-Month Club does for book-readers. Incidentally, all the advantages, which the Club provides, cost you nothing. There are no fees for joining; you pay no fixed sum per year. All you need do is buy four books a year from the Club, and you pay for each book as you get it.

If you decide to join the Club, and send in your subscription, we shall at once send you the two-volume edition of JOSEPH IN EGYPT being held for you. Over 175,000 book-reading families now use this sensible and economical means of keeping up with the best new books.

U. S. SENDS STERN PROTEST TO TOKIO ON PLANE ATTACK

Public Feeling Aroused, Hull's Note Declares.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The United States today sent a stern protest to Japan over the destruction of a Chinese commercial air liner Wednesday which cost fourteen lives.

The protest, in a note prepared by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, was delivered to the Japanese foreign office by Joseph C. Grew, American ambassador to Tokio.

"My government desires to express its emphatic objection to the jeopardizing in this way of the lives of Americans as well as other noncombatant occupants of unarmed civilian planes engaged in clearly recognized and established commercial services over a regularly scheduled air route," the note said.

Tokio Claim Called False.

The note called false the Tokio assertion that all of the occupants of the plane escaped uninjured when the craft was brought down at Macao, near Hongkong. The Japanese government had insisted the plane was forced down on the water merely to permit an inspection by Japanese.

[Dispatches from Hongkong last night said four bodies had been recovered from the plane's wreckage.]

"This attack upon the plane has aroused public feeling in the United States," Hull's note declared.

Hull's protest was based on evidence, obtained by the American government, that the plane was subjected to machine gun fire, forced down and fired upon again until it sank. The government also was informed that a few survivors who attempted to swim to safety were fired on by the Japanese planes which brought down the liner.

Brands Attack Unwaranted.

Among those who escaped by swimming was the pilot of the plane, Hugh L. Wood of Winfield, Kas. There were two other survivors from the plane.

"Acting under instructions," said the Hull note, delivered by Ambassador Grew, "I have the honor on behalf of my government to protest against the unwaranted attack on Aug. 24, 1938, near Macao, by Japanese airplanes upon a commercial airplane operated by the China National Aviation corporation.

"I am directed to point out that not only was the life of an American national directly imperiled, but loss was also occasioned to American property interests, as the Pan-American Airways has a very substantial interest in the China National Aviation corporation.

"I am directed to invite the special attention to the following points in the account of Pilot Wood:

"The China National Aviation corporation plane was pursed by Japanese planes which started machine-gunning; after the China National Aviation corporation plane had successfully landed it was followed down by Japanese pursuit planes which continued to machine-gun it until it had sunk, and when Pilot Wood started swimming across the river he was followed by one of the Japanese planes which continued to machine gun him."

O'BRIEN DODGES AN APPOINTMENT FOR MENTAL TEST

Lawrence C. O'Brien, former power in the 42d ward, had an appointment Thursday with Dr. David B. Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, but failed to keep it. His examination was ordered by Judge Nuncio J. Bonelli early this week when O'Brien became argumentative during his trial on an assault and battery charge.

"I've notified Judge Bonelli," Dr. Rotman said yesterday, "but I think O'Brien will come in before the date set for the case to resume."

Ross P. Ceffalio, attorney for O'Brien in the assault case, said he thought O'Brien was ill and had called up and postponed the examination. A telephone call to a tavern at 951 North Wells street, where inquiries were directed, reached some one who said he was O'Brien. He was asked about his appointment with Dr. Rotman. He hung up.

WAUKEGAN LOSES ITS OBOE STAR TO U. S. MARINE BAND

Waukegan's musical loss yesterday was the United States marine band's gain. For Eugene Graham, 18 years old, eldest of four brothers, is giving up playing oboe in the family orchestra at 28 North Elmwood avenue, Waukegan, to join the band.

"Made good. May not be back," read the telegram he sent his father, Otto, from Washington. Eugene was accepted by Capt. Taylor Branson, director of the marine band, after playing two difficult selections.

Eugene learned to play the piano at 4, the violin at 6, and then the clarinet and oboe. He won state and national oboe championships in 1936. Two brothers, Otto Jr. and Victor, are also accomplished musicians. The fourth brother, Richard, 7 years old, has played piano for two years.

Bullet Fragment Hits U. S. Consulate in Canton Raid

CANTON, China, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The United States consulate in suburban Shameen was struck by a fragment of an anti-aircraft bullet today when Japanese bombers raided Canton. No one at the consulate was directly endangered. The missil smashed a window in the servants' quarters. Twelve bombs fell in the Wongsha station district, killing one person and causing extensive property damage.

Open Attack to End War Before Winter

Japanese troops lashed out at Chinese defenders in six sectors of the Yangtze river front yesterday, hoping to conquer Chiang Kai-shek's army before snow flies. One column was near Liuan (1), advancing toward the Peking-Hankow railway. Another sought to advance at Hwangmei (2). Juichang (3) fell to the Japanese, and a Japanese force approached Tuchang (4) on Lake Poyang. Battles raged near Singtze (5) and Shahochen (6).

JAPS LAY WASTE TO 40 TOWNS, 800 VILLAGES IN CHINA

Reprisals in Shansi Are Told by Writer.

YUANCHIU, Shansi Province [By Courier to Hankow], Aug. 26.—(AP)—Japan's "scorched earth" policy has reduced to ashes 40 walled towns and more than 800 villages in shattered Shansi province.

Scenes of death and desolation greeted a correspondent who just completed a 1,200 mile journey on foot and horseback through the mountainous western battle areas in four provinces—Hopei, Shansi, Honan, and Shensi. He spent two months in the heart of China, often crossing Japanese battle lines.

Japan's interpretation of the "scorched earth" policy he found to mean burning every Chinese town or village which supported guerrilla armies. These irregular forces wage unceasing warfare against the Japanese.

[The "scorched earth" policy usually is associated with the Chinese army. Chinese commanders announced early in the war with Japan they woul battle the invader by devastating the countryside and towns before they fell into his hands.]

Exceeds Any Other Destruction.

Previous reports of destruction by the Japanese had been viewed skeptically, but the correspondent took photographs and talked to reputable witnesses. He was led to the conclusion that Japanese destruction of Chinese homes in Shansi exceeds in magnitude and thoroughness anything that has occurred in any other war area of China.

Throughout eastern and central Shansi he passed walled cities, once prosperous but now reduced to charred shells, as if they had been in an earthquake or fire. In dozens of villages not a single house was standing, no person was living and not even dogs remained to nuzzle rice bowls scattered in the streets. Plows stood rusting in surrounding fields while the crops ran wild.

After visiting every South Shansi county, the correspondent was told by the Chinese government relief commissioner that 650,000 homes were burned in this area, leaving more than 2,000,000 persons homeless. The commissioner said he believed 70,000 Chinese had been executed by the Japanese, but the correspondent considered the estimate too high.

Find Jap Chemicals.

Chinese charges of looting and burning apparently were substantiated by the finding of Japanese manufactured chemical strips which villagers said were used by Japanese to start the fires. Civilians supported statements of Chinese army authorities and officials that Japanese army trucks had been used to transport loot from homes to railways. No large town of southern Shansi escaped plundering.

Tens of thousands of villagers have been mobilized this month to destroy motor roads, dynamite bridges and tear down city walls. This was to insure that Chinese guerrilla operations would be easier if Japanese troops return to this region.

TRACE OWNERSHIP OF AUTO BURNED ON LONELY ROAD

Ownership of a large automobile which was burned Thursday night on a lonely road near Michigan City, Ind., was traced yesterday to George W. Howey of Detroit, Mich. Howey has been missing from his home since Tuesday.

Howey was employed by the Detroit Trucking company. His wife said he had quarreled with another truck driver, who is being sought by police.

Witnesses said the automobile was driven into Cool Springs line road, southeast of Michigan City, with a black coupé following. Men alighted from the coupé, poured five gallons of gasoline over the other car, and set it on fire. The men then sped away in the coupé.

Father Reclaims Son, 3; Lost Him in a Tavern

The blue eyed little boy found wandering at South Ashland and Archer avenues by police Wednesday night, was identified yesterday. His father, George Stanek, 2317 South Hoyne avenue, called for him at the juvenile home. He explained that he had lost little George, 3 years old, while he was talking with friends in a tavern.

JAPS LOSE THOUSANDS OF TROOPS IN PLAGUE OF MALARIA, CHOLERA

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, [via Hongkong to avoid censorship], Aug. 27 [Saturday].—Japanese forces advancing along the Yangtze river toward Hankow and southward toward Nanchang are suffering enormous losses from illness. Malaria, dysentery, and cholera plague the troops despite a rigorous campaign of inoculations, it has been learned.

The area swelters in humid heat. It is partly flooded and swarms with flies and mosquitoes. A serious sanitary problem exists because the Japanese occupy heavily contested ground where the Chinese have left thousands of dead and wounded.

Japanese hospital ships carry thousands of disease victims back to Japan. Foreigners reaching Shanghai from Kiukiang and Wuhu said immense emergency hospitals have been erected hastily.

Japanese censors in Shanghai do not permit foreign correspondents to cable even a hint of the actual conditions.

HORAN ALLOWED TO FILE FRIENDLY JUDGES' REPORTS

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday allowed Bailif Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court, to file opinions of two judges of the latter court who dissented from a contempt finding of twenty-five other judges against him. The twenty-five judges, headed by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, found Horan in contempt for failing to reinstate fifty-five deputy bailifs whom he discharged before the April primary election.

The judges who dissented were Edward B. Casey and Charles S. Dougherty. Horan is appealing the contempt ruling. Justice William H. McSurely of the Appellate court held yesterday that the dissenting opinions could be included in the record.

In a written statement, Judge Casey said: "Poor John Sonsteby, acting in his usual state of befuddlement, misconceived entirely the prerogatives of his office when he went to the clerk's office and ordered deputies not to include the dissenting opinions in the record. His action is the result of an erroneous idea that anything with which he does not agree, just never happened."

GUST HAS NOVEL IDEAS OF WORK; DECREE TO WIFE

Gust Anderson, a carpenter, visited his native Sweden in 1930. He returned to Chicago convinced that his wife should support him as some Swedish wives do their husbands. That's what Anderson's wife, Hilma, told Judge Peter Schwaba yesterday, adding that she didn't think so much of the idea. Questioned by her attorney, Harry X. Cole, she said her husband deserted her when she refused to be the breadwinner. She got a divorce. Mrs. Anderson lives at 3750 Lake Shore drive.

URGE JAPS TO USE GOLD FROM TEETH OF DEAD FOR WAR

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A group of Japanese dentists believes that even the dead should contribute in Japan's scramble for gold to carry on the war with China. Alumni of the Japan College of Dentistry suggested that a dentist be assigned each crematory to remove gold fillings, plates, crowns, and teeth from bodies. The group told the government recently that about $2,900,000 in gold goes into graves and cremation urns each year.

JAPAN LAUNCHES BIGGEST DRIVE TO CRUSH CHINESE

Six Columns Strike Foe in Yangtze Valley.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Japanese air, river, and land forces launched a terrific attack covering the entire Yangtze river war front in east central China today. Foreign military observers believed it the beginning of an offensive to capture Hankow before the first snowfall.

The Japanese war machine, slowed up for several months, picked up momentum as severe fighting raged on the shores of Lake Poyang and on both banks of the Yangtze river.

With the Manchukuan border now quiet, the Japanese, it was believed, have prepared a full dress offensive. With it they hoped to march finally into Hankow, Chinese provisional capital, and deliver a death blow before the end of the year, avoiding a winter campaign.

Bigger Than Lunghai Drive.

Foreign observers considered the offensive the biggest yet conducted by the Japanese, exceeding in man power, munitions, and equipment the Lunghai railway campaign, 300 miles to the north.

The Japanese strategy was designed to encircle Hankow and cut rail lines both north and south of the capital. It was aimed also at Nanchang, Chinese air base south of Kiukiang. Six separate actions were called for, two of them being north of the Yangtze river, four south of it.

FIRST — One column advanced westward through Anhwei province. It was within a few miles of Liuan, gateway to Honan province, and was aimed at the Peking-Hankow railroad. The Japanese are about 150 miles east of Senyang, a town on the railroad.

SECOND—Another column, pushing up the north bank of the Yangtze, continued to battle at Hwangmei. For 23 days a conflict has raged in this area, nearly 150 miles from Hankow, but the Japanese still were stalled.

Battle on Railway.

THIRD—A Japanese column captured Juichang, 21 miles west of Kiukiang. This was conceded by the Chinese to be one of the most strategic Japanese victories since the fall of Kiukiang on July 26 opened the way for the present drive.

FOURTH—On the east shore of Lake Poyang a Japanese column pushed southward, seeking to circle the lake for an attack on Nanchang from the south. This column had not yet reached Tuchang, its first objective.

FIFTH—On the west shore of Lake Poyang the Japanese applied their strongest pressure, concentrating on Chinese lines south of Singtze, in an attempt to attack Nanchang, near the south end of the lake. A Japanese army officer said 1,700 Chinese were killed when the Japanese landed shock troops at Tungkufeng, south of Singtze.

[The Chinese reported their troops inflicted thousands of casualties on Japanese who made an assault against Chinese positions in the Lu-Shan mountains west of Singtze. Singtze is south of Kuling, a resort where 100 American and British refugees are staying.]

SIXTH—A column fought down the Nanchang railway south of Kiukiang toward Nanchang. On the railway the Chinese, who have battled the invaders to a standstill for thirty-one days, still were fighting at Shahochen, ten miles south of Kiukiang.

Kuomin, Chinese news agency, reported from Hankow that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, commander in chief of China's armies, had returned from an inspection of Chinese front lines. He was confident, it was reported, that defenders in the Hankow sector can resist the Japanese at least for six months.

TERROR GRIPS JAFFA AS BOMB KILLS 20 ARABS

Market Blast Injures 74; Troops Guard City.

JAFFA, Palestine, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Jaffa seethed tonight with racial hatreds fanned to violence by a terrific bomb explosion in a crowded vegetable market. At least twenty Arabs were killed by the blast and seventy-four wounded, ten of them gravely.

Rioting immediately broke out as Arabs sought revenge. Two banks were attacked, shops were fired, and Jews stoned and shot.

Arabs called a strike throughout the Holy Land in sympathy with the victims and in protest to the government of the British mandated territory.

Curfew Imposed.

All business in this seaport city was suspended and an indefinite curfew imposed. Arab shops were closed also in Jerusalem and Haifa, both Arab strongholds. Snipers midway between Jaffa and Jerusalem harried trafic, taking pot shots at passing autos and stoning them.

Troops were rushed to all danger spots. Armored cars took positions in Jaffa's main street while machine gun posts were set up to guard the border between Jaffa and the outlying all Jewish city of Tel Aviv.

An angry Arab crowd faced police rushing to the scene. The throng attacked Barclay's bank, the Anglo-Palestine bank, set fire to shops, and attacked Jewish pedestrians hurrying to Tel Aviv for refuge.

Police Fire Into Crowd.

Police fired into the crowd and restored some order after the situation became even more threatening. Ten Jews were taken to hospitals after the attacks.

Five young boys were among those killed in the blast and seven other youths were injured.

The blast and ensuing violence raised to 1,100, including almost 300 dead, the Holy Land's casualties since July 5, when a new chapter in terrorism started with the ambushing of a Jewish bus.

To prevent further Arab demonstrations, authorities ordered the mangled bodies to be interred in a common grave. The wounded were taken to the French hospital and a government dispensary.

JUGO-SLAV CABINET SHAKEN; 3 MEMBERS HAND IN RESIGNATIONS

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Three Jugo-Slav cabinet members resigned today following the little entente conference, which granted Hungary the right to rearm.

The Jugo-Slav News agency said the regency council accepted the resignations of Gen. Lyubomir Marich, war minister; Dr. Milan Urbanich, minister of commerce, and Dr. Vekoslaz Militich, minister of physical education.

The three little entente powers—Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia—agreed at a conference in Bled, Jugo-Slavia, this week to disregard the arms limitations imposed on Hungary by the Trianon peace treaty. They also announced that separate nonaggression and minority agreements between Hungary and each entente member would be concluded soon. The agreements were reached while Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, was being fêted by Reichsfuehrer Hitler during a state visit to Germany.

BRITAIN PROTESTS JAP CENSORING OF NEWS MESSAGES

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Great Britain protested today against suppression of Reuters [British news agency] dispatches by Japanese censors.

The protest was made by Sir Archibald Kerr, British ambassador, to Masayuki Tani, Japanese ambassador-at-large in China. It was based on censorship Wednesday of Reuters reports of the machine gunning of a Chinese-American air transport by Japanese warplanes. The dispatch was sent from Hongkong, a British colony.

Sir Archibald said the British government cannot recognize any right of Japanese authorities to interfere with messages sent by or addressed to British subjects.

The Japanese have not answered an American protest, made Tuesday to the Shanghai consulate general, against censorship of mails addressed to Americans in Shanghai. A spokesman said Japan's censorship policy remained unchanged despite the protests.

Germany Short of Fruit; Urges Use of Wild Berries

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—(AP)—An appeal to German farm communities today urged the use of wild berries of the nation's forests to meet the immediate need for fruit, scarce because of spring frosts. The appeal, addressed to school children and old people, urged them to gather wild berries and sell them to local farm leaders.

THEY NEVER GIVE THE SUCKER A BREAK.

English speaking people nearly always have more trouble with laws dealing with personal habits than any other people in the world. English speaking can be used as a phrase for this purpose because the language and the laws parallel each other, with legal theories differing scarcely more than accents, dialects and word uses. Other peoples, until a dictator gets after them, are permitted to be more the judges of their own conduct, providing it does not lead them to do something disorderly or violent. If they do that, they are likely to find the police much less tolerant than an American officer would be.

Prohibition represented the extreme of American law governing personal habit. It didn't work, but it was a part of the general scheme of governmental regulation by statute, prohibiting conduct much of which seems to be inherent in human nature. Every one will admit, for instance, that gambling in one form or another is almost universal. Some forms of it are not socially reprobated although they may be illegal. In some states it's illegal to bet on an election, but no one is ever brought into court for it.

Religious organizations have used gambling devices at charity bazars and for social purposes as innocent diversions and as the easiest means of raising a fund of money for a good cause. Women play bridge for desirable prizes or stakes, big or little, and would quit the game if it didn't have the excitement of profit or loss. Newsboys take piker bets for the bookies, the tavernkeepers have slot machines for their patrons, and the cigar store has a punchboard. New York has a policy racket trial involving thugs, extortioners, gang leaders living in luxury, high Tammany leaders, murder, and money in sums like federal revenue.

There's a general agreement that the habitual but nonprofessional gambler is in a bad state of mind and is a poor risk. He doesn't come home with the pay check and soon some one will be supporting him—his wife, if she does not divorce him. He and the fellow who takes money out of the till to put it back after the next race are responsible for some of the laws.

Gambling which is both tolerated and illegal is the source of corruption such as is disclosed in the evidence Prosecutor Dewey produces in New York. In Chicago Mayor Kelly thought a better condition would be brought about if the city put the bookmakers under license and regulation. The opposition was too great. Now the state's attorney's policemen are chopping up the furnishings of gambling places where the raiders usually find from three to four hundred men and women. When the operators face the judge in court, if they are arrested, they are dismissed. The evidence presented against them is not good under our laws.

The person who goes to a race track and picks the horses may bet legally. If he goes to a pool room the next day to pick the horses and bet he may have to hit the exit in a hurry to get out of the way of the police who are breaking the furniture. The housewife who thinks she'll stretch her pin money into a fur coat may pick up a newspaper from the stand and get two bits of advice: One, not to take part in this social evil, and the other, that Telling Me is the best bet in the third race.

Horse racing improves airplane engines. Gambling is legal if the state takes a percentage for the improvement of hand work on the farm and illegal if the politicians take a percentage for their own improvement. A newspaper may raise hell with the betting and print a half page of betting selections. Sometimes the merchants of a town encourage gambling because it makes business and sometimes they discourage it because it hurts business. In certain seasons the furniture is chopped up. In other seasons it only gets worn out.

The only thing certain about gamblers is that the only persons who make any money out of it are the professionals, their political standbys and the professional reformers. The rest are suckers.

WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS IN SPAIN.

Some one took a shot at Count Guido Viola di Campalto, Italian ambassador to Gen. Franco's government in Spain. The ambassador was returning to San Sebastian from the country. One version, semi-official out of Burgos, Franco's seat of authority, says that a Franco patrol made a mistake. The Barcelona government report is that the only mistake was bad shooting. The loyalists encourage the opinion that Franco's Spaniards have had enough of his Italians, Germans, and Moors.

Rumors of rebellion within the rebellion flow across the frontier, whether closed or not, into France. It has been a bit of a wonder that the Spanish have not wearied of furnishing a testing ground for German and Italian equipment and troops and a scene of activity for Mussolini's energy. They are an individualistic people able to get all the fighting they want among themselves. If they were able to do what the nonintervention committee has not succeeded in doing, and get the foreigners out of Spain there are several first class wars which could be fought both in the Franco and the Barcelona forces without bringing the rebel and the government armies against each other at all.

UPSIDE DOWN.

The pledges given to Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, by Herr Hitler in Berlin suggest that one of history's strangest ironies may be in the making.

Hungary for centuries stood as western Europe's bulwark against the Turks. Time and again Hungary defended Christianity and western civilization from the Moslems.

Now, if Hungary joins the Rome-Berlin combination, the southeastward sweep of fascism will be accelerated. Czechoslovakia could more easily be subjugated and the road through the Balkans to Constantinople would be opened. At the end of that road, across the narrow strait, lies Turkey to block Germany's access to the wealth of Asia Minor and the orient. Thus Mohammedan Turkey may find itself in the strange rôle of defender of human liberty against the rising tide of absolutism and oppression, the guardian of Christianity against its pagan enemy, the protector of western culture against the book-burners of Berlin.

It sounds fantastic but it is not outside the realm of possibility. A good deal depends upon the outcome of the diplomatic auction sale in which Hungary has been engaged in recent weeks. Admiral Horthy is returning from Berlin with a pledge on the part of Germany to respect Hungarian boundaries and perhaps to assist Hungary materially as well as morally in her efforts to restore all the Magyars to the Hungarian state. But at the time Horthy was in Berlin other representatives of Hungary were in conference with representatives of the little entente states—Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia—at Bled in Jugo-Slavia.

The immediate result of the Bled conference was an agreement to scrap the sections of the Treaty of Neuilly which forbade Hungarian rearmament. Other proposals intended to keep Hungary out of a German alliance were discussed. Hungary is in the fortunate position of being wooed simultaneously by rivals bidding against each other for her favor. What they are offering is still obscure. It is therefore not easy to guess which alliance is the more likely to win the prize.

Meanwhile the British have been looking ahead and have taken steps to have Turkey on Britain's side. A British loan to the Turks, reported to be as large as 80 million dollars, has been arranged. That does not prove that the British foreign office expects Hungary to join the fascist bloc but it does suggest that Britain would not be taken by surprise to find Hitler at Constantinople, looking toward Britain's imperial possessions to the south and east.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S PURGE AND PARTY DISCIPLINE.

In American politics there has been a recognition of divergence of opinion, even within parties. There has been a feeling that if a party by majority vote in its convention came to conclusions after free debating and vote the decisions represented adjusted agreements with which all party members would find themselves in harmony. But Mr. Roosevelt's startling and revolutionary proposals have never been given an honest going over in any convention or deliberation of the party. At the best there have been only policies so vaguely expressed that no one understood what specifically was meant by them and the disclosure has come only when a bill, prepared to the last punctuation mark, has popped out of the White House before the startled gaze of congress. These have not been party decisions. They have been personal pronouncements.

Mr. Roosevelt's ideas of party discipline, party fealties, and party requirements are in nature precisely those of dictator Stalin, the general secretary of the Russian communist party and head of the soviet union. They are Russian in their nature, although conditions in the United States do not permit the enforcement of party discipline by such means as the head of the Russian state may use.

Communist party organization and political action do not contemplate freedom of opinion. The decisions of the politburo are final. Disagreement is treason. The general secretary controls the politburo. When "our great Stalin" announces a policy he has issued a law which shall not be unfavorably commented upon.

Bourgeois freedom of opinion is laugned at as both unreal and unworkable. The justification for communist discipline is that without it you cannot get things done. That is Mr Roosevelt's contention. He can't work with opposition. He is always right. Therefore he must be unopposed.

The reasons for the support of Mr. Roosevelt by the American communist party are many and they are manifest.

MIDLAND MORES.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

We sympathize with the park board in its efforts to keep shirts on the backs of male tennis players but fear that the worthy officials will find it as difficult as keeping the proverbial water on the back of the proverbial duck. The board, alas, is fighting a trend of major proportions: youth's determined return to nature.

The board finds that men wield their rackets on the municipal courts clad only in shorts and shoes, and the park trustees are distressed to have men disporting themselves on public grounds in what looks suspiciously like underwear.

It is a noble gesture on the part of the trustees to take this stand in defense of Peoria's modesty, but it is doubtful whether they can long retard the onrush of the times. As a matter of fact, the bare male chest, with or without hair, is quite undismaying to the average modern woman. Similarly the man accepts as natural a liberal exposure of feminine epidermis.

Only the other day Chicago erased from the statute books an ordinance requiring women to wear bloomers on the public beaches. Present day beach costume is so far beyond that that the statute is linked in press reports with a law barring automobiles from the boulevards because they scare the horses. For men, abbreviated shorts are the rule; for women one-piece suits and shorts and halter combinations are commonplace.

This is in no sense an attempt at indecent display but rather an expression of unconcerned modern frankness. Can the park board long withstand the back to nature movement? We doubt it.

JUST CHARLIE.

Charles M. Schwab, the American millionaire, was very fond of farce, and one day he asked his secretary to get him two tickets for "Charlie's Aunt."

The secretary called a messenger and said: "Go round to the theater and get two tickets for 'Charlie's Aunt.'"

The messenger hesitated, then said: "Hadn't I better say for Mr. Schwab's aunt, sir?"—Exchange.

SPEAKING OF COLUMNS.

The oldest work of human hands in Chicago not under a museum's roof is, no doubt, the Roman column which stands in Burnham park on the eastern side of Leif Eriksen drive, opposite the south end of Soldiers' field. This is generally known as the Balbo column, and it commemorates the flight of an Italian air squadron under the command of Gen. Italo Balbo to A Century of Progress in the summer of 1933. Premier Mussolini presented the ancient column to Chicago as a souvenir of this exploit, and during the second summer of the Fair it stood in front of the Italian pavilion.

To motorists running northward along the Eriksen drive it adds an authentic touch of classic architecture to the impressive view of the massive colosseum where football games and music festivals replace the gladiatorial combats of Rome, and of the Greek colonnades and porticos of the Field museum beyond. This is Chicago's most thrilling vista when suddenly glimpsed. Its scale is enormous, and for strangers to the city it is overwhelming.

* * *

The Balbo column came from recent archæological excavations at Ostia, the seaport of ancient Rome at the mouth of the Tiber. It is of a mottled green marble which was quarried in Sparta and was rare even in classical times. These quarries have been exhausted for over a thousand years. It is a slender shaft and has a capital that is a Roman simplification of the Corinthian order.

The pedestal bears an inscription, lightly incised. The lettering was originally gilded, but the color has weathered away, and it is now difficult to read at a glance. Here is what it says in Italian:

The Line o' Type column, oldest of its kind, salutes the Balbo column and translates its inscription into English as follows:

"This column of twenty centuries ago, erected on the shore of Ostia, port of imperial Rome, to watch over the fortunes and victories of the Roman fleets, Fascist Italy, under the auspices of Benito Mussolini, gives to Chicago in laudation and as a symbolic remembrance of the Atlantic squadron led by Balbo, which with Roman boldness flew across the ocean in the eleventh year of the Lictorship."

I wonder if they know how they are blest,
Those little ones, in solemn rows, intent
On tales of Shepherd's awe and wise men's quest
Told in the words still wondrous eloquent;
And while he speaks of One like them who grew
To one day pin his hope on innocence
And build His kingdom on those born anew,
Perhaps his thoughts turn to an audience
That loved his tales and jests in other days;
And faintly clear he hears, like elfin horn,
Our heart-deep wish that all his sunset ways
Be rich in love, and that each Sabbath morn,
Teaching the little sparrows of the Lord,

She's the Real McCoy.

I suppose you've closed the books on Pioneer Grandmothers, but you might want to open an account for Grandmother McCoy of Hinsdale, who was 103 in June. She came west to Iowa in a covered wagon in 1843. Her golden curls dazzled the Indians so much that they offered a pony for them [without the scalp]. That offer was refused and the Indians raised the ante pony by pony to seven. Great-Grandpa McCoy thought he'd better take the offer or they might decide to take the curls without payment.

She lived the hard life of a pioneer woman, but at the age of 95 found herself face to face with a new type of hazard—the depression. Bedridden, with a broken hip, she had the judgment not only to handle her investments without loss but also to increase their value! Today, at the beginning of her 104th year, she is still alert, reads daily, and despite two broken hips she's a better man than 99 out of a 100 that I know. R. M. Carleton.

A NEAR TRAGEDY.

I HOPE there are few cases of the type which I feel impelled to describe. Only recently has it been possible to place the patient in an environment that offers certain cure.

The mother in this anecdote is a self-centered neurotic. She watched her only child grow into young womanhood and receive the adoration of a doting father. Whenever his daughter-worship blossomed into some tangible token of affection, which the mother thought she should have received, she promptly took to her bed, whereupon both father and daughter, genuinely solicitous for her welfare, gave her every attention.

By the time the girl was twenty the mother's hostility was expressed openly. Constant bickering ensued until the young woman was forced to leave home in an effort to escape an intolerable state of affairs.

She enrolled in an art school, and although she had some small talent her reactions were anything but favorable to her mental health. One among a hundred or more, she failed to get along with her fellow students and, in letters to her father, she criticized teachers and companions alike because no one appreciated her worth. With this attitude she neglected her assignments, lost weight, and failed several of her tests. Finally one of her instructors sent her to a physician for a checkup.

At the examination she stressed a substantial amount of abdominal pain, chiefly low down on the right side. Although there was no temperature, no increase in the number of white cells, nevertheless removal of the appendix was advised. While in the hospital she spent probably the pleasantest two weeks of her life. An attractive personality, she was made much of, and because of this she decided to take up nursing, in which she envisioned only a happy existence with every one at her feet.

All went well for a while, but her health did not improve, neither did her personality.

Her tonsils were removed and, a few months later, the nasal sinuses were opened and drained, despite which the dragging pains continued. Then followed a series of surgical misadventures.

All the time the patient was becoming less able to do her work, complaining more and more of intestinal discomfort. A diagnosis of adhesions was then made, but when the abdomen was explored not a single constricting band could be found. Convalescence from this episode was long and tedious.

Within two months bowel cramps returned and she began to run a slight afternoon temperature, whereupon pulmonary tuberculosis was the verdict. After several months in a sanitarium the abdominal trouble became so marked that a third operation was decided upon with the same result: no disease discernible. She remained another six months at the "san" and was then discharged as nontuberculous, inasmuch as no bacilli could be found.

Many medical men are familiar with a type of abdominal neurosis in which the patient will journey from hospital to hospital at intervals of a few months, slightly improved after each rest [operation], but with all symptoms returning soon thereafter. The reaction of one doctor to whom I explained the case in hand was: "She is a frank malingerer. She wants to be waited upon, coddled, and petted, and the only way to get it is to follow the example of her mother."

Treatment by a competent psychiatrist was begun after nearly five years of wandering from physician to physician. It did not take long to bring her to an understanding of the development of her difficulty. Her girlhood conflicts had been translated into physical ailments. She has now learned to evaluate her symptoms without exaggeration and exhibits neither alimentary upsets nor nausea. Weight has been regained and she looks the picture of health.

On a recent visit to her home she dominated the situation completely. Along with the final adjustment came a conference between her physician, the psychiatrist, and the father. The latter can see now what he failed to understand earlier, namely, that an accurate and thorough study would have rendered impossible the family relations disclosed by this tale.

DIAGNOSING KIDNEY DISEASE.

Mrs. J. writes:

1. How can a person tell if he has kidney trouble?
2. What makes the eyes sink farther back into the head?
3. What—besides lack of sleep—causes dark circles under the eyes?

REPLY.

1. Examination of the urine will show the presence of albumin or casts or both. A number of additional tests usually are made.
2. Puffiness around the eyes may give the impression that the eyes have receded; instead it is the flesh which has come forward.
3. Some circulatory disturbance possibly associated with kidney disease.

OPERATION BEST REMEDY.

C. B. writes: I have had sebaceous cysts for 6 years. I have had X-ray and short wave treatments and three different kinds of serum, but they still recur. I have one on the base of the neck and one on the spine. I have heard that if they are operated on I may become a cripple for life.

REPLY.

The cause of sebaceous cysts is unknown. Surgical removal is the most satisfactory mode of treatment. There is not the slightest danger of your becoming a cripple if you are in skilled hands.

LIVER SPOTS.

M. T. E. writes: About three weeks ago I noticed a burned looking spot on my thigh. It neither has grown nor diminished during that time. There is neither pain nor pus. What is this?

REPLY.

The condition is probably what is called chloasma, which is the name given to mild discolorations appearing on the face or other parts of the body. If the lesion increases in size or tends to spread, consult your physician, as there may be some organic cause. As a rule such blemishes are harmless.

LACK OF SOME MINERAL.

Mrs. L. L. W. writes: Why does a healthy 17 month old baby always want to eat dirt?

REPLY.

Lack of some dietary mineral. He may need calcium.

PROPAGANDA AT A MOVIE.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—It is a sad commentary on the intelligence of the American people when a peace-loving American cannot go to see a motion picture without having pamphlets of a foreign propaganda nature thrust in his or her face the moment of his exit from the theater.

I am speaking of "Blockade" being shown at a south side theater and the literature the theater permitted to be distributed to those coming from the show.

We are told in the pamphlet that we should send funds, ambulances, and men to help Spain win the war, and thus show our patriotism and love of the soil. Of course we love our soil, but I can not see why we should go to Spain to prove it. Better stay at home and watch our own country.

ALICE FOLEY.

PINE TIMBER IN THE SOUTH.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—In the Aug. 9 edition of THE TRIBUNE, page 21, there appeared a statement with reference to the pine timber situation in the south. This statement was evidently based upon an article entitled "Some Aspects of the Private Forestry Problem" which I wrote for the 1938 "Michigan Forester," published by the Forestry club, school of forestry and conservation, University of Michigan.

The article, as quoted in THE TRIBUNE, appears under the following headline: "Industry Drains South's Supply of Pine Timber—Mills' Consumption Rate Exceeds Regrowth." The article states: "What does the south's timber balance sheet as a whole show? We do not yet know in detail, but there is increasing evidence to the effect that over the entire region growth is exceeding drain." I then endeavored to show that in certain localities and regions the reverse was true. If your headline had stated: "In Some Portions of the South Industry Is Draining the Supply of Pine Timber and Consumption Is Exceeding Regrowth" it would have been correct and would have applied to the statements in the body of the article.

It is quite possible that this article was furnished by a student correspondent, which may account for its inaccuracy. It has already resulted in several protests on the part of southern forest products industries against the statement, which they know is incorrect. If the article originated as suggested above, it will be appreciated if you will ask your Ann Arbor student correspondent to exercise more care in quoting articles appearing on the campus.

TO THE GARBAGE COLLECTOR.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I am appealing to the Voice of the People as the only effective method to remedy an unbearable situation. I live at 4119 N. Ashland avenue in the 47th ward.

The owner of the building and the two tenants agree that the garbage has not been removed for three weeks. The place is overrun with rats and other vermin and has become so bad that the children can no longer play in the back garden. This seems to me a serious menace to public health and a disgrace to a city like Chicago.

HE DOESN'T FEAR HELL NOW.

Muscatine, Ia., Aug. 25.—I have the hay fever and I am glad of it, for it keeps my mind off the depression and gives me something to do twenty-six hours a day—at least it seems that way. Also we hay-feverites have the satisfaction of knowing that when we pass on we don't "have to go to hell yet." What would be the use? We wouldn't notice the change, and it would be simply adding insult to injury.

Let's have a contest. I have had hay fever for fifty-four years; who can beat it? As to the supreme quality of it, and its intimate urge, we register here in this infernal Mississippi valley at least 150 per cent; way above par.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Six years ago this September my aunt in Omaha died. She had a will, but husband claimed he could not find it and we had no way of knowing where it was. They owned a fine farm in Nebraska with two homes on it, and this was in my aunt's name. On the rest of the farm my uncle put a mortgage after her death.

1. They claim the laws of Nebraska allow a husband to abide by a will or elect to take half interest in his wife's share of property, of which he chose the latter. He then put a mortgage on his half. A bank in Omaha holds this mortgage as well as the mortgage on the rest of the farm, but not on the half that went to his wife's relatives. My uncle died three months ago. There were no children.

The banker who is executor of the estate claims he is going to have [2] a partition sale and [3] some of us will have to be there to bid it in because they are going to sell the whole fifty acres with the two homes to the highest bidder.

4. Can they force us to sell our half interest in the houses and our half interest in the fifty acres?

If we do not agree to sell [5] can party living on the whole thing get clear deed to property? They paid $17,000 for the 50 acres and since buying built a beautiful modern home. All we are interested in is the one-half of the fifty acres and half of the houses. The rest of the farm the bank took over for the mortgage and his $10,000 insurance policy which he pledged to the bank.

6. Any advice you can give on this will be appreciated. A man in the same building as the bank offered us $3,000 for our share, about half of what it is worth.

7. Why would he be interested in buying our share if executor has right to force sale? A. P.

1. This implies that a will was found contrary to your above implication that it could not be found.
2. This is a common procedure in such cases.
3. Presumably it will be advisable for you to be either present or represented, since otherwise the property might be bid in by outside parties at a smaller price than you consider proper.
4. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree, any one of them is entitled to force a division or a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.
5. Yes, if the proceedings have been properly handled. If you contemplate bidding in so substantial a property, we strongly advise you to employ an attorney.
6. See preceding answers.
7. If he can purchase your interest for less than the share that you would get out of the probable purchase price, this is to his advantage.

SCIENCE SLAVES AS TWINS ENJOY A BIG CONVENTION

Hundreds of pairs of twins, from Chicago and elsewhere, gathered at the Morrison hotel yesterday for three days of fun at the seventh annual convention of the International Twins association. It was fun for them, but work for the University of Chicago students and instructors who seized the opportunity to study them.

A sign near the registration booth asked, "Identical twins! How identical are you? Science is interested in this question." In a small room Dr. H. H. Strandskov, instructor in zoology, labored with the help of students, measuring and questioning delegates.

Finger Prints Proof Positive.

Palm and finger prints were made. They are the only infallible tests of an identical pair, it was explained. Identical twins come from the same cell. Others are fraternal twins. Even if an identical pair's palms differ from each other, a twin's left hand is more nearly like the other twin's left hand than his own right hand.

"I'm sure mine are identical," said a mother breathlessly, while Sharlene and Sharon Siegel, her 7 year olds, of 5334 Greenwood avenue signed their names in identical handwriting. "They were Caesarians, anyway."

Little Philip and John Chiapetto, 8 years old, of 3125 Princeton avenue, knew all about being identical. John is left handed, and has tiny beauty mark in his right eyebrow. That was the only way their father, who was a twin, told them apart in infancy. Many identical twins share right and left handedness. In infancy Phil fell and broke his skull one day, and John fell and broke his in the same place the next day, said the father with pride.

So alike are Lucille Usack of 4215 Lawn avenue, Western Springs, and her sister, Lorraine, 20 years old, that their commercial art business flourishes. It's easy to get work when an employer knows that if one puts a drawing down, the other can finish it. And the work is identical, they explained.

Got Each Other's Spankings.

Harry and Hal Rhinehouse, colored, 12 years old, of 4219 South Wabash avenue, are so much alike it wasn't unusual in their younger days for one to get a spanking for something the other had done. But, an aunt related, the one who escaped the spanking would immediately try to get a spanking, too. The only difference now is that Hal wants to be an artist and Harry a G-man.

Oldest of the twins registered are Mrs. Jennie McGill and Mrs. Lizzie Ward, 76, of Urbana. Youngest were Eve and Karen Kurtzmann, 3 weeks old, of 4750 Woodlawn avenue.

"If you're going to be twins, you might as well go all the way, so we're glad we're identical," said Jack and Bernard Ladendorf, of Detroit, 18 years old. "Not knowing what it is not to be twins, we like being them."

Honors for a Chicago "twin family" are claimed by the Housens of 5647 Windsor avenue. Four sets of twins in the family are Shirley and Bill, 15; George and Charles, 10; Bobby and Roger, 7, and Jerry and Jimmy, 3 years old.

John Walsh, son of Policeman Patrick J. Walsh, died yesterday in the Mercy hospital of a skull fracture. He was struck with a brick by an unidentified colored man a week ago as he walked along the lake front near 23d street with Miss Juanita Wagner, his fiancé. Walsh, 23 years old, had stopped to rebuke the Negro for following him when the man struck him and fled. Walsh lived at 7703 Ridgeland avenue.

RUNS STOPLIGHT, KILLS OAK PARK BOY AND ESCAPES

A hit and run driver late yesterday killed Richard Flemming, 8 years old, 318 Washington boulevard, Oak Park. The child was struck on Washington boulevard at Ridgeland avenue by an auto which had run through the stoplight. Witnesses said the car was traveling at high speed and that there were two men in it. Chicago and suburban police were hunting it last night.

Edward Dillon, 63 years old, 1127 Madison street, a postoffice janitor, suffered a skull fracture last night in an automobile collision at Jackson boulevard and Western avenue. He was taken to the Blaine Ramsay hospital. Three cars were involved in the smashup, which occurred as the signal lights were changing. Dillon was a passenger in one of the cars.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 521 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 400 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 12,479 were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

Death of U. S. Steel Man's Son Suicide, British Verdict

EASTRY, England, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind in the fatal shooting of Stiles E Tuttle, son of C. E. Tuttle, American steel financier. The verdict said evidence pointed to premeditation by Tuttle, who was 27 years old, a Yale graduate, and a polo player.

ORDERS MENTAL TEST FOR SPEEDER AFTER 6 ARRESTS

Judge John Gutknecht in Trafic court yesterday imposed a $100 fine on Harold Block, a jewelry salesman, for speeding It was Block's fifth appearance in Trafic court in the last two years. In addition the judge ordered him to undergo a mental examination.

Block's record showed he had been previously arrested four times for speeding and twice for driving through a stop light. "Perhaps you're a type who shouldn't be on the road," Judge Gutknecht commented. Block is 26 years old and lives at 4751 Ingleside avenue.

RECOVER SQUALL VICTIM'S BODY.

The body of Paul Eckardt, 45 years old, 2444 North Austin avenue, was recovered from the lake off the Lunt avenue beach yesterday. He and two companions drowned last Saturday when their outboard motorboat capsized in a squall.

100 ARE SHAKEN AS STREET CAR AND TRUCK CRASH

Nearly one hundred passengers, many of them women, were shaken and bruised yesterday evening when a Broadway street car collided with a ten ton truck at State and Hubbard streets. The passengers were homeward bound from the loop.

The impact overturned the truck, which blocked trafic on both car tracks. Edward Larson of Butler, Ind., the driver, was uninjured. The front of the street car was caved in and several windows were broken. J. Morin, 5920 North Clark street, was the motorman.

$300,000 Roosevelt Road Viaduct Will Open Sept. 4

A $300,000 viaduct in Roosevelt road over the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad is to be opened to trafic on Sept. 4, the Sunday before Labor day. # MOVE TO CLOSE BIG AIRPORTS TO AMATEUR FLYERS

Air Lines Oppose Student Use of Terminals.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The number of student flyers registered annually since 1931 has increased from 17,000 in that year to 41,000 on Jan. 1, 1938. A by-product of this increasing interest in aviation has been the commencement of an unofficial but powerful movement to bar inexperienced flyers from busy terminal airports.

Practice has shown that student flyers, struggling through their first few hours alone in the air, are much like persons just learning to drive automobiles. Their actions are unpredictable. And they are likely to endanger not only their own but other lives.

Prior to 1930 there was little air trafic. The rules of the airways consisted chiefly of federal regulations that required all turns near airports to be made to the left. There was a rule, also, that ships in the air had right of way over ships on the ground —in other words, a machine attempting a landing had right of way over one taking off.

Air Trafic Difficult Problem.

But today, with some twenty-four domestic lines flying 400 airliners, and with another 6,600 licensed planes flying at and near more than twenty large airports, airways trafic is a difficult problem. This has been recognized by the old bureau of air commerce, and it will be one of the first jobs of the new civil aeronautics authority to tackle.

The greatest danger in the air is that of collision. And the hazard represented by student flyers is that they may not see other planes. While records of the air commerce bureau show a large number of fatalities resulting from accidents of this type, fortunately in no instance in the United States has an air line ship been rammed.

But the narrow escapes have been many. And so the airline pilots, airline operations officials and most of the charter pilots have at one time or another protested to the federal agencies against allowing students or relatively inexperienced sportsmen flyers to use the larger terminal fields.

Protests Are Recognized.

The old air commerce bureau recognized these protests. For every field in the United States certain minimums of visibility and ceiling were established, and weather classifications determined.

In fine weather with clear skies, when it is possible to see more than five miles on the ground, all airports are declared open to any pilot, whether his airplane is equipped with radio, blind flight instruments, or not. Under these conditions "contact" flying is possible.

When, however, weather closes in and there are low ceilings with poorer visibility, the department closes all the major fields to pilots who do not have certificates showing they are competent to fly by radio signal and their instruments. And planes unequipped with instruments and radio are barred.

The airlines and charter operators want to see these restrictions broadened to include the terminal fields at all times. They want to see the private flyer whose plane is not equipped with radio kept to the secondary air fields.

HOSPITAL GETS THERAPY TANK TO TREAT PARALYSIS

An underwater therapy tank which permits mineral baths to be created artificially was installed yesterday in Mount Sinai hospital, 2750 West 15th place. Dr. Stephen Manheimer, director of the hospital, said the tank is designed for the treatment of infantile paralysis and other forms of muscular paralysis. It cost $1,000, is 20 feet long, made of stainless steel, and shaped like a clover leaf. This permits an attendant to massage the patient's body while he is immersed.

Seize Big Still at Joliet, 60,000 Gallons of Mash

A huge still occupying two buildings at 212-20 Industry avenue, Joliet, was seized yesterday by agents for the alcohol tax unit of the revenue bureau. The buildings are situated just west of the Illinois deep waterway, near highway 66. The plant formerly had been occupied by the Calumet Chemical company. The agents also seized nearly 60,000 gallons of mash, 370 gallons of alcohol, burners, motors, and other equipment. Joe Cerny, an electrician of 4823 Cermak road, Cicero, was arrested on the premises.

Mother and 5 Children Evicted; Seek Police Aid

Mrs. Mary Zidarich, 40 years old, a widow, appealed to the Maxwell street police last night for food and lodging for herself and her five children, from 1 to 12 years old. She said they were evicted from their flat on the west side two weeks ago. Police took them to the Salvation Army shelter at 1230 Adams street.

Sue 12 to Collect $21,736 in Delinquent Sales Taxes

Suits to collect $21,736 in delinquent state sales taxes from twelve individuals and business firms were filed in the Circuit court yesterday on behalf of the state department of finance. The largest amount, $6,309, is sought from the South Chicago Ice company, 9326 Anthony avenue.

ASKS APPRAISERS TO SPEED REPORT ON AIRPORT LAND

Hodes Seeks to Start Expansion Sept. 15.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday directed the three appraisers who have been studying land values in connection with the Chicago airport enlargement program to complete their work by Sept. 15.

The report will be needed by then, Hodes said in letters to the appraisers, to begin immediate negotiations to purchase the required land, or to begin condemnation proceedings in the courts to obtain it.

The city expects to submit the proposed ordinance for enlargement of the flying field to the city council on Sept. 7.

The expansion plan hinges upon the shifting of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks from the airport. The tracks now bisect the tract bounded by 55th and 63d streets, Cicero and Central avenues, and allow only the southern half to be used as a landing field.

City to Pay All Costs.

The city has agreed to purchase a new right of way for the railroad and pay all costs of shifting the tracks to this new location. In return the railroad is to deed over the land it now occupies. This will enable the city to consolidate the two halves of its square mile tract and give Chicago one of the finest airports in the United States.

For weeks city and railroad representatives have conferred over the terms of the airport ordinance. They now are close to agreement and Hodes yesterday indicated that the major differences which remain will be ironed out before Sept. 7.

The city's three appraisers are John R. O'Connor, Mark Levy, and John McCarthy. They have been studying the values of the various parcels of land that must be acquired to piece together the new railroad right of way, which is to lie along the line of 54th street.

Held by 74 Owners.

McCarthy and Levy said last evening that they have completed their inspection of the land and have been getting information regarding the various pieces that must be included for the new railroad strip. These parcels are held by seventy-four different owners.

Both men said their reports will be completed within two weeks. O'Connor was away from the city yesterday, but associates in his office at 134 North La Salle street declared he too had nearly completed his work of determining the fair values of each piece of land that is needed.

Hodes yesterday said that wherever possible the city will favor making outright purchases of the land. All the negotiations must be handled by the railroad under authority granted by the state legislature, but the city will pay the bill. If there are a number of hard fought condemnation proceedings in the courts a six month period may be required to obtain the entire strip.

MOTHER OF NINE PUNCHES BAG; IS CALLED TO COURT

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Sullivan, 65 years old, white haired and the mother of nine, can't understand why she shouldn't punch the bag in her back yard if she wants to. But neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiezis, have complained of the noise for a second time.

Mrs. Sullivan has been summoned to appear in court Tuesday to show cause why an injunction should not be issued against further outdoor workouts.

She bought the bag, Mrs. Sullivan said, when her right arm was afflicted with neuritis and she felt that daily exercise would be good for it.

"Sure, it makes a little noise," she said, "but I use it only a little while each day while no one is sleeping."

LEGION PRESENTS MOBILE IRON LUNG UNIT TO SO. SIDE

Members of district council 3 of the American Legion last night presented a mobile iron lung unit for the use of any resident stricken with infantile paralysis south of 16th street on the south side.

The artificial respirator was purchased with subscriptions from the 6,900 legionnaires in the district. More than 10,000 took part last night in a parade and dedication ceremony at 6344 Cottage Grove avenue.

The lung was dedicated in honor of Fred Snite Jr., the courageous young River Forest resident who is fighting infantile paralysis in his own iron lung.

Plan Rites for Father and Son, Lake Victims

Memorial services will be held at 4:15 p. m. tomorrow in Highland Park Presbyterian church for George W. and Michael Gaidzik, 200 Belle avenue. The two, father and son, were drowned a week ago when a squall overturned their small sloop in the lake. The father's body has not been found. The son's body was discovered tangled in the boat's rigging.

Woman Lost 33 Days

Leaving her home (1) July 24 to walk to a store at Timberland, Wis., Mrs. Barbara Graf became lost and wandered in the forest while posses hunted her. Yesterday, after 33 days, she was found at (2) and taken to hospital at Cumberland.

Shell Lake, Wis., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A farm woman, Mrs. Barbara Graf, 54 years old, who had been lost 33 days in the wild timberlands of northern Wisconsin, was found alive today. Although she apparently had wandered over a large area of the trackless woods she was found only a mile and a half from her home. Posses had searched for days without finding a trace of her.

Arthur Alling, a WPA foreman, saw her as she was hanging her tattered clothes on a limb after washing them in a stream. She said she became lost on the way from her home to a store and had been living mainly on wild berries.

Mrs. Graf, whose husband was killed in an automobile accident four years ago, had lost 40 pounds, but physicians said she probably would recover.

LINDBERGHS LAND IN UKRAINE ON WAY TO PRAGUE

MOSCOW, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A radio report from Kharkov, in the Ukraine, said Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh had landed there this afternoon and flown on to Rostov to spend the night.

The Lindberghs left Moscow this morning en route to Czechoslovakia. They had been here nine days, during which they studied soviet Russian civil and military aviation. After a visit in the Ukraine they said they might land briefly in Rumania. They are expected in Prague, Czechoslovakia, not earlier than Sept. 1.

At a reception in their honor here last night Mrs. Lindbergh danced with soviet flyers and Col. Lindbergh engaged A. D. Loktinov, chief of the Red army air force, in an hour long conversation.

ARMY AVIATORS TO PUT ON SHOW AT U.S. AIR RACES

Selfridge Field, Mich., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Army air maneuvers will be demonstrated by the 27th Pursuit Squadron of the army air corps at the national air races in Cleveland, O., Sept. 3 to 5.

Maj. Willis Taylor, commander, said the squadron normally operates at high altitudes and many of the tactical maneuvers common at those levels will be eliminated in the comparatively low altitude at the races. He said, however, that the planes will be able to demonstrate most of the formations and maneuvers common to pursuit flying in war exercises.

Eighteen P-35 Seversky single seater fighters will put on the maneuvers.

Triplet Boys Are Born by Caesarian Operation

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Triplet boys were born by Caesarian operation today to Mrs. Harry Aisoa, 23 years old, of Jersey City, in the Margaret Hague Maternity hospital here. Triplet No. 1 weighed three pounds; No. 2, four, and No. 3, three. Mother and children were reported to be doing well.

TORONTO ATTORNEY WILL QUESTION SON OF MABELLE SIDLEY

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Eugene Haley, Toronto lawyer, will leave next week for Racine, Wis., to examine William Horlick Sidley. A motion was granted yesterday to four executors of the will of the late Mabelle Horlick Sidley for an examination of Mrs. Sidley's son.

The move was the latest in an involved legal battle to prevent reopening of an adjourned inquest into the death here July 6 of the malted milk heiress.

Counsel for the four executors told the court they were unable to examine Sidley here. Hearings of the executor's injunction to prevent continuation of the inquest will be delayed beyond Sept. 9, the date now fixed, if Haley is unable to complete evidence-taking in Racine.

INDIANA DAIRY FARM AWARDED NEATNESS PRIZE

La Crosse Couple Wins Producers' Contest.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

John Heinold of La Crosse, Ind. was awarded the grand championship yesterday for having the neatest dairy farm in Chicagoland this year. Results in the fifth annual competition were announced by the Pure Milk association. It sponsors the contest among its membership of 14,500 farmers in the Chicago milk shed.

The grand prize is a free eight day round trip for Mr. and Mrs. Heinold down the Mississippi, Ohio, and Tennessee rivers to Muscle Shoals, Ala. Judges gave the Heinold farm a score of 99.5 per cent.

Kankakee Farm Next.

Raretime farm, operated by Philip Surprenant of Kankakee, was declared runner-up for the grand championship. Its score was 99 per cent. But no prize was awarded.

Silverware will be awarded to winners in the association's fifteen districts. Numbers of districts and winners are:

Wisconsin—1, Peter Anderson, Brooklyn; 2, Chester Berg route 1, Whitewater; 3, H. P. McClellan & Son, route 2, Delavan; 4, John V. Meyer, route 1, Bristol.

Illinois—5, Owen E. Lucas, route 2, Kingston; 6, Frank Hay, West McHenry; 7, August Rhode, route 1, Palatine; 8, John H. Jenkins, Cortland; 9, Herbert R. Damisch, route 1, Hampshire; 10, Walter A. Gast, route 3, Aurora; 13, Tillier T. Tesdal, route 4, Morris; 14, John H. Rosalius, route 3, Onarga.

Indiana—15, Herbert H. Hooseline, route 5, Crown Point; 16, Ross Shook, route 2, Hobert, and 17, C. O. Beyler, route 1, Plymouth.

Professors Are Judges.

The final judges were Dr. H. A. Ruehe, University of Illinois; Prof. H. W. Gregory, Purdue university, and Prof. L. C. Thomsen, University of Wisconsin.

Judging was based on general appearance of the dairy barn, 50 per cent; condition of the barn and herd, 20 per cent; condition of the milkhouse and equipment and utensils, 20 per cent, and condition of all buildings, 10 per cent.

BIDS ARE ASKED ON AIR BASE FOR NATIONAL GUARD

The Illinois Armory board yesterday advertised for bids on the excavation and foundation of a new National Guard air base to be constructed at Chicago airport. The bids will be opened next Thursday and ground for the building is to be broken after Labor day.

The new base will be one of the finest in the United States. It will consist of a hangar, complete repair shops, garage, rifle and machine gun range, and all the facilities necessary for the maintenance and operation of an air squadron. More than $1,000,000 in federal funds and nearly $500,000 in state funds will be invested in the base.

Plans for the structure were completed by S. Milton Eichberg, architect for the state armory board. They have been approved by the army, the state, the Public Works administration, and tentatively by the bureau of air commerce.

JUST STICK TO IT, SAYS CATHERINE, LOLLYPOP CHAMP

It took just three and a half minutes for Catherine Mikes, 14 years old, to win the lollypop licking contest yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. Catherine, who lives at 1357 Fullerton avenue, won over fifty boys and girls who entered the event, which was part of the Chicago Candy show. The lollypops were suspended on strings from the ceiling of the Grand Ballroom and contestants held balloons in their hands behind their backs to prevent cheating.

Maine Governor Impolite to Farley, Democrats Say

Auburn, Me., Aug. 26.—(AP)—A Democratic meeting Sept. 1 in state owned Capitol park, Augusta, to which Postmaster General James A. Farley had been invited, was canceled today because of what Democratic party leaders said was a "discourteous telegram" sent by Maine's Republican governor to Farley. The rally will be held at some place not controled by the governor. Gov. Lewis O. Barrows "welcomed" Farley "to a state where we have been able to live within our income, balance our budget, and not impose new schemes of taxation to burden our citizens."

Robert Brennan Is Named Minister of Eire to U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Robert Brennan, for five months chargé d'affaires, has been named minister of Eire to the United States. Brennan has been attached to the Irish legation since 1934, when he arrived as secretary.

CHARGE 3 RADIO STATIONS RULED BY RFC CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Judge Eugene O. Sykes, acting chairman of the federal communications commission, said today that charges of domination by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, of the policies of three radio stations in Houston, Tex., would be investigated by the commission.

It is charged by County Judge Roy Hofheinz of Houston that stations KTRH, KXYZ, and KPRC are controlled by Jones.

Telegraphic complaint also has been received by the commission from Judge Hofheinz that a radio address over two of Houston's stations had been censored by the RFC chairman.

HENRY KRAMER ESTATE PUT AT $200,000 IN WILL

The will of Henry Kramer, disposing of an estate valued at $200,000, was filed yesterday with Clerk Mitchell C. Robir in the Probate court. Various Jewish charities are bequeathed a total of $5,000 and the remainder of the estate is divided among the family. Mr. Kramer, head of a smelting company, died Aug. 11 in his home at 3800 Lake Shore drive. He was 83 years old. He was the father-in-law of Judge Leon Edelman of the Municipal court.

Former Village Official Held for Embezzlement

Thomas Butler, former superintendent of the Elmwood Park water department, was held to the grand jury yesterday on embezzlement charges by Justice Alvin J. Kvistad in the village court. He is accused by the village of embezzling $1,761 in water department funds.

MARTIN FORBIDS UNION MEMBERS' OUSTER PARLEYS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Homer Martin tonight ordered members of the United Automobile Workers not to meet with expelled international union officers who seek his removal as president.

He warned that participation in such meetings would be regarded as violation of the U. A. W. constitution. Martin's action came less than 24 hours after he walked out on a Washington conference with John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

A Lewis proposal for reinstatement of the rebels in the U. A. W.'s roster and a truce between the warring factions until the U. A. W. convention a year hence will be submitted to the union's executive board at a meeting probably next week. Martin controls the board by a 12 to 6 majority. His allies conceded today that the C. I. O. chairman's plan for peace in the union is virtually certain of rejection.

COL. W. GOODALE, VETERAN OF TWO WARS, DIES IN CITY

Col. William M. Goodale, U. S. A. retired, of Los Angeles, Cal., died in Chicago last night of a heart attack.

Mrs. Julia Prochnow, 106 Fourth street, Wilmette, at whose home he was to visit, met him at the Union station yesterday on his arrival here. They had lunch and had just taken a taxicab when Col. Goodale collapsed. He was taken to Jefferson Park hospital, where physicians revived him and gave him some medicine.

As they left the hospital for Mrs. Prochnow's home, Col. Goodale collapsed again and died. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars. He is survived by his widow, Ella, who was notified. Col. Goodale was to have departed Monday on his return to California.

Fall from Window Sill on Visit Fatal to Woman

Mrs. Margaret Hensel, 46 years old, 3726 Cornelia avenue, died last night in the County hospital of a skull fracture suffered in an unusual accident on Aug. 12. While sitting on a window sill in the second floor apartment of her sister, Mrs. Ruth Larson, 2204 North Lockwood avenue, she lost her balance and toppled out. Mrs. Larson seized her by one ankle and held her for two or three minutes, but lost her hold before help could arrive and Mrs. Hansel fell to the ground.

Miss Betty Vail, daughter of the Walter Vails of Sheridan road, is chairman of the committee in charge of the sixth annual tennis tournament of the alumnae of the Sacred Heart. The finals will be played tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the courts of the convent at 6250 Sheridan road. Tea will be served following the matches.

Margery Nicol, Joan Everett Will Be Brides

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO engagement announcements of interest are being made this morning, that of Miss Margery Nicol to Walter E. Haug, and of Miss Joan Cree Everett to Virgil E. Tobin. Unfortunately for their Chicago friends, the marriages of these two young Chicago women will take them far away to live. Mr. Haug is a German and Mr. Tobin is going to take his bride to London, England.

Miss Nicol is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Killian Van Rensselaer Nicol of 1320 North State street. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Haug of Stuttgart, Germany. The wedding will take place this autumn at the Haug home in Germany. Miss Nicol is sailing on Sept. 28 in the Bremen.

Miss Nicol and Mr. Haug met last winter when she and her mother were abroad. It was on the ski slopes at Garmisch Parten-Kirchen that the young couple met. Mr. Haug and his bride plan to spend part of the coming winter at Garmisch. Miss Nicol, who made her debut at a tea-dance at the Fortnightly club in 1936, attended Miss Weaver's school, Andrebrook, at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson. She also spent one year studying at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Haug studied in Munich and then spent four years in the south of France and another year in London at his studies. Miss Nicol is spending this week-end at Lawsonia on Green lake in Wisconsin with Miss Jean Delaney and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Delaney.

Everett Wedding at Holland, Mich.

Miss Everett's engagement to the son of Mrs. Joseph A. Tobin of Los Angeles, Cal., is being announced by her mother, Mrs. John C. Everett of Chicago and Holland, Mich. The wedding will take place in Holland at the end of September. Miss Everett and her fiancé and her sister, Mrs. Roger Quincy White, and Mr. White, who live in Chicago, are spending this week-end with Mrs. Everett in Holland. Walker Everett, Miss Everett's and Mrs. White's only brother, will join the family from South Bend, Ind., where he is living.

Miss Everett, always known as Bobby, attended the University School for Girls and has spent much time traveling in Europe and the orient with her mother. She is a provisional member of the Chicago Junior league.

Mr. Tobin has been working in Buenos Aires for the last ten years, but recently he has been transferred to London. He is a Princeton graduate.

Two Weddings on North Shore Today.

Two weddings of interest are taking place on the north shore today, those of Miss Thyrza Brookfield Shumway and Robert Lazier Elliott Jr., and Miss Shirley Ross and Arthur R. Dean.

Miss Shumway and Mr. Elliott will be married at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Shumway's mother, Mrs. Philip Raymond Shumway, at 1605 Hinman avenue in Evanston. Just the members of the families will be present at the ceremony, at which the Rev. Gardner MacWhorter will officiate.

Philip B. Shumway will give his sister in marriage. Miss Joan Elliott, sister of the bridegroom, will be Miss Shumway's only attendant. John Brookfield Shumway will attend Mr. Elliott. Mr. Elliott and his bride will make their home in Evanston.

Ross Nuptials in Kenilworth.

The garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde P. Ross in Kenilworth will be the setting for the wedding of their daughter, Shirley, to Mr. Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Dean of Winnetka. The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock, with the Rev. Edwin B. Dean of Lincoln, Neb., the bridegroom's uncle, officiating. Only relatives and a few close friends of Miss Ross and Mr. Dean are being invited to the ceremony and the reception following.

Mrs. E. Lee Talman of La Grange, Ga., the former Ainslie Puhl of La Grange, Ill., will be Miss Ross' matron of honor. They were roommates at Mount Vernon seminary. Three year old Nancy Talman will be the flower girl. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Herbert Nye [Constance Wallerich] of Oak Park, and Miss Sally Clover of Glencoe. Theodore Matthieson of Winnetka will be best man for Mr. Dean, and the ushers will be Lynn A. Williams Jr. and Carleton T. Ross, brother of Miss Ross.

Mr. Dean and his bride will go to Canada on their wedding trip and upon their return they will be at home in Barrington.

Grandsons Will Give Party at Meeker Home.

There will be a birthday party at the Arthur Meekers' home, Constantia, in Santa Barbara, this afternoon, but Mr. Meeker will not be there to enjoy it, for he is in Chicago. He has been here for three weeks, but he is leaving tonight to rejoin Mrs. Meeker at their California home.

The birthday "children" are Horace Gray Jr., his brother Arthur, and their cousin, Ambrose Cramer Jr. Horace's birthday is today, Arthur's is soon, and Ambrose's was recently, so the three young men are celebrating together by entertaining about 125 of their friends at their grandparents' beautiful home.

Mr. and Mrs. Meeker will remain at Constantia until Oct. 1. Their son, Arthur Jr., will return to Chicago from abroad about the middle of October.

Four or five hundred spectators will be at the pool at the Exmoor Country club tomorrow afternoon to watch

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Close-Up of Luise Rainer

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 26.—"When I was 3, 4, 5 years old," recalled Luise Rainer, "my mother wore a black dress. We didn't have sugar or butter. We sometimes lived in the cellar for days and nights. First, it was the war, then the revolution that terrified us. We could not go to our schools because the schools were hospitals for soldiers, and the parks were full of scarred and crippled men. Wherever a child looked she saw wretchedness and black dresses.

Luise Rainer not temperamental.

"I think my childhood explains whatever I am today. I learned early to shrink away from the world. Instead of nursery rhymes we had the sound of marching men, the rattle of guns, terror, darkness. So a child had to learn to live within herself, create a world that was better than the one into which she had been born. War and revolution make a bad crib for a sensitive child."

"You must be sensitive to be an actress," she continued, earnestly. "But you need the skin of an elephant to withstand what goes with being an actress. I'm afraid to talk out here; everything you say is twisted out of all shape. I've been called spoiled, temperamental; I've been described as a communist—and my only offense has been that I'm scared to death of people. If I feel that a person doesn't like me I shrivel up inside and I can't act naturally. I can feel certain people erecting a wall against me in their minds—and I'm helpless. Perhaps if I were a man I could fight it out and say to them: 'I'm really a nice person. Try and like me.' Instead, I run away and cry and feel miserable."

We were sitting in Miss Rainer's Brentwood home. A sculptor had been interrupted in his work of modeling her head, and he regarded me with understandable indignation. "I have made busts of kings," he told me. "I have traveled thousands of miles to have her pose for me. I am lucky if I get five minutes a day. This Hollywood is a mad place, full of mad people. Telephones ring all day, people run here and there—it is a lunatic asylum, this town."

"In my second and third pictures I won Academy awards," said Miss Rainer. "Nothing worse could have happened to me. They finish me off before I even get started. I never have done anything superlatively well on the screen. I get all tightened up and self-conscious in front of a camera.

"On the European stage I had some talent. To do a whole play in one evening is stimulating. You know where to put the high points of a performance, where to insert the shadings. In the movies we make one scene today, a snatch of another scene tomorrow. We make the last scene first, the first scene last. By the time somebody else assembles the whole thing you learn that you have placed the wrong emphasis on certain scenes."

Sitting on the couch with her, as she talked, I was amazed at the offstage Rainer. Here was no languorous actress. Her movements were inexpressibly charming, as rapid and rhythmic as a bird wheeling and pivoting in air. Her eyes sparkled. There was a flush in her cheeks. Her face was a study in contrasting emotions. "If they ever photographed you as you are," I said, "you'd be the new sensation of pictures." She laughed: "How can you act naturally or move naturally when you have to toe a line on the floor, so that they can photograph you prettily?" She shook her head: "I must go back to the stage. There I am at home."

For those of you who have pictured Luise Rainer as spoiled, as a result of stories penned about her, I give you this portrait of her—the twice-winner of the Academy award protesting vigorously and honestly that she does not know how to act in the movies: "I envy those girls who can step out there in front of the camera and concentrate on what they are doing," she said. "I tried to do it, one day, for 'Toy Wife.' It was a sad scene, so I tried to think sad thoughts before the scene. To act sad, I have to feel it. The next day, there was a story in the papers that I was sulking on the set."

She leaned forward suddenly: "Will you promise to do me a favor?" I nodded: "The next time a foreign actress comes to your country, and you read that she is temperamental, don't take anybody's word for it. Go and interview her and you will find that she is scared, and confused, rather than temperamental.

"The language is confusing, too. In my own language, I can express certain shadings of thought; when a foreign actor or actress must talk English, it is only possible to say the bare necessities. . . . Picture Helen Hayes going to Vienna, and being interviewed, if she spoke German hauntingly, and you will understand what foreign performers are up against when they come to your country."

We rejoined the sculptor, on the patio porch. He had imprisoned, for all time, one fleeting moment in which Luise Rainer had turned her head suddenly. There was an arresting breathlessness to the sense of motion which he had captured: "Years ago I saw her on the stage in Vienna, and I promised myself that some day I'd get her to sit for me," he told me, when she went to answer the telephone.

"She's a fine actress," I said, to make conversation. "You should have seen her on the stage in Vienna," he protested. "What she has done in the cinema is nothing to what she can do. On the stage, she is a flame—you should see her in Pirandello's plays, or those of Shakespeare. You would not recognize her."

I laughed: "She's won the Academy award twice, so she must be pretty good on the screen, too."

The sculptor, dabbing a pinch of clay on the face which he had fashioned, said: "I do not know anything about such prizes. I only know that she is a far greater artist than Hollywood has permitted her to be. But then, this is a lunatic place."

BY ANNA NANGLE.

All the tremendous resources of one of the most important studios in Hollywood were at the command of the producers of this "Marie Antoinette." Taken in part from Stephen Zweig's thoughtful biography of the tragic queen, it portrays her not as the scornful, idle woman who suggested cake to peasants who cried out for lack of bread, but as the courageous, unhappy victim of uncontrollable circumstance.

Like a modern psychiatrist, Mr. Zweig probed for the reason why, and his résumé of her life is the understanding, kindly one presented.

The film is richly mounted, the cast an experienced one, and the director is the capable Van Dyke. It is lengthy, but Marie's life was a crowded one. While still in her teens she was sent to a new and strange country, pressed into an empty marriage with a boy who had no wish for a wife, buffeted by a vicious court life, forced to renounce the one man she really loved and finally blackened by unspeakable charges—her only real peace seems to have come when she knew that numbing death was near.

To me the finest characterization of the film is that of Robert Morley as Louis XVI. His difficult rôle of the inhibited, clumsy monarch, always cruelly out of his depth, is handled with a delicacy and skill which makes the poor lout lovable in the way that one loves and protects a hurt and backward child. Schildkraut is perfect as the slimy Orleans. Mr. Power is charming as the grave, honorable Fersen, who stood by without reward and devoted his life to his idealistic love of the dazzling queen. Years and sorrow do not appear to change him sufficiently, however, and at the end of the film he looks unbelievably youthful and fresh.

Miss Shearer is beautiful, glamorous in exquisite costumes, and delivers a smooth, capable performance. The scene in which her pitiful king has been executed builds up terrifically to the greater tragedy, when her little son is torn screaming from her arms, and Miss Shearer rises with it. Here vanity was ruthlessly sacrificed. The woman who goes to the guillotine is a wretched scarecrow. The entire house was openly and audibly moved at the showing I attended.

The film has all the attributes of success—a dramatic story set in a dramatic period, magnificent setting, an almost perfect cast. Its main difficulty seems to be in its considerable length and in the fact that the drama possible and present in the latter part seems to have been subordinated to lavishness in the opening half.

Clever Choice in Belts Bolsters Any Wardrobe

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Small stuff from the college collections . . . new, important, smart, high fashion finds that fit into any wardrobe! Belts are bright and effective. A simple dress can be made effective with the right belt. See the clever stainless steel numbers in half inch or slightly wider widths. You'll probably feel a bit hardware-ish, but they're new and exciting with woois, crêpe, or velveteens. They have a rigid look and shine effectively with all dark colors. They are priced around a dollar.

The widest belts and the most complete assortments of colors are found in soft suedes. The small compact buckles are covered with suede. Shiny lether belts, the width of good fat macaroni, come in all vivid colors. The ends are round, fat tubes and the fashion trick is to combine three or four around the waist.

Lovely off shades of blue, rose, jade, and pink suede belts are decorative because they are trimmed with cut out designs of pale gold or silver kidskin. Dog collar belts are prize finds for short swanky wool skirts and the sweaters that top them.

Flat purses, not much larger than a commercial size envelope, come in suede to match the belts, forming a duet for the college crowd as well as the appreciative career girls. Wine red, green, blue, or beige are attractive new fall shades.

You can achieve costume magic with a different looking belt. Don't banish a dated dress; a new belt can bring it up to the last gasp of fashion.

College Girls Are Indorsing the Value of Brushing the Hair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We were interested to read in a report on the college girl's beauty régime that the revival of hairbrush usage is accepted heartily. More time is allowed for hairbrushing, the girls report, than for any other beauty rite.

No better news has reached us in a long time. Our theory is that a girl who takes the time for her hairbrushing never will fall down on the other grooming details.

This is aside from the enormous value to scalp, hair, and face [yes, the face gets the benefit of that stimulated scalp circulation]. Long may the hairbrush brush in the named circles! The influence will be felt outside in this respect, as college girl clothes have affected our young moderns' dress.

Today we would add a few hints on how to flatter the face more with hair arrangements. Not new hair styles, but little tricks that help.

Many women nurse the illusion that hair at the sides of the face narrows the face. It doesn't. It widens it.

If the face is short, bangs should be avoided, as dips of hair on the forehead should be avoided, because they both further shorten the face.

Hair dressed down diagonally from a center part is invariably unbecoming. Lift it at the temples for a more youthful look.

Hard, tight waves are unflattering to every woman but particularly so to the woman with large or heavy features. The less curl and wave for her, the better—large, loose waves, anyway.

Modern Day Is No Deterrent to Wise Training

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The good old days, say many middle aged and elderly people, were the days when sturdy character could be built in children—but not any longer. Then there were things children had to do to help, and "filling the woodbox" is always listed as one of them.

Well, I admit that a more primitive way of living creates more hardships and the need of more physical industry. But to say that modern living provides no opportunity for the building of children's character is ridiculous. In fact, the very changed conditions we call modern living do, in the last analysis, probably provide more opportunity—and living well, in the finest sense of the word, probably requires more character than was needed in the "good old" and much simpler days.

Take what lies at hand in the way of material and immaterial things and provide your children, day by day, with the chance to build themselves into something constant and worth while. We can't really think, if we go below the surface, that modern life presents no opportunities for unselfishness and industry, for honor and self-denial, for bravery and adventure. If we look around us, at public and private lives, we know that that is not so. It is simply that the means to the end are different.

The thing that's necessary is that parents shall learn how to use the new conditions, the modern mode of life that lies at hand. But it can be done.

This, however, I will admit—the parents of today themselves need more character, need to use more thought and management to achieve their ends for their children than did the parents of previous generations. We today have to plan so that our children shall do things themselves and not have too many things done to them. We have to deal consciously with movies, radio, the need for companions, and for manual activity, and the wise use of leisure.

All we need to do is to care a lot, think some, and manage some, and we'll find that in most cases we have it within our power to provide a life for our children which gives them as many opportunities for the development of character as ever children had in the good days of many chores.

Let's take what our day and generation furnish as the farmer's wife did with her meal sacks—and use it with purpose for our children.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If ever you have reached your doorstep at the end of a day, world weary and with a positive feeling that your eyes have turned into two balls of fire, you'll appreciate the soothing ways of a good eye bath.

We've been putting one lotion to the test after some long hours of eye abuse, and have found it so effective in relieving the irritation that it goes down on our list of necessities. We're told that it is the formula of an eye specialist. In any case, it is one item of an unquestionably pure line of cosmetic preparations designed for sensitive skins. It has a cool, restful fragrance that makes it a pleasure to use and with the first whiff sends fatigue well on its way.

First, give your eyes a bath. Included with a bottle of lotion is a white composition eye cup which has its own little cover as a protection against dirt. Roll the eyes so as to wash out any bit of dirt that is clinging to the delicate membrane.

As an antiseptic precaution, do not use the same lotion for both eyes.

To sooth the burning lids, take pads of cotton and wring them out in hot water. Pour enough lotion on the pads to thoroughly saturate them and place them over the eyes. Rest a few minutes. Take a nap if you can. The warm pads and the soothing lotion tend to waft away the stinging sensation that reaches down to your heels. Follow this with pads wrung out of cold water. You'll find this simple routine will do much to erase the strained look that accompanies tired eyes, and to restore their sparkle.

Even strong eyes can be strained to their limit and such strain tells the old story—crinkles and wrinkles where they are not wanted. Be kind to your eyes, for they put in long hours of service and are one of your greatest beauty assets. And eyes without luster are no asset.

Eye lotions have no therapeutic purpose. The right method of cleansing is eye protection and beautification, but actual eye disorders require the attention of an eye specialist.

FLORENCE MURDOCH.

THE STAGE

"On Borrowed Time," a play that had a striking success in New York last season and is still in performance there, will begin a Chicago engagement in the Selwyn theater on Sept. 26. The original cast will come here with Dudley Digges, Frank Conroy, and Peter Holden in the central roles. The play is a dramatization by Paul Osborn of a novel of the same title by Lawrence Edward Watkin.

Jane Froman of Radio Soloist at Grant Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A blue clad lady with a brilliant smile and a rich chocolatey voice held the stage of the Grant park band shell last night. And "held" is used advisedly, for the plaudits of the throng compelled her to stay out there until she had doubled her scheduled stint of song.

She is Jane Froman, big time radio singer. Quite fittingly, she was supported by Leroy Shield's NBC orchestra.

Jane Froman is one of those people who use every endowment of their personalities to sell their songs. Things like "Bill," "Why Was I Born?," "The Man I Love," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," and "Always" were done with such caressing earnestness and with such a wealth of expressive inflection that even we old bluenose critics caught ourselves wondering whether there may not be something to this popular stuff after all.

Undoubtedly there would be something to it—if singers possessed of Miss Froman's astonishing endowments would only show a little restraint sometimes in the use of inflection. Probably it does not matter with most tunes, but when something as good as "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" comes along it would be great sport to hear a quiet, legitimate performance of it.

This round rich voice of hers—a voice that is produced with admirable ease and is capable of a bewildering amount of color variety—could tear out even the bluenose's heart by a performance of a good popular tune. If the changes in tempo were of a moderate sort and sprang from the demands of the music, if the exaggerated effects of dynamics and color were replaced by something which permitted the long melodic lines to remain recognizable—then the performance as a whole would gain rather than lose in expressiveness. But Miss Froman seems to have got along very well so far without any bluenose counsel.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary interest in him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne looks forward to receiving her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family, to the ranch as paying guests. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes which he claims are on his property. Riding alone Anne is thrown from her horse. Walking back to the ranch she is rescued by Steve from a maddened steer. Whitey, who is secretly in love with Anne, is rude to Steve. That night Anne overhears Tim and Whitey talking over the danger of gunplay. She decides to call on Collins and try diplomacy, but is greeted by open hostility. Gwen tries to smooth things over, but tells Anne she is engaged to Steve. Whitey drives Anne into town to pick up her trunk. They decide to stay for a local dance.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

A LOCAL DANCE.

It seemed to Anne that she had never dressed for a dance with such a thrilling sense of anticipation. In spite of reminding herself at frequent stern intervals that it was a matter of complete indifference to her whether Steve was there or not, her inner excitement persisted.

Critically surveying herself in the shabby hotel mirror, Anne put the finishing touches to her hair. She had chosen a simple dress of green crossbar organdie, which she had taken to the laundry to be pressed that afternoon. Crisp and fresh, her image smiled back at her with frank approval.

Whitey's eyes reflected the approval a hundred-fold when Anne came down to meet him in the hotel lobby.

Anne gazed through the open door into the dance hall with a feeling of adventure. After all these weeks of hard work, the prospect of some fun was exhilarating. The rhythm of the music made her blood run faster and her feet tapped to the time.

The rough hall she looked into was a riot of movement and color. The whole tempo of it was set to a high pitch of gaiety and hilarity. Festoons of colored paper hung from the rough beams and draped the coarse pine boards. The musicians were grouped in the middle of the hall, about a dilapidated upright piano. A husky girl in a bright red dress thumped it unmercifully, but with a stirring sense of time.

The fiddle, saxophone and drum contributed their share to the crashing foxtrot that seemed to shake the rafters with its rhythmic vibrations.

All ages were there. Anne's eyes crinkled with amusement as they wandered from the row of babies on piles of wraps in one corner to a bewhiskered old puncher cutting pigeon wings in another.

The dress was as varied as the ages. With a thankful feeling that her organdie was not out of place, Anne noted the dance frocks of the younger girls. Gingham house dresses were the rule with the older women, an apron here and there marking a member of the supper committee. Most of the men wore khaki trousers or blue jeans with gay colored shirts open at the throat.

"So you came to the dance after all! Well, well! Come and get acquainted with the folks!"

Anne turned to meet Bill Jennings' cynical smirk.

For a moment, she was tempted to a cold withdrawal. Then, realizing that that would be playing directly into the "stuck-up" reputation he was trying to brand her with, she accepted his invitation.

Her natural gaiety and candid enjoyment gradually dispersed the wary suspicion with which she was first regarded.

She was whirled from one partner to another at each break in the music. Cutting in had evidently not penetrated Red Butte, and it was some time before Whitey had a chance to claim her.

"I'll say you're making some hit!" he commented morosely.

"Do you really think they like me, Whitey?" Anne asked. "Everyone is being terribly nice. I wonder why Bill Jennings took so much trouble to introduce me? Perhaps we misjudged him."

"No, we didn't. My guess is that he figured you'd be kind of stiff and high-hat and that would cinch the notion that you were stuckup. You fooled him in that line, so now he's ridin' along on your popularity and takin' all the credit for it. Who you lookin' for?" He ended abruptly, feeling Anne's attention wander as her eyes searched the room.

"Why, nobody!" Anne shrugged the question away with a nervous laugh. "I suppose everyone who's coming is here by this time?"

"Sure, except perhaps Gwen Collins. She kind of likes to make a late entrance."

As though in answer to his words there was a breaking away at the door. The next instant, Gwen stepped into the hall with Steve beside her.

Anne's thoughts wheeled dizzily for a moment.

A sudden turn brought her directly opposite the newly arrived couple. She noted Steve's dark flush of surprise as he recognized her. The next moment Whitey had whirled her past, but not before she had caught the strange expression Steve flashed at her partner.

A prolonged beating of the drum brought the dance to a close.

"Supper!" Whitey announced. He grabbed Anne's arm and steered her to a seat by the wall. "I'll forage for grub, you stay here."

With amused acquiescence, Anne watched him join the stampede to the supper table.

"Not much like a New York dance, is it?"

Anne looked up to find Gwen standing beside her. Her dark eyes were brilliant and her cheeks matched the rose pink taffeta dress.

Ruefully admitting to herself that Gwen was as attractive in her evening clothes as she was in her cowgirl outfit, Anne tried to smile as naturally as possible.

"It's lots more fun. Aren't you late?"

"We started in plenty of time, but it took us ages to get here." There was no mistaking the meaning of Gwen's slow smile.

Anne felt a sick pang of jealousy and was furious with herself for feeling it. Before she could answer, Steve joined them.

"I'll bring the food over here."

"I told the Jacksons we'd eat with them," Gwen put a compelling hand on his arm, leading him away with a casual "see you later" to Anne.

It was all Anne could do to suppress a shudder at the sight of the piled up plate of ham and potato salad that Whitey held out to her.

Anne started at the voice. She glanced up to see Jake Collins' brown eyes fixed on her.

Whitey got to his feet, and Anne put a quick hand on his arm. At all costs, she must avoid a scene, on her first social appearance in Red Butte. At that moment the music started up again.

They whirled past the swaying figure.

"I ought to have given him a sock in the jaw!" Whitey declared regretfully. "If he talks to you again, I will!"

"That would do a lot of good right now!" Anne softened her sarcasm with a smile. "The longer we can keep from coming to a showdown with Jake Collins the better. Don't worry! I'll keep out of his way for the rest of the evening."

Ignoring the fact that the best method of keeping away from Jake Collins was to go home then and there, Anne stayed on. While she wouldn't admit it to herself, in her heart of hearts was the hope that Steve would ask her for a dance.

Anne had no lack of partners for the last half of the evening. With outward gaiety and sick inner disappointment, she changed from one pair of stalwart arms to another.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE SIMPLER LIFE

News for the Housewife

If you're tired of your kitchen color scheme and are about to embark on a new one, why not avail yourself of the lovely soft, light blue that is so smart now? Combine it with peach, or yellow, or cherry, or coral, or apricot.

This blue is to be had in all the enamel cooking utensils you'll be needing. There are extremely pretty ones that have the blue tops and white sides. Then you can get waterproof shelving fabrics in the blue and in blue printed patterns and little chair pads of this same color.

Linoleums, too, can be made to blend. You might use a gray or white marbleized linoleum, for example, with inlaid border strips of blue. Blue and white checked, ruffled curtains and blue and white towels would make nice accents in this scheme. EDITH WEIGLE.

Margery Nicol, Joan Everett Will Be Brides

one hundred junior swimmers and divers take part in 27 events in the third annual swimming meet at the Highland Park club. Miss Helen Gambrill, who on Sept. 7 will be making her formal bow to society at a tea at the Exmoor, will be taking part in the diving for 16 year olds and up.

Her younger sister, Joan, will be an entrant, too, in some of the events. Some of the other good swimmers and divers entered are Patricia Moore, 14, Bob Jackson, 16, and Ralph Cleary, 4½ years old, who is a little girl in spite of her name. Following the meet a buffet supper will be served and then Commander Ralph Ward will show a moving picture of the navy.

Teams from the north shore country clubs will meet at the Exmoor pool next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock for the preliminaries of a big interclub meet to be held at the Oak Park Country club on Sept. 4.

Thousand to Attend Fair to Benefit Opera.

More than 1,000 reservations have been made with John Denby Allen for the county fair to be given tomorrow at Allendale Farms, Mr. Allen's estate near Libertyville. Just to be on the safe side, the host is planning to barbecue enough meat and roast enough corn for 1,200 guests. The affair will be a benefit for the Chicago City Opera company.

Mrs. John L. Kellogg is chairman of a women's committee that has assisted Mr. Allen. She and her coworkers, including Mrs. Jason F. Whitney, Mrs. Richard Cooper Jr., Mrs. Charles B. Grayling, and Mrs. Ralph Mills, will assist Mrs. Allen in acting as hostesses tomorrow evening. Mrs. Allen is a bride, having been married just a few weeks ago in Des Moines, Ia. She formerly was Miss Edna Freed.

A croquet tournament, horseshoe pitching, an archery contest, a horse and cattle show, carnival features, and a streamlined opera performance are some of the entertainment planned.

Polo Tournaments to Open Tomorrow.

Two national polo tournaments known as the Intercircuit and 12 goal championship will start tomorrow. They will run for two weeks on the various fields of the Oak Brook Polo club, York road and 22d street, just north of Hinsdale. Before yesterday's pre-tournament matches, three in number, Paul Butler gave a luncheon for the captains of the Santa Barbara, Fort Sill, San Antonio, and Detroit teams at the Butler home in Hinsdale.

The captains of the three Chicago teams were among the guests. Tomorrow at dinner at the Oak Brook club house Mr. Butler and others of the Central Polo association, which is in charge of the tournament; James A. Hannah, president of Oak Brook, and other officials of the club, will be hosts to the competing players, their wives, and out of town guests.

Clow Family to Miss Braggiotti Concert.

It is doubtful if there will be a Clow in the audience in Grant park tomorrow night to hear Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti play, in spite of the fact that Mr. Braggiotti is married to the former Mary Melville Clow. But there will be thousands of other Chicagoans there. Mrs. Braggiotti will not accompany her husband and his pianist-partner east. They will arrive by plane tomorrow morning and return to Beverly Hills, Cal., Monday morning.

Mrs. Braggiotti's mother and sister, Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., and Mrs. Clow Laflin, are in Santa Monica, Cal. Mr. Clow Jr. is at the Island club in Wisconsin, and so are his brother and his wife, the Kent Clows. Mrs. Harry Clow and her daughter, Miss Helen Clow, are at Atlantic City and another daughter and son, Miss Marion Clow and Harry B. Clow Jr. and the latter's children are on a dude ranch in Wyoming.

The senior William E. Clows do not feel equal to getting into the crowd that they know will be in the park for the concert, but they are hoping to hear their granddaughter's husband and Mr. Fray on the radio in their home in Lake Forest.

Spoiled Wife Hunts Trouble with New Beau

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 36, but do not look it. My husband is a year older. I married him when I was 18. I never loved him. In fact, I never had any use for him, but he is good to me. He gives me plenty of money. But it is disagreeable to live with a man you don't love, regardless of how good he is. I am one who believes that love means more than money.

"Now, I have been going out with a fellow for almost a year. I know he loves me and that I love him. My husband knows it, too, and we have plenty of quarrels about my going out with him. I have asked my husband to leave me, but he won't. Now, this life is getting on my nerves. It's making all three lives miserable. The other fellow cannot marry me. He is only 25, but he looks older. He assures me that my age means nothing —only me." KAY.

Just another gal are you, Kay, raring for trouble. A nice comfortable berth to be had for good behavior—but you'd choose one at the other extreme. Are you serious, woman, or do you just like to talk about this young man conquest? There are women like you. Husbands far too good for them. Demand nothing of them. Spoil them when they should be giving them a good paddling or putting them to work. No children, we take it in your case, Kay. Nothing but your own selfish self to think about.

It's your kind who put the value on money and comforts over love. You would have walked out before if it wern't for the security you enjoy. You are not honest with yourself.

You probably have played that younger man into a hopeless entanglement. As an older woman can't you see how unscrupulous it is? Selfish? Cruel? Mean?

But why do we waste time talking to you? You'll do what suits your own selfish interests best. We don't believe in your love for the other man. You'd consider his youth, his future, if you did.

No, Kay, ours isn't the shoulder on which to come shedding your spoiled woman tears.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Knowing your public is interested in unusual hands, I am going to tell you of one that came up in our regular rubber bridge game. As I happened to be the hero, I naturally am proud of the hand. I had to use a double squeeze, plus a delayed finesse, which I believe is a little variation.

"South, dealer.

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | Pass | 3 spades | Pass |
| 4 spades | Pass | 4 no tr'p | Pass |
| 5 diamonds | Pass | 6 spades | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

"West opened a trump and, when the dummy appeared, it seemed to me that North had done some pretty tall bidding. It was true that he had three aces and good spade support, not to mention a couple of jacks, but I had given no encouragement after my opening bid, and there surely were a lot of losers in his hand. However, I saw that if I was lucky enough to find a couple of cards right, it would not be too difficult to make twelve tricks.

"I won the opening lead in my own hand, and laid down the club queen. If I had found the king on my left I could easily have established two club tricks for diamond discards, and then a heart finesse would bring me home. East, however, had the club king and, winning with it, shot back the diamond king. I won and now saw that I would have to find the club jack on my left. So, after laying down a high spade to draw the other outstanding trump, I led a club and finessed with the eight spot, which held. The club ace failed to drop the jack, but I still did not give up hope. I discarded a diamond on the club ace and then ran off trumps, until my own hand was one spade, the Q-6 of hearts, and the 10 of diamonds. I had reduced dummy to the A-J-4 of hearts and the 10 of clubs. Now, when I played the last spade, West was in trouble. At this point he held the K-10 and a low heart, and the jack of clubs. Naturally, he could not let go the club so he had to come down to the blank K-10 of hearts. Dummy's club having served its purpose, I then discarded it. Now it was East's turn to squirm. He could not let go the diamond queen [my ten would be good] and, therefore, he also had to reduce to two hearts. I led the heart queen and, when West covered, dummy's A-J-4 became good. Obviously, if West had not covered, I would have finessed with the same result.

"Of course, if West had had the hunch to open diamonds, the squeeze would have been impossible.

Undoubtedly the slam contract was ambitious, but at least it gave my correspondent the opportunity to distinguish himself in the play.

Both Fried and Baked Peaches Are Delicious

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Baked peaches are good, and so are fried ones. Melt a little butter in a heavy frying pan and place peach halves, cut side down, in the pan. Cook gently until soft, turn, and cook on the other side. Sprinkle well with sugar and continue the cooking until the sugar melts. Mm-mm! And are they good!

The American appetite for "hot dogs" has had a good effect on a number of industries. Bakers are kept busy providing the sandwich part of the favored snack. Carloads of mustard and piccalilli, to say nothing of carloads of onions, are sold to go into the billion and a half "hot dogs" sold annually. Since most of the casings for frankfurters come from sheep, "sheeping" [or doesn't one call the industry by that name?] also has received a boost.

Ice cubes of fruit juice instead of water won't dilute the punch. Make them with tea for iced tea, and with coffee for iced coffee, unless you prefer the beverage diluted. . . . Chocolate cornstarch pudding becomes "mocha" pudding if you use half coffee and half milk for the liquid. Try it with mint flavored whipped cream some time.

CAKE BAKING TEMPERATURES: Loaf cakes take a moderate oven, 350 degrees, layer cakes and cupcakes are best baked at 375 degrees. Often, however, chocolate layer cakes are baked at the lower 350 degrees temperature because of the fact that chocolate burns easily. Angel and sponge cakes always require a slow oven, 325 degrees. The old-fashioned habit of placing an angel or sponge cake in a cold oven now is frowned upon. Of course, there are experienced cooks who always have done this with good results, having learned intimately the ways of their ovens. They may skip this piece of advice: Always preheat the oven to 325 degrees for angel and sponge cakes.

HOW TO TAKE LUMPS OUT OF BROWN SUGAR: Heat the sugar very gently in a slow oven. It will soften as it warms. Rub it between the hands until it is free from lumps. To keep it soft, store in a tightly covered can or jar.

Butterscotch Tapioca

[Serves four]

2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
2 cups scalded milk
1 egg, beaten
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons butter

Add tapioca and salt to milk and cook in the top of a double boiler for 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Return to double boiler and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Melt butter and sugar together in a sauce pan and cook until the mixture bubbles and sugar is dissolved. Add to tapioca, stirring well. Chill, and serve with cream or top milk.

Knitted Sweater for Sports Adopts Ribbing for Chic

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

A few years ago there were definite styles for the young woman, for the young middle aged woman, and elderly matron, but now every garment is essentially youthful and, to all intents and purposes, these styles are suitable to all. The type and color of the materials are the present day criterion in all hand knitted garments. Gay, youthful, flecked yarns of both the crêpe and wool boucle types work up successfully for the very young. More conservative tones are available for those who still feel that vivid hues are for youth. The sweater illustrated is typically a sports model, done in ribbing of K2, P2 throughout. Small needles at the waistband are exchanged for a larger size, and the pattern is carried through the entire sweater. Instructions for knitting are available in sizes 14 and 16, and also 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

(For instructions for knitting the high necked, short sleeved, ribbed sweater, No. X50, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.)

ONE MORE DRILL BEFORE SQUAD BOARDS TRAIN

Work Tomorrow in Soldiers' Field.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ballston, Va., Aug. 26.—One more workout in the hills of Virginia and Washington's Redskins will move west to test the mettle of the 1938 College All-Star crop. A long rehersal behind locked gates this morning found the squad anxious to be on the way.

Lectures were held this afternoon and tonight and tomorrow morning Coach Ray Flaherty concludes the strenuous part of his preparatory program with another secret drill.

The Redskins will board a train late tomorrow afternoon. They will arrive in Chicago Sunday morning and work out in Soldiers' field in the afternoon in preparation for the game Wednesday evening.

Will Send Squad of 31.

Thirty-one players, including the four invalids, Sammy Baugh, Don Irwin, Ed Justice, and Turk Edwards, participated in today's drill. Flaherty originally had planned that only twenty-eight men would compose the squad for the final workouts and the trip to Chicago. But when he finally got down to the task of making a cut after a two hour conference with Assistant Coach Roy Baker late last night he could not make up his mind on half a dozen men, three of whom it had been planned to release. Five others were dropped.

They are Randall Bond, quarter back from Washington; Charlie Payne, full back from the University of Detroit; Milton Johnson, a tackle from New Hampshire recommended by George Sauer, the former Green Bay star; John Spirida of St. Anselm's college, who was with the squad last year, and Maurice Elder of Kansas State.

Bond Presents Problem.

Of the five, the case of Bond, a brother of Chuck Bond, veteran Redskin tackle, presented the greatest problem. Bond suffered a bruised knee early in the training period and has not been able to exhibit his true ability. He established himself as a sure handler of punts. Beyond that, however, Flaherty has not obtained an accurate line on him.

The three who escaped the ax last night, whoever they may be, must be dropped before the opening game of the season against Philadelphia on Sept. 11. Their release will bring the squad to twenty-eight. Andy Farkas of Detroit, who is with the Chicago All-Star squad, and Roy Young, a 220 pound tackle from Texas, who will play with the Dallas All-Stars, will be picked up on the road to bring the squad to the limit of thirty.

Justice to Get Pad.

Baugh, Irwin, and Edwards appeared fully recovered today. Justice was able to run signals and participate in a dummy scrimmage, but his shoulder still is so sore that his left arm is useless. He was sent to Baltimore this afternoon to be measured for a special pad, which it is hoped will permit him to participate in the All-Star game.

Last night's drill, held under the new lighting system installed by Park Manager Lu Blue, the former White Sox first baseman, was the best of the training period. It was cool enough for coats and sweaters and the players reacted enthusiastically. So did Washington fans. Three thousand, including most of Washington's baseball Senators, motored across the Potomac for a final look at their Redskins.

Special Train for Fans.

Approximately 100 fans will follow the Redskins to Chicago on a special train which leaves here Tuesday evening. Several hundred others will go west on planes, in automobiles and on regular trains. The Redskins' office has disposed of 600 tickets and reservations still are being made.

SOX JAR BOSTON, 12-2; THEN LOSE IN TENTH, 9 TO 8

Walker Leads Rampage in First Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—The White Sox turned loose a devastating attack in the first of today's pair of battles with the Red Sox and thereby spanked the domestics, 12 to 2, a matter highly pleasing for old Ted Lyons. The Chicagoans also started off with the same sort of scoring power in the second battle, but eventually began to crumple, John Rigney among them, and were nosed out in ten innings, 9 to 8, before a ladies' day assemblage of 26,000.

Although Rigney's pitching wasn't exactly dazzling in the second game he was slightly unfortunate. It was his bad luck to have James Dykes, the manager-second baseman, commit a boot which helped to melt down an early four run lead the Chicagoans had built up. It also was unfortunate that Rigney had to face Jim Foxx, whose second homer of the battle tied the score in the seventh and whose double assisted in putting the Red Sox in front for a few minutes in the eighth. The White Sox tied it in the ninth, whereupon Rookie Harry Boyles was dragged in to take the beating.

Walker Pounds Ball.

Lyons, not having to bear down much in the first game, was able to concentrate on his hitting. He fashioned his seventh victory with three hits of his own making. This pace, however, wasn't sufficient to eclipse nonstop Jerry Walker, who with a triple and two doubles drove in six runs in Lyons' behalf. He was heard from again when he opened the second engagement with a homer, but thereafter was checked except for two passes. He twice grounded into double plays when he could have done a lot of damage. One of the twin killings drove in his eighth run of the afternoon.

FIRST GAME

The four run blast which knocked Bagby out of action in the third inning of the first game opened with singles by Lyons and Kuhel. Owen tried to sacrifice, but forced Lyons at third. Walker offset this by tripling to right center, Kuhel and Owen scoring. Radcliff walked and when Appling singled to right Walker counted. Kreevich singled to left to score Radcliff. A pass to Dykes loaded the bases, so Bagby was removed and Baker was able to rescue his distressed mate by inducing Rensa to ground into a double play.

The Boston boys gave Lyons a two run jolt in their half of the third. All this happened after two were out on doubles by Vosmik and Foxx and a single by Cronin. The Chicagoans recovered their four run edge in the

BEAT DODGERS WITH A SIX RUN RALLY IN FIFTH

Trail Leaders by 5½ Games Now.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Leo Jr., the Cubs' lion hearted pennant bee, buzzed from his luxurious hive yesterday as Clay Bryant and his fellow Chicagoans beat the Dodgers, 7 to 3, to make another gain on the league leading Pirates and to take undisputed possession of third place.

The Cubs have gained three games on the Pirates in two days to cut the leaders' margin to 5½ games [it was nine a week ago this evening] and in the same two days they also have gained three games on the Reds to supplant the Cincinnatians in third place. They gained on the Giants yesterday to move within a game of second place.

Four Straight!

Yesterday's ground gaining success ran the Cub winning streak to four straight, one from the Giants and three from the Dodgers. The Brooklyns, incidentally, have a five game losing streak on their hands, and just after they had been boasting of being 1938's bravest invaders of the west.

Bryant yielded ten hits in ringing up his twelfth victory of the season, but his control was good and he was in no danger after the Cubs broke through with a six run riot in the fifth inning. Bryant scored a run in the big fifth and in the sixth socked his No. 3 homer to conclude the Chicago scoring for the afternoon.

The Cubs have thirty-six more games to play. The Pirates have thirty-nine, the Giants thirty-eight, and the Reds thirty-six.

Here's What's Ahead.

Since the pennant bee is on the loose again, it may stimulate your fevers and chills to know what the lads face in their remaining three dozen encounters. So here's a table:

| | 1938 series —to date— Won. | Lost. | To play. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cubs vs. Pirates | 7 | 10 | 5 |
| Cubs vs. Giants | 10 | 10 | 2 |
| Cubs vs. Reds | 9 | 8 | 5 |
| Cubs vs. Bees | 10 | 7 | 5 |
| Cubs vs. Dodgers | 11 | 7 | 4 |
| Cubs vs. Cards | 6 | 7 | 9 |
| Cubs vs. Phillies | 12 | 4 | 6 |

| | 1938 series —to date— Won. | Lost. | To play. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pirates vs Giants | 9 | 6 | 7 |
| Pirates vs. Cubs | 10 | 7 | 5 |
| Pirates vs. Reds | 8 | 5 | 9 |
| Pirates vs. Bees | 11 | 8 | 3 |
| Pirates vs. Dodgers | 8 | 8 | 6 |
| Pirates vs. Cards | 13 | 4 | 5 |
| Pirates vs. Phillies | 10 | 8 | 4 |

Rosen Smacks Triple.

The run which the Dodgers made right off in the first inning on Rosen's triple and Hudson's single stood up for an exasperatingly long time, especially since encouraging scores against the Pirates and the Reds were being posted on the big board. In the first four innings the Cubs were held to a single by Jurges in the first inning and a single by Hack in the fourth. Both were lead-off hits, but there was no power to push the boys around.

Then came the enormous fifth. O'Dea started things with a single to right and he went to third on Collins' single to center. Lavagetto fumbled Bryant's grounder, O'Dea scoring the tying run. Jurges singled, loading the bases. Herman singled to center, scoring Collins and Bryant and putting Jurges on third. Hack singled to right, Jurges scoring, but when Herman tried to reach third he was out, Rosen to Lavagetto. Galan tripled to the right field wall, scoring Hack. Pressnell replaced Posedel and walked Reynolds. Hudson made a running catch of Cavarretta's foul and Galan scored after the catch. Reynolds reached second

Al Barbartsky Is a Nonchip Granite Tackle

BY HOWARD BARRY.

One of Fordham's "Seven Blocks of Granite" will reënforce the college All-Star line in Wednesday night's game with the Washington Redskins on Soldiers' field. This particular block weighs 210 pounds and his name is Al Barbartsky.

"I've been particularly anxious to see what I could do against the Redskins ever since I saw them beat the Giants," Barbartsky said yesterday. "The Redskin linemen were getting the jump on every play and by the time the Giants had recovered, a Washington half back would be on his way down the field. I think those Redskin backs can be stopped if the opposing linemen do a good job and I'd like nothing better than to try to do it."

Barbartsky will have his chance Wednesday night, and judging by his

Seven Down at 18 Holes, He Wins to Enter Golf Final

Cleveland, O., Aug. 26.—(AP)—A Cleveland WPA worker and a railroad man from Oregon fought their way into the finals of the National Public Links golf tournament today—with one of the victories representing the greatest comeback in the tournament's 17 year history.

Leach and Cyr will meet tomorrow in the 36 hole final. Leach, employed as a timekeeper by the Works Progress administration, crashed into the finals with a spectacular reversal of form. In the morning round he held the 16 year old Taro even for four holes and then he went to pieces before the Seattle youngster's steady game. At nine holes, Leach was three down, and at the end of 16 he trailed by eight holes, making one of them up by taking the 18th as Taro missed a short putt.

The 130 pound Leach halved the 19th and 20th holes and then won the next two with a par and a birdie.

Taro, with one out of bounds drive and several pulled seconds, lost the 24th and 25th before he steadied to take the 26th with a birdie. Leach picked up two more holes as Taro was short on the 27th and in a trap on the 29th. A great second shot led to a birdie and a victory for Leach on the 30th, and he was only one down.

After halving four holes Leach squared the match on the 35th with a par 4 as the obviously tired, nervous Taro failed to get on in two. On the 36th, Leach's drive bounced into and out of a creek and he was on in three and down with two putts. Taro, dubbing his second and pulling his third, was on in four and he missed an eight footer which would have kept him in the battle.

Mike Jacobs MakesGarden, Stadium Deals

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Mike Jacobs took steps to expand his fistic empire today by forming a virtual partnership with Madison Square Garden and serving notice that he plans to invade both Detroit and Chicago.

Last October, after two years of warfare, Jacobs went into the Garden on a rental basis. He paid the Garden $5,000 for each show he promoted and took his own losses.

Under the deal announced by Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, Garden president, the Garden will share in Jacobs' profits on all fights here and elsewhere and in return will go fifty-fifty on any losses.

Four Year Agreement.

The new contract supersedes the previous agreement which had until Oct. 1, 1939 to run.

"In other words," said Col. Kilpatrick, "we are leasing the Garden boxing privileges to Jacobs for a four year period ending May 31, 1942."

The deal makes the Garden a partner with Jacobs, although Col. Kilpatrick said he did not like the word partnership and preferred to refer to it as a "tenant-landlord" agreement.

After the conference Jacobs announced his plans for branching out by saying he has signed contracts to promote shows in both Chicago Stadium and the Olympia in Detroit this winter, and has been invited to try his luck in Philadelphia.

CONFIRMS STADIUM DEAL.

Stewart MacLeod, superintendent of Chicago Stadium, last night confirmed Mike Jacobs' announcement that he will take over boxing privileges in the west side arena. James Norris Jr., vice president and secretary of the Stadium, will be the nominal promoter to comply with the state law providing that promoters must be residents of the state for at least one year. Norris also controls the Detroit Olympia.

SPILL SPURS ON BOBBY CONLEY; WINS 3 RACES

Run Great Western and Ravisloe Today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A big race crowd at Washington Park yesterday came to the conclusion during the afternoon that Jocky Bobby Conley, under contract to Bennett Creech, is a young man of iron nerve.

This crowd had watched Conley win the first race on the heavily backed favorite, China Boy. It had watched him fall on Sunny Mac in the second race in the nastiest spill of the Chicago season, when three horses and their riders went groveling into the dirt directly in front of the clubhouse just after they had passed the finish line.

The horrified crowd believed that horses and jockies had all been seriously injured or killed.

As it happened, horses and jockies were neither killed nor seriously injured. Herman West, who was on Royal Lill, was kicked in the back and a late examination was expected to show that he had suffered a fractured rib.

The Lad Has Nerve.

Jocky J. G. Wilson, who was tossed out of his saddle when Busse Trumpet stumbled, was only slightly bruised. Conley was uninjured and walked back to the scales. He wasn't even nervous.

The best evidence is that he climbed into the saddle on Sister Polly in the third race and was an easy winner. In the fourth race his mount was Barbara A. Once more he was first past the winning post.

Conley tried desperately to win the Midway purse at a mile and seventy yards, which was the day's feature race. His mount Woodsia wasn't quite good enough. Imperial Scout put on a fast rally in the stretch and got up in the final strides to beat the even money favorite, Chance Star, by a length. Conley and Woodsia were two lengths back of these leaders in third place.

McCombs Adds to Lead.

Ken McCombs was in the saddle on Imperial Scout and one of his most finished rides made the victory possible. He pulled away into a lead of four winning mounts over Nunzio Pariso. McCombs will go to Detroit to ride today, but will return to Washington Park on Monday to resume his battle with Pariso.

The crowd at Washington Park today will witness the running of the Great Western Handicap and the Ravisloe stakes. The former is a handicap for older horses at a mile and a furlong. The latter is fashioned for 2 year olds. Each carries an added money prize of $2,500.

The Great Western, at a mile and a furlong, drew nine probable starters, headed by the Valdina Farm entry of Eagle Pass and Diavolo Boy and Joe De Sopo's improved Tunica.

Others named are William Maloney's Her Reigh, Lawrence Barker's Sumatra III., Mose Goldblatt's Dnieper, Clarence Davison's Chance Ray, Young & Rogers' Safe and Sound, and Morris Vehon's Invincible.

Ravisloe Has Good Field.

The Ravisloe, which has attracted the best juvenile field of the meeting, is headed by the name of the Walmac Farm's Olney, winner of his only start in impressive fashion and a likely short priced favorite for his first stake appearance. Meeting Olney will be Morris Vehon's Smart Trick, winner of the Prairie State Stakes two weeks ago over many of the same 2 year olds; the King Ranch's Ciencia, second in the Prairie State; the Valdina entry of Viscounty and Range Dust; W. H. Whitehouse's American Byrd, and the LeMar Stock Farm's Matchup, second to Olney in his last race.

There was still another accident just before the start of the seventh race. While the horses were at the post Inscomira became unruly and tossed Jocky George South out of the saddle with such force that he suffered a wrenched knee. Jocky McCoy was substituted and South taken to the emergency hospital. Inscomira never figured in the final outcome, which found Col. Joe, named after Joe Allen the Cincinnati plunger, the winner, with Bobbrax second and Grand Day third.

FEREBEE PLEADS HE'S TOO BUSY FOR GOLF MARATHON

The question as to whether J. Smith Ferebee or Mrs. Josephine Baltrusis can shoot more holes of golf in a day probably will never be settled. Ferebee, who recently shot 144 holes, said yesterday that he thought it unlikely he would be able to accept a challenge from Mrs. Baltrusis, golfing housewife.

"It's not a question of not wanting to play," Ferebee said. "I think it would be fun. But there's the pressure of business, and the fact that I'm called out of town so much. It would be pretty hard to arrange. Of course, I may decide to take her up, but I doubt it. I still want to talk with a couple of my friends and see what they advise."

"I admire his sportsmanship," she said, "and I'd like to play him some sort of match, even if we couldn't make it an endurance one. Maybe if no one will take my challenge I'll have to try to beat my own record. In fact I may possibly try it again Tuesday. But I don't blame Mr. Ferebee. After all he can't be the clown of La Salle street."

on the throw to the plate. O'Dea, who started the rally, also ended it with a bouncer to Hudson.

The remaining Cub run was Bryant's homer, knocked with one out in the sixth. The Dodgers scored in the seventh on doubles by Lavagetto and Pressnell and in the eighth on a walk to Camilli and a single by Koy.

"Prof." Jack Sterrett, who has taken a nation-wide ribbing this year in his capacity as the most active operative of P. K. Wrigley's baseball science squad, has resigned.

Sterrett joined the Cubs when they reported at Catalina Island last February. Since then he has been present at every game at home and abroad gathering scientific data, taking slow motion pictures, psychoanalizing, and what not.

When Prof. Jack first joined up in California it was reported he had been hired by Mr. Wrigley to discover and analyze color as applied to ball players. Later the wider scope of his work was revealed. He tabulated pitches, hit and unhit, and flooded Mr. Wrigley with all manner of statistics, many of which, it is said, were illustrated with still photos, movies, and even phrenological charts.

Mr. Wrigley, after firing Charley Grimm, was quoted as saying that one of the reasons the Cubs had flopped was because of Larry French's home run ball, of which he had slow movies. Prof. Sterrett took those pictures. Mr. Sterrett, rated a fine gent despite his snoopy assignment, will go back to basketball coaching.

Charley Root, who pitched a masterful game to accomplish a 26 putout shutout of the Giants in his last appearance, the only trouble being that the Giants made six runs on one putout before he took over, probably will pitch this afternoon's final against the Dodgers, starting from scratch. Freddy Fitzsimmons is slated to work for the Dodgers.

Dizzy Dean's last three unveilings have been on Saturdays and there was some thought of holding unveiling No. 10 this afternoon. But with the pennant bee starting to buzz again, artistic tableaux probably will be suspended for awhile.

Ohioans Win U. S. Titles in Trapshooting

Vandalia, O., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Ortello William [Ted] West, 45 year old county highway superintendent from Coshocton, O., won the grand American handicap trapshoot today and Mrs. George Peters of Springfield, O., won in the feminine division of the clay target world series.

West and Mrs. Peters were forced into extra heats to win. West defeated Parr Rhines, 37 year old hardware merchant of Marseilles, Ill., in a shootoff, 23 to 22, after they had tied at 99 of 100 in the big classic to outshoot a field of 811. The victory was worth about $3,000.

Mrs. Peters Wins Shootoff.

Mrs. Peters' had to shoot it out with Mrs. Lela Hall, four time national clay target champion from Strasburg, Mo., after they had tied at 93 of 100. The champion of the Ohio women cracked twenty-four in the shootoff while Mrs. Hall, twice winner of the women's grand, broke twenty-two. Mrs. Peters is the daughter of Charles [Sparrow] Young, who scored an equally startling victory in 1926 when he cracked 100 in a row from the 23 yard mark to capture the grand American.

Hiestand Takes All-Around Title.

In today's firing the professional handicap title went to J. B. Grier of Rockland, Del., who broke ninety-six from 25 yards.

Joe Hiestand, the Hillsboro, O., sharpshooter who crashed through 966 16 yard targets without a miss to provide the annual tourney's biggest sensation, finished with the all-around championship, including 600 targets at 16 yards, 100 doubles targets, and 200 at handicaps.

ARMOUR MISSION TO BE REBUILT FOR STUDENT USE

Institute of Technology's Oldest Structure.

BY AL CHASE.

Work has been started on reconstructing the oldest building on the Armour Institute of Technology campus. The Armour Mission, at the southeast corner of 33d and Federal streets, will be rebuilt into a student union building. It will be student administered. Fifty thousand dollars will be spent in modernizing the 57 year old structure.

An addition will be built to house the kitchen of a modern cafeteria to be installed. There will be two smaller private dining rooms on the first floor. The building will contain a faculty grill, the Faculty club, and the book store.

Auditorium and Ballroom.

On the second floor of the student union house will be a modernized combination auditorium and dance floor. There also will be two large conference rooms. The entire third floor will be used for student commons room.

According to Jerrold Lobl, Chicago architect, acting head of the institute's department of architecture, the rebuilding will be finished early in October. He drew the plans in collaboration with Norman Schlossman. The R. C. Wieboldt company has the general contract.

The $50,000 cost will be financed, according to a plan of the board of trustees, by issuing interest bearing debenture bonds to be retired in seven to ten years.

Fees Will Pay Part.

It is proposed to add $3 a semester to each student's fee to pay the interest and retire the bonds. Ten thousand dollars of the cost will be donated by the alumni.

The remodeling program was outlined last May, when it was approved by the executive committee of the board of trustees. James D. Cunningham is chairman of the board.

The Mission building was originally conceived by Joseph F. Armour in 1881 and completed in 1886 by his brother, Philip D. Armour, founder of the institute. It first opened as a Sunday school in connection with the extension activities of Plymouth church. In later years it was used for classrooms.

New York City Sells 30 Million Bill Issue

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—An issue of $30,000,000 New York City revenue bills was sold today by Controler Joseph D. McGoldrick. It was allotted to twenty-six banks and trust companies at an interest rate of 0.35 per cent. The issue is dated Aug. 29 and payable Nov. 1 from the Oct. 1 tax instalment.

U. S. WILL BUY UP WHEAT FOR EXPORT, RELIEF

Wallace Announces Subsidy Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today announced government purchases of wheat immediately for export and relief distribution without limit.

Sec. Wallace.

The wheat will be purchased by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation and is the first step in the wheat export subsidy program to be announced soon, according to Agricultural Adjustment administration officials. Invitations were telegraphed to grain dealers to offer wheat for sale today, tomorrow, and Monday.

Export Sales Method Withheld.

Wallace did not announce the method to be used in disposing of the grain abroad and other officials declined to discuss that phase of the program.

Expectations are, however, that the wheat will be offered on the world market at whatever price it will bring. Losses will be charged against the AAA.

Officials said the agriculture department had about $25,000,000 available to meet any losses that might be incurred. The money would be taken from $143,000,000 in customs receipts which congress appropriated for the removal of agricultural surpluses from regular markets.

At the present time, wheat prices in the midwestern grain belt average about 11 cents a bushel above Liverpool prices, considering shipping, insurance, handling charges and import duties.

Called Emergency Measure.

Officials described the buying and export arrangement as an "emergency" measure designed to prevent loss of American wheat markets to other major wheat producing countries, several of which have announced they would subsidize exports.

Such an export system as that outlined reliably would be similar to the one which Canada, this country's strongest competitor, has announced it will use to stimulate sales of its heavy crop. The Canadian government will buy wheat from farmers at a fixed price and sell it in foreign markets, at lower prices if necessary.

Agricultural officials have been deeply concerned recently over the turn that economic planning has taken. After five years of "adjusting," which included animal and crop destruction to remove surpluses, the AAA is again faced with surpluses and low prices. The Roosevelt depression has accelerated the decline in prices.

Works on Export Plan.

In order to improve the wheat situation, Wallace is working on a wheat export subsidy. He aims at exporting at least 100 million bushels of the estimated 325 million bushel American surplus. But Canada also has a surplus of 250 million bushels, so cooperation is sought with the dominion.

Wallace left for Canada today in order to fulfill this purpose. He will discuss plans for subsidizing American wheat exports before a meeting of the International Conference of Agricultural Economists at St. Anne de Bellevue.

The secretary said he hoped his talk would lead to a closer understanding between the United States and Canada on the export problem. He also expressed the hope that the two countries could coöperate on an export policy.

Seeks Wheat Outlet Abroad.

However, the United States is determined to find a foreign outlet for at least the 100 million bushels of wheat, Wallace said. It was indicated that his talk would include the proposal of international coöperation between exporting nations in the sharing of world markets.

There is likely to be considerable competition for the world market, however. The import needs of the entire world are estimated at 500 million bushels this season. The combined surpluses of the United States and Canada are more than sufficient to fill this demand. Besides, there are other surplus producing wheat countries which have another 400 million bushels available for export.

CHICAGO LACKS GRADES.

Almost no wheat of the grades specified by the government in its wheat buying program is available in Chicago, cash grain men at the Chicago Board of Trade said yesterday. Practically all of the federal buying is expected to take place in th Pacific northwest or in the southwestern states, where the specified grades are stored in large quantities.

U.S., New York Join to Rule Milk Market

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Marketing of milk in the world's richest market—the New York metropolitan area—was brought under the joint control of the federal government and New York state today by a marketing order approved by Secretary Wallace and New York Agriculture Commissioner Holton V. Noyes.

The order, designed to stabilize marketing conditions in New York, fixes minimum prices to be paid producers serving the area. It is effective Sept. 1.

Erskine M. Harmon, marketing specialist with the agricultural adjustment administration, was appointed administrator of the program which will affect about 60,000 dairymen in seven states. His salary was fixed at $7,500 a year.

Will Fix Minimum Prices.

Harmon, a former professor at the University of Missouri, will be empowered to fix minimum prices to producers according to a formula established in the marketing agreement, and to require periodic reports from dealers showing purchases and disposition of milk received from producers.

The entire cost of the administration of the program is placed on the handlers, who will pay up to 2 cents a hundred pounds for this service.

The order defined the New York metropolitan marketing area as New York city, Suffolk, Nassau, and Westchester counties.

Promulgation of the marketing order followed overwhelming approval of the program at a referendum conducted last week in New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Maryland among dairymen serving the New York market.

Producers Request Program.

The AAA said the marketing program was requested by New York producers because of chaotic conditions in the metropolitan market, where prices have ranged from $1.30 to $1.70 a hundred pounds.

Minimum prices for Class 1 fluid milk to producers under the marketing program will range from $1.30 to $3.25 a hundred pounds, based on the price of 92 score butter at New York. On the basis of present butter prices at New York, the price of Class 1 fluid milk when the order becomes effective will be $2.45 a hundred pounds.

The AAA officials emphasized the program in no way fixes prices to consumers nor regulates production by dairymen. It merely established minimum prices to be paid producers for nine classifications of milk and provides a marketwide pool arrangement to assure uniform prices to all dairymen.

Poor Families Hit Most.

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Most affected by the new milk marketing order will be the 1,000,000 New York consumers in the low income group who now buy their milk at eight and nine cents a quart.

Their milk cost will be boosted at least three cents a quart, it was estimated here. Although no official announcement has been made, it was understood that the 1,400,000 quarts of milk delivered to homes every day will go up 1¼ to 1½ cents a quart. This milk includes principally that sold by Sheffield's and Borden's, the two biggest distributors.

Julius Marcus, head of Municipal Farms, Inc., an independent milk company, and who is president of Milk Industries, Inc., said the 3 cent price rise in 8 cent milk was inevitable. His organization represents forty-six small dealers who sell 95 per cent of the 1,100,000 quarts daily of 8 cent milk.

MIDWEST STORE SALES ARE 12.1% BELOW YEAR AGO

The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday that department store sales in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district during the week ended Aug. 20 were 12.1 per cent below those of the corresponding week last year. The decline from a year ago was the smallest in several weeks, bank officials said.

In the preceding week sales of department stores in the district were 17.8 per cent below those of the like 1937 period. In the week ended Aug. 6 the sales were 13.2 per cent under 1937. They were 16 per cent off in the week ended July 30, and in the week ended July 23 they were 14.7 per cent lower than in the corresponding period of 1937.

Sales of Chicago department stores were 10.3 per cent lower than in the similar week a year ago. Sales in the week ended Aug. 13 were 14.8 per cent below a year ago. However, in the week ended Aug. 6 sales were only 7.8 per cent under those of the like week last year.

GOLD CONTINUES TO POUR INTO UNITED STATES

Foreign gold shipments totaling $14,839,280 were received yesterday. The engagement of an additional $2,100,000 in England for shipment to the United States was reported by the New York Reserve bank.

Gold shipments received in New York yesterday included $2,699,275 from Canada, $2,561,755 from Holland, and $3,731,250 from Sweden. Another shipments of $5,847,000 of gold arrived at San Francisco from Japan.

Foreign currencies were mostly lower in terms of the dollar on foreign exchange dealings yesterday. The British pound closed 7-16 cent lower at $4.87 9-16. The French franc declined 0.00 3-16 to 2.73 7-16 cents.

The price of gold in the London market was 142 shillings 7 pence an ounce, 1½ pence above Thursday's quotation. The London price was equivalent to $34.78.

Mexican Press Hits U. S. Note on Land Grab

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—Mexican newspapers today strongly attacked the United States note that insisted upon arbitration or prompt and adequate payment for American owned properties seized. The note was published in full.

The newspapers Grafico and Novedades assailed the note as an attempt to violate Mexican sovereignty. Ultimas Noticias characterized it as a "terrible, acrid document in which the strong attempt to exercise force upon the weak."

Many persons regarded these editorials as an attempt to force President Lazaro Cardenas to refuse the arbitration proposals. The opinion is freely expressed in private that Secretary of State Cordell Hull's demands have put President Cardenas in a dilemma.

Cardenas Faces Problem.

Cardenas would lose national prestige by backtracking upon all his public declarations and policies through accepting arbitration. On the other hand, if he defies the United States, which no Mexican president has ever done successfully, he would alienate the more conservative elements in Mexico and face possible reprisals.

According to many opinions in political circles, the United States note makes vaccilation impossible and has finally driven home to Mexicans generally that the United States does not approve of the President's extreme nationalization without payment course.

New Seizures Are Denied.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A report by a news agency that there had been further large seizures of American owned land in Mexico disturbed Secretary of State Cordell Hull today. At first it appeared as though some $25,000,000 of property had been taken in Chihuahua immediately following Hull's strong request in his note that seizures cease.

As later details of the affair arrived, it was evident that the expropriations had been made over a period of months and were not a new development.

NEW FINANCING RISES FOR WEEK; ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—New security offerings for the week amounted to $123,234,585, compared with $39,313,390 the previous week and $42,586,995 the corresponding week last year, a compilation by Poor's Publishing company showed today. The comparative table showed:

BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE WORKS HEAD RESIGNS POST HELD 10 YEARS

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works for the last ten years, resigned today, effective Sept. 30.

George H. Houston.

The board of directors at its meeting in Philadelphia accepted the resignation and announced that Charles E. Brinley, a member of the board and of the executive committee, has been appointed an acting vice president with executive powers. Brinley will continue as president of the American Pulley company.

The directors also stated that all legal proceedings in connection with the reorganization of Baldwin Locomotive Works having been completed, an order for its final discharge from the court will be presented soon. It is expected that the final court order will have been entered before Houston relinquishes the presidency.

NEBRASKA FARMERS REJECT GOVERNMENT POTATO MARKET PLAN

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The proposed federal potato marketing program has been rejected by Nebraska potato growers, the state agricultural conservation program committee reported here today.

Balloting on the program was held in eleven producing counties of the state early this week. With unofficial returns now in from nine counties, the vote stands 882 to 161 against the program and the number of votes in the other two counties are insufficient to alter the outcome.

Similar referendums on the federal potato proposal have been or are being held in fifteen other states. New Jersey voted 249 to 70 against the program, according to returns announced Thursday.

New York Okays It by 2 Votes.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—By the narrow margin of two votes New York state farmers have approved a proposed federal potato marketing agreement, Cornell college of agriculture officials announced today. The vote was 786 to 390 in favor of the proposal. A two-thirds approval of those voting is necessary to make the agreement effective.

PLAN ATLANTIC REFINING ISSUE OF 25 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Atlantic Refining company of Philadelphia filed a registration statement with the securities commission today. It covers the intended issuance and sale of $25,000,000 of 15 year debentures. The interest rate on the debentures will be announced in an amendment to the statement.

The statement said that $16,200,000 of the net proceeds will be used to repay present bank loans. The balance will be added to the company's cash fund.

The company said that during the year ended June 30, 1938, it spent about $31,531,000 to acquire and develop crude oil production and reserves and to improve refining, marketing, and transportation facilities. It also said it intends to continue spending for such purposes, but that the total amount to be spent is not now determinable.

NAMES M'KINLAY AS RECEIVER FOR SECURITIES HOUSE

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday appointed Robert W. McKinlay receiver for the Fort Dearborn Securities corporation, 176 West Adams street. Investigators for the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office have estimated a $30,000 shortage in the company accounts.

The blue sky division raided the corporation offices Tuesday a few minutes after Leslie B. Krumsick, a vice president, was found dead in his automobile. He had committed suicide by inhaling carbon monoxide gas. Yesterday Attorney William Helfand filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition on the company's behalf. Assets and liabilities were not listed.

McKinlay's bond, as receiver, was set at $1,000. Last year McKinlay was acquitted of a charge of bribing a juror in the first embezzlement trial of Frank V. Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court.

Chicago Garment Concern and Union Sign Agreement

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The International Ladies Garment Workers' union, an affiliate of the C. I. O., and the Baum Brothers, Chicago, owners of the Brazil Garment factory, signed a two year contract today providing that the factory, closed more than a year, should be opened again next month. The contract also said the Baums' Chicago plant was to be moved here and made a part of the local factory. It provided for a wage scale beginning at $13 a week.

Hearst Publications Again Defers Class A Dividend

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Directors of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., today voted to defer payment of the quarterly dividend on the class A shares, due Sept. 15. The June 15 payment also was deferred. The last previous disbursement was a quarterly dividend of 43¾ cents paid March 15 last.

Better Balance in Control of Industry Urged

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The problem of maintaining a proper balance between free enterprise and business controls is the most important social problem of the age, Dean William H. Spencer of the University of Chicago school of business said yesterday. He spoke at the university's 193d convocation when 564 new degrees were conferred by Frederic Woodward, vice president of the university.

Dean W. H. Spencer.

"For the last seventy years or more," said Dean Spencer, "business men have resorted to various schemes — such as pooling arrangements, price agreements, trusts, holding companies, mergers, and other sinister machinations—with a view of rationalizing or eliminating competition. In these activities business men have been very serious offenders against the system of free enterprise about the future of which they are now so apprehensive.

Balance Between Two Sought.

"If we are interested in the preservation of democratic government, we cannot allow business to rid itself of its harness. If, on the other hand, we are interested in preserving a modified system of free enterprise, we must not place so much harness on self-interest that we shall unduly interfere with its efficiency as an organizing and coördinating force in our economic life. The problem of maintaining a proper balance between these extremes is the most important social problem of the age."

Dean Spencer advised the substitution of the word 'control' for the fighting word 'regimentation.'

"That which we call 'governmental regimentation of business,'" he said, "is merely a system of control. Whether wise or foolish, the system is designed to accomplish social objectives which the people through their chosen representatives have deemed desirable."

Analyzes Adam Smith System.

He analyzed the system of laissez faire which Adam Smith set forth in his classic, "Wealth of Nations," in 1776. This was conceived, he said, for a simple, nonmachine business régime, and it does not hold today in a complex technological age. The assumption of a free market, of equality of bargaining between buyers and sellers, between employers and employés, is no longer true, he declared.

He spoke of the protective tarif as inconsistent with this theory, and said that the system of free enterprise had ceased to work because business had been unwilling to submit to its basic conditions.

"Most of us, I think, feel that external control is a fine thing for others, but superfluous for us," he said.

JOBS, WAGES DIP IN 7TH RESERVE DISTRICT IN JULY

July employment and wage payments in the seventh reserve district [Chicago] were below the June level, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Illinois employment and pay rolls also declined according to data released by the state department of labor. The Illinois losses were not as great as those reported for the district, which includes most of five states.

The reserve bank showed declines of 2.6 per cent in July both in the number of workers employed and in wages paid. In the durable goods industries, the bank reported, employment fell 7.3 per cent and wages 7.8 per cent from the June totals.

The Illinois labor department reported that data gathered from 6,722 manufacturing and other employers in the state showed a decline in July employment of 1.4 per cent and a drop in wages of 1.2 per cent.

Mediation Board Adjourns Rail Hearings to Next Week

The national mediation board yesterday adjourned its hearings of the railroad wage dispute until early next week.

SINO-JAP WAR CUTS UTILITY'S QUARTER PROFIT

American & Foreign Power Earns Less.

The undeclared war in China reduced earnings of the American and Foreign Power Company, Inc., in the June quarter of this year. This was stated yesterday in the quarterly report of the company, a utility holding firm with operating subsidies in 962 communities in foreign countries.

Consolidated net income for the quarter declined to $1,580,847, compared with $1,889,348 in the June, 1937, quarter. The company's gross operating revenues were $14,827,465, against $16,004,347. After deducting operating expenses and taxes, net operating income was $4,712,415, against $5,255,208 in the second three months of last year.

Operations Suffer in Shanghai.

"The drop in net operating revenues," J. S. Carson, vice president, said, "is principally due to the effect of the Sino-Japanese conflict upon the company's subsidiaries operating in and adjacent to the International Settlement in Shanghai, China."

He said that $531,692 of the $542,793 decline in net operating revenues for the June quarter was accounted for by the Shanghai subsidiaries. The remaining $11,101 was largely the result of exchange fluctuations, Carson added.

"The decrease in net operating revenues of $1,680,650 for the twelve months ended June 30, 1938," he said, "is due to a drop of $2,015,157 in the operating results of the Shanghai subsidiaries, less an improvement of $334,507 in all other situations."

Coal Company Has Loss.

A leading anthracite producer, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron corporation, reported a loss of $7,643,120 for the twelve months ended June 30. This compared with a loss of $5,704,075 in the preceding twelve months.

Truax-Traer Coal company, bituminous coal producer, had a loss of $163,412 in the quarter ended July 31, compared with loss of $72,262 in the corresponding 1937 quarter.

Consolidated Oil corporation's net income for the first half of this year declined $4,000,341, compared with $9,434,917 in the first six months of 1937. Gross sales totaled $107,546,125, against $118,250,027 in the 1937 first half.

National Steel Car Corporation, Ltd., had a record net profit of $1,205,396, equal to $9.27 cents per share, in the fiscal year ended June 30. This compared with a net of $160,983, or $1.24 in the preceding year, and the previous high of $1,147,807 in 1930.

Motor Output Last Week Declines to 18,700 Units

There were 18,700 cars and trucks produced in American and Canadian automobile plants, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., estimated yesterday. In the preceding week of this year 23,940 units were produced,

Everyday Economics

Copies of the booklet, "Everyday Economics," may be purchased at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The price is 25 cents per copy—30 cents if sent by mail. This eighty-four page booklet contains simple explanations of financial and business terms and is a convenient guide to a fuller understanding of current economic and business news.

Wheat Surplus.

A wheat surplus of nearly a billion bushels is held this year by the principal exporting countries. This is about twice the estimated requirements of importing countries for the coming year.

The United States, which was importing wheat three years ago, today holds the largest export surplus in the world. It has about 325 million bushels more than is needed for normal domestic consumption and carryover. Canada has another 245 million bushels to sell to other countries. Other surplus producing countries have about 400 million bushels to sell.

The United States exported 98 million bushels of wheat last year, but is unlikely to sell as much this year unless the government decides to subsidize exports. Canada's crop failure last year gave the United States a natural opening in the world market. This year Canada is harvesting a good sized crop and other producing countries have larger supplies. As a result the United States faces greater competition for markets than a year ago.

Rail Officials Doubt Upturn in Fall Trafic

No real upturn in railroad freight trafic can be expected this fall. This was the opinion of many rail executives gathered in Washington yesterday for the monthly directors meeting of the Association of American Railroads. Most of the officials were not very optimistic as a result of small gains made by car loadings in recent weeks, pointing out that the loadings still are far below last year's levels.

A few, however, disagreed with the general opinion. J. B. Hill, president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, said that he expects a fall increase in freight trafic on his road. This month trafic has been running slightly below July, and about 16 per cent under the corresponding month last year, he said.

Conditions Better in West.

Conditions on the Pacific coast have shown marked improvement in recent weeks, according to Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific railroad. Loadings of the road last week reached a new high for the year, and are expected to continue at the increased rate, Holden said.

Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy road, placed his hope for further loadings gains in the exceptionally good corn crop grown this year in territory served by that carrier. Budd said that he believed low prices were responsible for the slump in grain shipments lately. Farmers are withholding the grain until prices advance, he said, and when the prices go up shipments also will increase.

Oppose Grain Rate Change.

The directors of the association voted opposition to a proposal by eastern railroads to reduce rates 10 cents a hundred pounds on grain reshipped from Chicago to North Atlantic ports for export. Officials of the association said the board's decision was not binding upon the eastern carriers, but that it was customary for carriers to defer to its judgment in such cases.

The eastern carriers proposed the reduction in an effort to recapture some of the grain transporting business from Great Lakes carriers. Some members of the association's board said they felt a reduction in rates to North Atlantic ports might disrupt the rate structure to gulf and South Atlantic ports.

Weeks Total Shows Gain.

The weekly report of the Association of American Railroads, issued yesterday, showed that revenue freight trafic during the week ended Aug. 20 was 1.4 per cent heavier than in the preceding week. A total of 597,918 freight cars were loaded by the nation's railroads, 8,357 cars more than in the week ended Aug. 13. Loadings, however, were 179,232 cars, or 18.7 per cent lower than in the corresponding 1937 week. They were 137,558 cars, or 23.1 per cent below the like week of 1936.

A decrease of 324,905 cars, or 35.2 per cent was shown as compared with 1930.

Loadings Compared.

CANCEL 3 OVER COUNTER SEC REGISTRATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission today announced the withdrawal of registrations by three Chicago over the counter brokers or dealers.

They included Marks, Laser & Co. and Victor D. Zeve. The SEC said that Zeve's request for withdrawal had been granted and that proceedings against him for revocation or suspension of his registration had been dismissed. The proceedings were brought against Zeve on the charge that he had willfully violated one of the commission's rules by failure to report the cancellation of his registration by the state of Illinois.

The registration of Russell, Brewster & Co. was also canceled because the firm has discontinued business.

Rails Urge Pennsylvania Man for Pension Board

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Association of American Railroads recommended today the appointment of M. Roland Reed, Harrisburg, Pa., as the railroad representative on the railroad retirement board. The act provides that the railroads, organized labor, and the public each have a representative on the board. The term of James A. Dailey, New York, now the railroad representative, expires within a few days. Reed is superintendent of motive power of the eastern division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

THREE CHICAGO RAILS REPORT INCOME GAINS

Burlington Likely to Regain Loss.

Most railroads reporting on July earnings yesterday showed net operating incomes below the amount for July, 1937. Among the exceptions were three Chicago railroads which made better showings in July this year than they did last year—the Burlington, Alton and North Western.

The Burlington net operating income in the month rose to $2,547,105, compared with $1,648,403 in July, 1937. This indicates the road's net loss for the first seven months of this year may be converted into a profit before the end of the year. The loss on July 31 was about $1,435,000.

Net operating income is income after payment of the costs of running the railroad and taxes but before payment of interest on bonds and other fixed charges. Net loss is after consideration for fixed charges.

Passenger Trafic Holds Well.

Among the reasons for the Burlington's improved showing in July were a 24 per cent increase in grain loadings, substantial savings in expenses, and lower tax accruals. A notable aspect of the Burlington's position is the manner in which its passenger revenues have stood up despite the general business decline. These revenues for the first seven months totaled $5,091,627, against $5,282,937 in the first seven months of 1937. The popularity of the high speed Zephyr trains is given as one big reason for the good passenger showing.

The Alton's net operating income for July showed a small increase over July, 1937, and the fact that it was made against the general trend was held to be encouraging. The Chicago and North Western had net operating income of $231,106 in July, 1938, in contrast to an operating loss of $304,982 in July, 1937.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—Leading stocks declined fractions to slightly more than a point as the market turned irregularly lower this afternoon. Pressure at no time was heavy. A brief attempt was made this morning to extend yesterday's afternoon rally, but by noon prices were back to or slightly below last night's close. Stocks drifted most of the afternoon.

Volume was moderate, a total of 821,810 shares changing hands. The most activity came in the first hour, when 310,000 shares were traded in the attempted push upward. Of 754 issues traded, 208 showed advances, 171 were unchanged, and 375 declined.

Rails were credited with being a major contributing factor in the reaction. The black spot in the rail picture—which gloom quickly permeated other sections of the market—was failure of freight car loadings to set a new high for the year.

Chrysler, General Motors, and several of the auto accessory shares rose fractions above previous highs for the year before slipping back. General Motors and most accessory shares held losses to fractions. Chrysler, however, closed a full point down.

Steels declined as much as any group. Most of this group yielded fractions, but United States Steel slipped 1 point and Bethlehem sagged 1¾.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Bonds moved in both directions today without getting anywhere. The market began to flounder when early improvement in corporate loans, extending the slow rise of recent sessions, brought out increased offerings.

At the finish gains and losses appeared to be about evenly divided, with few changes exceeding fractional limits in the active group. Some miscellaneous inactives recorded wider moves on both sides.

In United States governments interest remained at low ebb. Some treasuries sagged and the close was 4-32ds lower to 2-32ds higher.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks turned irregular yesterday in quiet trade. Turnover in Commonwealth Edison rights slumped to 17,200 from 65,700 on the preceding day. The rights were unchanged all day at 26 cents.

The first round lot sales of American Telephone since the stock was admitted to trading a week ago were made yesterday. The round lot volume was 200 shares, besides 57 shares in odd lots. The stock closed at 144¾. A total of 260 shares of United Air Lines, a new issue, was traded at 9½.

Volume aside from Edison rights was 19,000 shares, against 22,300 on the preceding day. The Tribune averages of 20 stocks closed at 11.70, off 0.08.

Bank Stocks.

Leading Chicago bank stocks were lower yesterday. Heaviest loser was American National Bank and Trust company stock, which dropped $15 to close at $210 bid, $220 asked price. One dealer, however, continued to quote the stock at the $225 bid price of Thursday. First National bank shares were $2 lower, and stock of the Northern Trust company closed $5 lower. Continental Illinois National shares slipped 50 cents. Chicago Title and Trust company shares dropped $1. The only gain of the day among leading issues was made by City National bank stock, which closed $1 higher at $118 bid, $122 asked.

VOTE DIVIDENDS ON MONTGOMERY WARD'S SHARES

Common Payment Continued at 25 Cent Rate.

Directors of Montgomery Ward & Co., large mail order house, yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. Payment will be made Oct. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 9. They also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the class A shares, payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 16.

A similar reduced dividend was paid July 15 on the common stock. Prior to that disbursement, dividends of 50 cents were paid each quarter.

The American Ice company, manufacturer of ice and refrigerating equipment, ordered a reduced dividend of 25 cents this quarter on its preferred shares. In the two preceding quarters 50 cents was paid. The last dividend declared on the common stock was 25 cents on Oct. 25, 1932.

Earnings Improve Recently.

Directors said the downward trend of earnings was reversed in the latter part of July, and present prospects point to better earnings this month than in August, 1937.

Dividends were resumed by the Mergenthaler Linotype company. A payment of 50 cents will be made Sept. 20 to holders of record Aug. 31. The last previous dividend was 50 cents on Dec. 15, 1937, the directors having deferred action thus far this year.

The usual preferred dividend of $1.37½ was declared payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 15 by the Bastian-Blessing company, manufacturers of acetylene welding apparatus and gas pressure regulating equipment. The reduced dividend of 25 cents again was ordered on the common stock.

With sales for the July quarter at the lowest level since 1932, directors of Rayonier, Inc., voted to defer the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents on the preferred stock.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Lighter receipts of hogs and lambs yesterday bolstered the markets for these at the stock yards yesterday. Cattle continued to drag and prices for steers and yearlings drifted lower again. Lambs met best demand, the top price moving up 10 cents to $9.10, the highest sale since Aug. 2. The clearance was the best of the week.

Business Bits

J. W. McIntosh.

Col. Joseph W. McIntosh, former controler of currency, was named a director of the Pure Oil company at a meeting of the board yesterday in Chicago. He succeeds the late Warren C. Fairbanks of Indianapolis. From 1920 to 1924 Col. McIntosh served as director of finance for the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet corporation. One of his most important assignments in the army was as chief of subsistence in the early part of 1918.

O. M. Benson, secretary of the Illinois Valley Manufacturers' club, La Salle, has been elected president of the Illinois Industrial council.

Traders Are Surprised by Export Plan.

North American wheat markets declined yesterday. All upturns brought in persistent selling by professional traders. Trading was less active than on Thursday. A large part of the business consisted of buying September wheat against sales of May by cash and elevator interests, presumably changing over hedges into the deferred future.

Closing trades on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of ⅝ to ¾ cent a bushel. Other markets declined ½ to ¾ cent a bushel.

Announcement Made After Close.

The government's plan for purchasing wheat for relief and export purposes was announced after the markets closed. The announcement was not expected by traders.

Reports from Ottawa indicating the Canadian government would refuse to coöperate with the United States in the wheat export subsidy program helped to create bearish sentiment. No sizable export sales were reported, either in Canadian or domestic grain. Cash wheat at Winnipeg was somewhat easier as compared with October. Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher.

Corn Futures Erratic.

Corn futures fluctuated in an erratic manner yesterday within a range of ¾ to 1 cent a bushel. Closing prices were unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower, the latter on December

Export sales of 300,000 bushels of corn were reported yesterday, making about 3,000,000 bushels sold during the last week.

Oats, rye and soy bean futures were somewhat easier in sympathy with other grains. Some buying of rye futures against sales of wheat by spreaders was noted.

U. S. WILL BUY UP WHEAT FOR EXPORT, RELIEF

Wallace Launches Vast Subsidy Plan.

They based this opinion on the fact that the grades wanted by the government are most desired by European importers.

Until the quantities of wheat to be bought are announced, grain men would not predict whether the buying program would provide much support to cash wheat prices. Because of the huge surplus supplies, large quantities would have to be bought to have a lasting effect, they believed. Recent estimates place the exportable surplus at about 302,000,000 bushels.

Some Board of Trade experts predicted that wheat futures prices might be stimulated, at least temporarily, by the federal program. This would result, they said, from buying of wheat futures to cover short sales previously made to protect cash grain held in storage. As the government buys the cash grain the hedges will be lifted.

Buying Order Comes Late.

Although a federal export subsidy plan has been a leading topic of discussion all week on the floor of the Board of Trade, announcement of details had not been expected so soon. A formal announcement of the offer to buy was received too late to be read on the floor of the exchange at the end of trading, as requested by the government.

Some grain men believe that the American government will export much of the wheat to the United Kingdom to help build up British war emergency reserves. Grades of wheat wanted by the American government have a high protein content and are needed by British millers to mix with the soft low protein wheat that the United Kingdom buys from Australia.
